The clock is ticking

By OAKLAND L. CHILDERS

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

IN THE YEAR 999, PEOPLE ALL over western Europe braced themselves for what they thought would be the end of the world in the year 1000, but little changed besides the date.

This time around, the coming of a new millennium poses a very real problem — one that could strike at random and spell disaster for almost everyone. Experts working to tame this monster call it Y2K, but the average person knows it as the year 2000 computer problem.

Dozens of persons are already working feverishly to beat the clock in Newark.

OFFICIALS FROM WILMAPCO PLAYED to a disappointing crowd this week when they sought input on the latest set of alternatives in the Newark/Elkton Long Range Intermodal Plan.

"At the last meeting in Elkton we had over 75 people," said senior planner Anthony Di Giacomo. "Maybe we need to advertise something dramatic like four new roads and two railroads in downtown Newark to get people here."

Some of the alternatives presented for the central business district in Newark include making the old Pomeroy Railroad line a one-way street

St. Mark's gets new principal

ST. MARK'S HIGH SCHOOL WILL BE getting its third principal in three years, according to Sr. Marie Vanston, IHM, present superintendent of Catholic Schools for the Diocese of Wilmington.

Vanston announced that Mark J. Freund, currently principal of Lebanon (Pa.) Catholic Junior-Senior High School, will take over at St. Mark's effective July 1.

He succeeds Dr. John Monnig, principal since 1995, who announced earlier this year he would be leaving. Monnig replaced Ronald Russo who had been principal at St. Mark's for 18 years. Russo went on to become principal of the new Wilmington Charter School.

Freund was the first lay principal in the 70-year history of Lebanon Catholic. The interparochial

City Council race now three-way

ANITA PUGLISI, WHO SAYS "my life is community activism," has decided to try again for elected office.

Puglisi filed on May 15 to run in the special election for the council seat in District 5, vacated after Hal Godwin became mayor in April.

Puglisi, who previously ran against Godwin and lost, said a lot of people asked her to run. "I would not have entered if I hadn't got a lot of encouragement and feedback from people," said Puglisi.

Abbotsford resident Scott Bowling and Woodmere resident John Farrell have also filed to run

Five caught at sobriety check

Officers from the Newark Police Department conducted a sobriety checkpoint from 11:30 p.m. on May 15 to 2:30 a.m. on May 16. Police said a total of 885 cars were diverted through the checkpoint and 25 drivers fieldtested. Five were charged with driving under the influence. Two persons were arrested for underage alcohol possession and several traffic citations were issued.

Party just keeps going on and on

to report on May 15 around 1:30 a.m. Jeffrey Hoban and Kenneth Jordan, both 19, were charged with a disorderly premises after police heard loud music and vulgar language coming from the residence.

In addition, 20-year-old Matthew S. Einolf was charged with underage consumption during the response. Outside, Rocco Malgiero, 23, was charged with a noise violation for yelling and hooting. James Solomon, 19, was pursued and arrested in a nearby parking lot after he shouted profanity at the police. Officers reported a large crowd was cheering him on and he was causing a public disturbance. Solomon was charged with underage consumption, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

Teen DUI on Main St.

On May 17 around 1:45 a.m., a 17-year-old Newark youth was charged with driving under the influence, underage consumption and zero tolerance after his vehicle was stopped by police on Main Street.

Construction tools taken from site

Contractors for Commonwealth Management at 123 E. Main St. told police unknown persons removed items from the construction site sometime between May 12 at 3:30 p.m. and May 13 at 7 a.m. Taken were tools and equipment belonging to the contractors valued at $1,866.

County Police seek suspect in connection with sexual assault of a 13 year-old

New Castle County Police are looking for a 20-year-old Middletown man for allegedly sexually assaulting a 13-year-old girl. The incident occurred during the months of September 1997 through January 1998. Francisco Rodriguez, with a last known address of Cole Boulevard in Middletown, is charged with nine counts of unlawful sexual intercourse in the 3rd degree. Police allege he sexually assaulted the victim at various locations in the Middletown area during the aforementioned times.

The incident was reported to police in February by a non-family member and friend of the victim. The investigation into the incident ended in March when the warrants were issued. Police believe that Rodriguez knows he is wanted and is avoiding authorities. Police are now asking for assistance from the public in locating Rodriguez.

Rodriguez, who also goes by the nickname "Tony Montana," is 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, and has dark hair and brown eyes. He is known to frequent the Middletown area. Anyone with information concerning his whereabouts is urged to call 571-7924.

Route 141 ramps will be closed through Aug.

The on-ramp to southbound Route 141 from eastbound and westbound Kirkwood Highway to southbound Route 141 will be closed through August 31. These closures are part of the on-going Route 141 road construction project. Detours will be posted and motorists are advised to expect delays when traveling through these areas.

Other traffic changes in the area include lane restrictions 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Possum Park and Paper Mill Roads (Milford Crossroads) through November 1998; lane restrictions during the day on Route 273 from Marrows Road to West Vaco's entrance, and on Salem Church Road from Route 40 to Rey-bold Road, to May 1999; lane restrictions 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Route 40 from Walther Road to US 1 through November 1998.

In addition, the entrance to Delaware Technical College from Route 7 is closed through Aug. 15, 1998.

Pfiesteria watch on in Delaware

Delaware will receive $200,000 and an additional $80,000 in funding for pfiesteria research from the Environment Protection Agency (EPA) and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency (NOAA).

Delaware's share was boosted to $280,000 at the urging of Congressman Michael N. Castle, because the mild, wet winter has created conditions that make pfiesteria outbreak more likely this year.

"Last year's pfiesteria outbreaks in Maryland were a humbling event for those in Washington," said Castle. "We realized just how little we knew about pfiesteria and harmful algal blooms."

To date, no outbreaks of the toxic microbe have been reported in Delaware waters.

Over the past year, Castle worked in Congress to provide $6 million in pfiesteria-related research funding for the two federal agencies.

Bulk trash pick up from rentals can be arranged

The city of Newark advises tenants of rental properties within the city that arrangements for the free collection of three bulk items can be made by calling the Public Works Department at 366-7045. These collections are made available to alleviate problems caused by old furniture and excessive trash that is abandoned by students as they leave for the summer.

Any pick-ups of more than three bulk items and/or items without scheduled appointments for pick-up will be collected on a fee basis. Scheduled pick-ups are available on a limited and first come/first serve basis. Items must be placed at the curb for pick-up no earlier than 6 p.m.

the day prior to the scheduled collection.

Excessive refuse, defined as an area 3 feet x 3 feet x 4 feet, if piled, or a maximum of four 32-gallon containers, or items which would take more than two minutes of collection time for one person, will be collected on a fee basis.

Owners/managers of rental units, defined as a single-family residence or one-half of a duplex house, have been notified of this collection criteria and invoices for the collections will be forwarded to their attention. Students who are in doubt as to whether or not their collection will be on a fee basis can contact the Public Works Department.

Christina School Board defines conduct code

Revisions made to district's policy

By PATRICIA KOLY

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE CHRISTINA SCHOOL BOARD unanimously approved revisions to the district's Code of Conduct after agreeing on definitions of some controversial terms.

Board member George E. Evans insisted "conspiracy" was too broad a word. He requested specific examples of the offense from Major Hairston, district administrator and chair of the Code of Conduct committee that recommends revisions annually. "We have to know what we're looking for," said Evans.

The definition of conspiracy now states "when two or more students intentionally lie, mislead, plan and carry out inappropriate behavior or give false information to hinder an investigation for a Level 2 or above offense." The board agreed to drop the word "conspire" but to leave the rest of the definition alone.

Hairston told the board "instigation, was added to the code because it's usually the same students who start fights. "They sit back and watch," said Hairston. "Youngsters set up other students and get away scott free."

School superintendent Nicholas A. Fischer agreed. "Any experienced principal will know who the instigators are," said Fischer. "Sometimes the conflict goes back four or five months."

Another addition to the code is threatening behavior to staff, defined as a threat to engage in menacing behavior that is violent or sexual in nature, without physical contact, that would likely cause offense, annoyance or alarm.

Fischer said school principals will determine what is menacing about the behavior, but board president Michael J. Guilfoyle said he has recently heard about gang behaviors occurring in schools and building administrators should "have some leverage to take action."

Fischer said the behavior must be "clearly menacing, not just irritating," to cause a student to get a criminal record. "We don't want to over-involve the police."

Evans said he was willing to let this issue rest for now, but that he still wants to see guidelines. "Let's hope the police don't turn off their phones," he said.

Brawl at Maxwell T's

For the second time in only three weeks, Newark Police found themselves greeted with flying bottles when they tried to disperse a large crowd.

According to Officer Mark Farrall, police were called to a large fight in progress at Maxwell T's on May 15 around 1 a.m. Farrall said officers found approximately 300 disorderly persons who began throwing bottles at the police.

Delaware State Police, New Castle County Police, University of Delaware Police, Elsmere Police and Newport Police were called to assist. Albert Yates, 21, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct after he failed to disperse as ordered.

On April 25, Newark Police had to call in officers from surrounding areas when approximately 500 rowdy students refused to leave a party on Elkton Road.

An ongoing investigation revealed that the fight on May 15 started inside the bar on North College Avenue. When employees tried to calm the situation, they were assaulted by patrons with bottles, pool balls, glasses, feet and hands.

One 26-year-old employee from Elkton was taken to Christiana Hospital and then transferred to Wilmington Hospital for emergency eye surgery after receiving lacerations to his face.

Other injuries included a 21-year-old Bear employee with lacerations to the back of his head, a cut on his shoulder and elbow, lumps on his head and neck and a sore jaw. A 20-year-old employee from Hagerstown, Md., and an 18-year-old from Wilmington each had lacerations on the back of the head. A 26-year-old and a 23-year-old employee, both from Newark, had sore ribs and an injured shoulder.

Farrall reported that while police were still on the scene at Maxwell T's, an 18-year-old man was apparently stabbed at the 7-Eleven on Elkton Road, a short distance from the bar.

"The victim bumped an unknown white man with sideburns and facial hair as he was leaving the store," reported Farrall. "He apologized and tried to walk away but the suspect said that wasn't good enough."

The teen felt himself struck from behind and then multiple suspects started hitting him. The victim was treated for a stab wound in his back.

According to Farrall, the suspects in the second incident matched the description of some of the people possibly involved in the bar fight.

On March 1, a 21-year-old Claymont man was stabbed in a parking lot across South College Avenue after a fight spilled out of Maxwell T's bar around 12:45 a.m.

Anyone with information about the recent fight at Maxwell T's or the incident at the 7-Eleven is asked to call Newark Police at 366-7111.

Unique summer math program scheduled for Univ. of Del.

Parents can keep their fourth through eighth graders busy this summer pondering how best to swamp a bedroom or split the profits from a sale of Beanie Babies. The University of Delaware's "mail-order math" program, "Solve It," offers such brain teasers beginning in June.

The University will mail mathematical riddles to the homes of participating children throughout the United States. Children will receive the packets of information by the 15th of June, July and August. Responses will be graded and returned to the children with comments.

Solve It creator William B. Moody, professor and interim chairperson of the University's educational development department, said family involvement is encouraged and the problems fit well with normal summer activities. "The program provides enrichment opportunities for students who enjoy working on challenging mathematical problems," he explained.

Past problems have asked students to calculate how many gallons of water it would take to fill their rooms, to compare how long it might take to fill a swimming pool with two different hoses, to poll people about their knowledge of the summer Olympics, and to describe a fair way to split up the profits obtained from a project involving the sale of Beanie Babies.

Each Solve It participant may choose problems from two difficulty levels. A specific University staff member follows each student's progress throughout the summer. At the end of the program, students completing all sets of problems receive a summary of their progress and a report on how well they performed, compared to other participants at the same grade level. Each child also receives a certificate of participation and a Solve It pin.

Registrations will be accepted through May 31. A set of sample problems and guidelines for participating will be mailed after registration is received. Cost for the program is $50. For $60 children can receive both levels of problems; however, only one may be returned for grading.

For more information, call the Solve It Office at UD at (302) 831-1658 or visit the Solve It Web Site at www.udel.edu/educ/solveit.htm.

Officials discuss traffic plan

▶ PLAN, from 1

across Newark, making South Chapel Street one-way south, and making Cleveland Avenue one-way west. "But these are only ideas, not proposals even, right now," Di Giacomo stressed.

Newark resident Robert Bennett objected to using the railway line for a new road. "I'd like to see a circular rail system for Newark using the Pomeroy line as a part," said Bennett, who also suggested the former Budd site might be a good place for a local transit center.

Ideas for alternative truck routes around Newark include Pleasant Valley Road to Elkton Road and then to Maryland Route 316. "That's not a likely one," said Di Giacomo, "because part of the route is a county road in Maryland and then goes into Pennsylvania."

Another alternative to get trucks off Route 896 in Delaware might be routing them east in Pennsylvania to Route 41 and then south into Delaware or Route 1 in Pennsylvania to Route 272 and then into Maryland.

Another idea was to extend the Christina Parkway north to intersect with Route 896. "We've discussed that with Jack Billingsley (chair of the Western Newark Traffic Relief Committee)," said Melvin Lehr, consultant for WILMAPCO from M.R. Lehr Associates.

Extending Cleveland Avenue across the railroad line to Route 273 at Marrows Road or a connector road from Paper Mill Road to Possum Park Road were also "put out for discussion."

Consultant Jim Hess admitted these ideas had some problems. "I realize there might be physical, environmental, and even neighborhood objections, but they're worth considering," Hess said.

Newark planning director Roy Lopata said he didn't see how WILMAPCO could take input with a handful of people. "We have 28,000 other people in Newark and 25 is not a good sample."

City councilmember Jerry Clifton said he would like to see the ideas discussed in a city council meeting. "We could ask each person to bring two recommendations for consideration," said Clifton.

Di Giacomo said he is considering Clifton's suggestion. The planners hope to have a preliminary set of recommendations for the long range plan ready for public comment by July.

SUN SHINES ON OUR PARADE

Temperatures soared and the sun shone brightly for Sunday's Memorial Day Parade in Newark. Perhaps because of the early date, attendance was a little lower than in previous years.

"The parade is held traditionally on the third Sunday in May to allow more participation by military and veterans organizations," said parade organizer Linda Burns.

This year the date came as early as it ever can on the calendar and there are five weekends in May. But despite the heat and competing local events like the LPGA Tournament, Burns said the people watching one of the biggest parades ever on Main Street were as enthusiastic as ever.

A highlight was the presentation by the U.S. Navy Drill Team from Washington, D.C., with participation by Chief William Hogan, Capt. William Nefosky and Officer Pat Craig of the Newark Police Department. Glasgow High School led the high school bands by taking the first-place trophy this year. Avon Grove (Pa.) High School Band took second place. There was no third place trophy awarded this year. As host band, Newark High School is not judged. "They looked great, though," said Burns. Christiana High School's band had to cancel for lack of available performers.

Avon Grove High took top honor for Best Drum Major. The Randolph-Macon Academy 91st Virginia Air Force Jr. ROTC Band, appearing in Newark for the first time, was judged Best Specialty Band.

Next year's parade takes place on May 18, 1999.

Everybody's racing to beat the potential 2000 computer disaster

school districts, is deep into revamping those systems.

According to Michael Mayew, manager of systems and programming for the Center, the problem is basically two fold. First, it is a hardware problem because in order to save disk space, programmers of early computers used only two digits to signify the year.

When reaching the end of 1999, the real time clocks could reset to the year 2000, 1900, or some other year. To further complicate things, 2000 is a leap year, which Mayew said may cause additional problems.

The second part of the problem involves software. People trying to run old programs on year 2000 compliant systems may run into problems, said Mayew.

The Center staff hopes to have the job completed by March 1999, allowing them almost a year to sort out any remaining problems. "There are going to be some old systems where we don't know what will happen," said Mayew. "When we get to the point that all the major applications are taken care of, then we'll worry about those little things."

City finance director George Sarris, leading Newark's effort, said that all three major systems will be year 2000 compliant in time.

An IBM system, used for revenue-generating systems such as utilities, licenses, and permits, was programed in an older computer language called Cobol. Many businesses with such systems have to hire programmers.

But Newark is lucky because the people who originally wrote the program in 1987 are still working for the city, saving Newark over $150,000. "Cobol programmers are rare and highly compensated," Sarris said.

Data processing manager Charles Angione and programmer Deborah Harrington have spent about 18 months on program issues relating to Newark's problem. The cost of replacing old hardware with year 2000 compliant hardware is about $25,000, Sarris said.

The Newark Police Department uses a rare McDonnell Douglas system for dispatch and police records. While the system is already year 2000 compliant, it is 10 years old and was scheduled previously for replacement due to its age.

“Our plan is that we will have fixed any year 2000 problem... by the end of 1998.”

SUSAN ALMENDINGER

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR FOR INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES

Sarris said the third system, which handles purchasing and payroll will be upgraded by the vendor under an annual fee, and will not cost the city any additional work or money.

The city also is replacing old PCs which are not year 2000 compliant. An on-going three-year program will eventually replace all of the problem computers.

Elevators, security, and heating and cooling systems that could be affected by the problem also are being reviewed and tested by the city or vendors, Sarris said.

The University of Delaware faced a fairly large problem, but since students who will graduate in 2000 were put into the computer in 1996, the University was forced to begin dealing with it early.

The process involves inventorying the University's various computer systems, locating and fixing any problems, and then artificially setting the internal clocks of the computers to the year 2000 to see if they continue to function properly. "There are just a few pieces left to fix," said Susan Almendinger, the University's assistant director for the information technologies help center. "We are 85 percent done."

The actual tests, done in what Almendinger calls a "real, live test environment," will begin in July 1998. When the systems are tested in this way, there is no reason to shut them down so students and staff will not be affected.

Almendinger said they also expect to have all non-compliant desktop computers at the University removed by 2000.

Most of the work to date has not cost the University anything outside its normal operating budget since software is replaced by vendors under contract. Software upgrades take place on a regular basis, Almendinger explained.

As of April, among the University systems not yet compliant were the UD#1 identification and debit cards, several budget programs, and loan management programs.

"Our plan is that we will have fixed any year 2000 problem and tested in a live 2000 environment by the end of 1998," said Almendinger. "I feel very good that we will make it."

Do-it-yourself: Year 2000

The problems associated with Y2K are enormous, and can seem overwhelming to the average PC owner.

Kathy Donovan, coordinator for Delaware's Office of Information Services, said the situation is nothing to be taken lightly. "Some people misunderstand what year 2000 compliance means," Donovan said, explaining many people think that buying a new computer will solve all their problems. "Just because you get a new pentium processor with Windows 95 doesn't mean there won't be problems. It's very pervasive."

For instance, Donovan said that computer companies often buy chips and other hardware from different sub-contractors, and so while one computer of the manufacturer may be compliant, another is not.

To more easily address

Y2K, the state of Delaware recently held a Year 2000 Forum where computer vendors, and representatives from state agencies, schools and the private sector met to discuss the problem and trade information.

Donovan also used the forum to dispel myths, including that it is safe to fly on December 31, 1999. "We just don't know," Donovan said ominously.

Another myth is that your money is guaranteed safe in a bank. "Wrong again," said Donovan.

For those who want to learn more, the OIS has set up a website at www.state.de.us/OIS/Y2000/welcom1.htm, to address Y2K myths, fears, and needs concerning computers in the year 2000.

Puglisi jumps in City Council election race

for the vacated council seat.

A 27-year resident of Newark, Puglisi said she probably would never have gotten so involved in the community if she had remained in Michigan. "It's easier to get the 'car' of people in Delaware because it's so small," she explained.

Puglisi is currently president of the League of Women Voters of New Castle County which she joined over 25 years ago. She also represents Newark on the Public Advisory Committee of the Wilmington Area Planning Council and is a board member of the Newark Housing Authority.

She is a former board member of the Newark Business Association and past president of the Nottingham Green Civic Association.

Among her top issues in Newark are responsible government, traffic congestion, promoting the Newark Downtown Partnership and continuing good relations between the city and the University of Delaware.

Puglisi is the mother of a daughter, married and living in Ohio, and a son presently attending the University of Delaware and a member of the Army Reserves.

Persons interested in running for the special election on June 30 must file nominating petitions by June 1.

Sensational headlines

AT FIRST GLANCE, ONE might conclude that the Wild West is reincarnating itself in Delaware.

The sensational tragedy in Academy Hill vaulted our hometown into the lead story spot on Philadelphia TV stations. A Saturday afternoon "riot" on Elkton Road provided juicy copy on a section front of the News Journal. This week comes word of all-out brawl inside Maxwell T's, a nightspot on North College College Avenue, that sent six bar employees to the hospital.

However, a close look at facts should provide some comfort to Newarkers. As bizarre and shocking as the Puglisi murder, rape and abduction was, it falls into the most dreaded classification of crimes: it was random and virtually unpreventable. Virtually no amount of police patrol or preventative measures could have averted it.

A sunny Saturday proved too hot to handle on April 25 when a crowd estimated at close to 2,000 students attended a beer party, thinly-disguised as a benefit for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. When police responded to noise complaints after several hours, all but a handful — somewhere between 40 and 200 — left without incident. Drunken belligerence by the remaining few sparked a messy melee.

This incident was handled correctly and the overwhelming percentage of party-goers left without incident. The "riot" only took place when a handful refused to follow police orders. And the bottle-throwing was quickly contained.

But there simply is no comparison with the recent ruckus at the Chapel Street bar. Although the investigation is continuing, it appears as though the fracas was started by non-students, possibly out-of-towners.

Talk to reasonable University of Delaware students and they'll most likely admit that it's harder to find a beer bash on Thursday nights than ever before. Enforcement of underage violations is strict and has been effective in reducing — not eliminating — over consumption by under 21 students. The work of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation committee has not yet affected a culture change in its efforts to curb binge drinking, but it has had a positive effect.

Somewhere, in the midst of all this bad news, Newarkers should find a sense of safety — as good as one can hope for in American society today.

The Battle of Dravosburg Bridge

By MARVIN H. HUMMEL

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Instead of being called the McKeesport-Dravosburg Bridge as it logically should have been, it was always just Dravosburg Bridge. The reason people gave for the single name was that the little hill town needed McKeesport for schools and stores—and McKeesport needed Dravosburg for—nothing!

Dravosburg homes were set on either side of the very steep road which made even the most powerful cars breathe hard in low gear on their way to Pittsburgh; and, on icy-snowy days, not even a military tank could have scaled its heights. McKeesporters didn't like Dravosburg, but no one I knew had gone there to find out why they didn't like it.

Their kids went to our high school because Dravosburg was too small to have its own senior high; and even though the kids were very nice, there was a problem. We played sports together as one team—but no one could date a girl on the other side of Dravosburg Bridge. If he did, even if he met her clandestinely in Pittsburgh, went to a movie with her there, then put her on a bus afterwards, the word always got out. He'd be found, alive but unconscious and all beat up, somewhere on the Dravosburg Bridge. Both sides, theirs and ours, protected the "women" this way, which was quite stupid and insulting.

After several weekends in a row left several guys from both sides as clumps of clothes out on the bridge, it was decided that a pitched battle was somehow required on the bridge itself and that it would be in the wee hours of the morning after parents went to bed and before they had to use the bridge to get to work. The time was set and both sides gave instructions for each "man" to bring his own weapon.

I didn't go and said I wouldn't. We were in a world war at the time, and I couldn't wait to enlist in it. The last thing I wanted to do was miss the REAL war because I had part of a baseball bat permanently lodged in my skull from the Battle of Dravosburg Bridge!!

Besides, I liked all the kids who admitted being from Dravosburg, so what was the point?

The weapons came from home and garage arsenals the guys' fathers called their tool boxes and car repair kits—hammers were quite popular and tire irons ranked right up there. Those guys who brought screw drivers would come up in the second wave, but nobody figured out what to do with the guy who brought a jigsaw. Desperate times require desperate measures, and besides, this was sort of a home militia thing.

At 2AM sharp, they were marching toward each other, prepared to do battle in the middle of the bridge. (Estimates of manpower ranged from 500 to 2000.) Before they could put the first hammer into somebody's skull, police from both towns came out from behind the center stanchions and vertical supports at the middle of the bridge, brandishing rifles and riot equipment. Daunted, both forces quickly turned around, first vowing to meet another bloody day. But they couldn't retreat—McKeesport police had come up behind and blocked that exit—and on the Dravosburg side, police had come onto the bridge behind the kids on that side, containing them. The only escape was to dive a prodigious, dangerous distance into black, ice-cold waters—or flap and pray for a wind under their arms.

OUT OF THE ATTIC

Over a week of rain recently may have felt like the deluge but Newark has seen lots worse. In the late 1980s at least one storm left flooded conditions at homes in the area. Here Paul Hoef of Newark climbed out of a pickup truck in William J. Casa-Pulla's driveway on Pleasant Valley Road along the Muddy Run, a branch of the Christina River. In an effort to provide more complete descriptions of our "Out of the Attic" photographs, volunteer historians of the society are identifying and researching the historic shots. Readers are encouraged to send old photos to the Newark Post, "Out of the Attic," 153 E. Chestnut Hill Rd., Newark 19713. Special care will be taken. For information, call 737-0724.

State line fight settled

The old controversy which has lasted many years due to what appears to have been a faulty survey made before the Revolution as to just who owns a small tract of land in the shape of a triangle lying in the corner marked by the state lines of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Delaware, has been legally settled once and for all by the signing yesterday by Governor Pinchot of an act passed by the General assembly of Pennsylvania.

In the act it is provided that all titles and liens affecting land in that tract which heretofore had been regarded to have belonged to Delaware shall revert back to Pennsylvania and such papers must undergo the formal transfer.

Newark's new fishing pond is rapidly nearing completion

The transformation of an old, disused "bottom" into a miniature lake with almost perfect natural surroundings—a real fisherman's paradise is the sight which greets the eye down at the Old Dayet Mill these days.

The dam proper is completed but for a small section over the small stream, and a few finishing touches along the top.

The natural beauty of the new fishing and boating site is by no means appreciated until a visit is paid.

Main Street spruce-up mullied by city

Efforts are underway to promote the beautification of the city's shopping areas.

According to Newark City Councilman James P. Neal (District 1), Newark's Community Development Committee, made up of representatives from the city, the merchants the University of Delaware and other interested citizens, is discussing the possibility of a "joint effort between the city and the merchants to make the town a more attractive place to shop."

Four from Newark High on Gold grid team

Newark High ends Church Corrigan, Pete Robinson, and Bill Russel, in addition to Yellowjacket guard Tom Estilow, have been selected for the 33-player Gold squad for the Aug. 21 All-Star Football Game.

The three Newark ends are among sixteen All-Staters who will suit up for the Gold.

The annual attraction, benefiting Delaware's mentally retarded, will be played in Delaware Stadium.

City's past, University's plans to be discussed

Two meetings next week could give residents a glimpse into the future of downtown Newark. One is intended to promote awareness of the city's past, the other looks ahead.

A meeting will be held at 7 p.m. to discuss the city's comprehensive plan dealing with preservation and some 40 buildings in the city that have been nominated for the National Historic Register, a few of which received the recognition.

On Thursday, University of Delaware officials will present preliminary plans for a new student center.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To: Editor
From: Thomas Telle Reynolds
Bear

Downtown Newark is not a good place for pedestrians. Along Main Street, the sidewalks are too narrow, there are numerous hidden driveways, and some very congested intersections. This is ironic, since there are a great many walkers and bicyclists in Newark and the surrounding areas.

There are solutions to this situation. Sidewalks should be widened — a width of about 25 feet would be just right for a city like Newark.

Driveways along Main Street should be eliminated, or minimized, and as far-fetched as this may sound, Main Street should be narrowed and speed bumps should be installed. Shade trees should be planted along Main Street and other streets where they are needed so that pedestrians can be shielded from the harsh rays of the sun.

The city of Newark, as well as all other cities and towns across America, belongs to the pedestrians. Cities should be less accommodating toward motor vehicles, and more accommodating toward pedestrians.

Catholic schools get new superintendent

Malone succeeds Sr. Lourdes Vanston, I.H.M.

James Malone, CFX, has been named superintendent of schools for the Diocese of Wilmington to succeed Sr. Marie Lourdes Vanston, I.H.M.

Malone, the founding school superintendent in the Diocese of Metuchen, N.J., where he served from 1982 to 1988, also served as school superintendent for two years in the Diocese of Portland, Ore.

"I am very excited and enthusiastic about Brother James Malone's appointment," said the Most Rev. Michael A. Saltarelli, Bishop of Wilmington. "He received a very strong recommendation from the Search Committee and brings a wealth of experience to his position."

Saltarelli added that he found Malone to be a "pleasant, outgoing, people-oriented" person.

A member of the Xaverian Brothers, Malone is currently director of staff development for Xaverian High School in Brooklyn, N.Y., and a consultant to Bishop Kearney High School in the same city. For the past 10 years, his focus has been development of community spirit within mostly lay-staffed schools and a focus on mission effectiveness.

Following his religious profession in 1961, he taught in various schools until being named assistant and later principal of Lansing Catholic High School in Michigan.

The new superintendent holds a masters degree in Catholic secondary education from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Vanston announced in January that she would step down in July for a year's sabbatical after seven years as diocesan school superintendent.

The Battle of Dravosburg Bridge

► HUMMEL, from 6

The bullhorn belched: "You are all under arrest! Conditions of your being let go are as follows: All weapons overboard." "Plop! Plop!" about a thousand times while kids moaned about facing their Dads when next they reached for the long-gone hammers. The bullho' continued: "You will all attend school in the morning! We will get your names and then release you. If you do not get to school and ON TIME, you will be arrested and prosecuted for several crimes. Once you are all certified as in school, the Chief of the Dravosburg Police and I will tear up these lists. Your parent~ will not be told THIS TIME!!! Hurry up home and get ready for school, kiddies!!"

Everybody made it to school, and only one "man" had been injured: Soupy Campbell. Desperate for a weapon, he had finally broken off a cast-iron leg to the kitchen stove, and, of course, had to throw it overboard. His dad, a notorious drunk, came home, saw the dangerous listing position of the stove, assumed his drinking had gone too far—and took the pledge then and there.

When Soupy came home and told him what had happened, his dad was so mad about taking the pledge under spurious circumstances that he worked over Soupy pretty badly. The kid said, "It was worth it, I guess. Dad said he took the pledge and he meant to keep his word forever, but that he might have to beat me up once in awhile."

Republicans propose to cut property taxes

House and Senate Republican lawmakers have proposed a major change in the way public schools are funded in Delaware. If adopted, the Republican plan would require the state to assume essentially all of the local share of school costs in grades K-12 in exchange for a dollar-for-dollar reduction in local school taxes. All state education mandates and standards would be covered as would certain other education expenses. Under the plan, residents would save an estimated $250 million in local property taxes at the end of the five-year phase-in period.

"This is the most advanced and promising education proposal of the decade, bar none," said State Representative Joseph DiPinto (R-Wilmington West).

Under the proposal, the person who presently pays $1,000 a year in school-related property taxes would see this tax reduced by $200 the first year, $400 the second year, $600 the third year, and so on through the fifth year.

State Senator Steven Amick (R-Newark) the Senate Minority Whip, said "This represents real and permanent tax relief that we have the opportunity to do and the obligation to provide."

State Senator Myrna Bair, the Senate Minority Leader said the beauty of the proposal rests with its simplicity. "We would begin by reducing the educational property tax the first year by using state funds to provide 20 percent of the local share of actual expenditures," said Bair. "In return, the local districts would cut their local property taxes an equivalent 20 percent. The districts do not lose any education dollars and the taxpayers get a 20 percent property tax cut every year for five years."

Legislators said that the plan is designed to provide local districts with the flexibility to meet local needs that gain the support of local taxpayers. "Although our proposal will not eliminate the option of local referenda, it will put in place a more equitable system where real needs are met in a timely and thorough fashion," said State Representative Richard Davis (R-Sherwood Forest).

Noting that some districts use local referenda to enhance salary and benefit packages for teachers, Davis said, "Our approach is designed to eliminate questions of equity among school districts since their supplement packages are different. We also hope to eliminate any questions about having to level up salaries or benefit inequities between school personnel and other state employees."

Davis, who chairs the Joint Finance Committee, was instrumental in developing the Republican education finance plan.

Avoid the fat free trap

YOU are shopping in the snack aisle and those boxes of chocolate cookies, crackers and cereal bars are bursting with nutritional claims, "fat free," "reduced fat," "99% fat free," "low fat." The question remains, if they are fat free or low fat or even reduced fat, can you eat these instead of their regular higher-fat cousins without gaining weight?

The answer lies in the calories. For all of us, calories still count.

Many people disregard this fact when making decisions about products. It is important to read the label.

by MARIA PIPPIDIS

Some fat-free products have more calories than the original product. The trap is that many people don't realize this and because the product is labeled "low-fat," they tend to eat more. They end up eating more calories than if they ate the regular product.

Recent research shows you may be able to better control your weight if you fill up on foods that have low caloric density. Foods that have below 750 calories per pound, like high fiber carbohydrates (potatoes, peas, beans, pasta, corn, rice, and cooked hot cereals), all fruits and vegetables, lean poultry and fish, and non-fat hard cheeses such as cheddar and mozzarella. These foods make you feel full faster, so you can eat fewer calories and still feel satisfied. Foods that are calorie dense, such as fat-free cookies, potato chips and bread, trick you into eating more of them to feel satisfied, causing you to overeat and consume a lot more calories.

Now you know why one of the potato chip commercials boasts "you can't eat just one!" Look on the label and compare calories to the weight of the serving size. To keep your caloric intake under 750 calories per pound shoot for per gram about 1 calorie or less or per ounce about 30 calories or less. For example, if a fat free cereal bar weighing 1 ounce contains 140 calo-

(Top): Rev. Eric Burton greets congregants at the door of tiny St. John's Church on New London Road where the members range from (middle) Lillian Gaines, one of the oldest, to (bottom) Minister Jerry White and the church youth group.

Newark church celebrates 150 years

By OAKLAND CHILDERS
NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

MINISTER JERRY White seems only vaguely proud of St. John's African Methodist Church, and almost indifferent to the fact that it is celebrating its 150th anniversary this year.

Nevertheless, White is full of zeal. He's just far more interested in the big picture - of what the church stands for in general.

"I feel more involved in something that has been going on longer than this church," said White, "and that is Christianity."

White personifies the feeling of "the church of new beginnings," standing on the corner of New London Road and Cleveland Avenue, where each week the Rev. Eric Burton relates that ageless message.

The small red brick structure is unassuming, with only two small, stained glass windows and an equally tiny sign to distinguish it.

Inside, the church is rather plain: clean and ordered, but not gaudy.

But as White puts it, it's the Creator of the building that is important.

In April,

the church began a year of celebration to commemorate its 150 years in the Newark community. Prior to the kick-off service, the congregation of about 70 members gathered in what four of the older members refer to as the "new" fellowship hall added on to the original structure in 1960.

The rest of the building, though remodeled, has been on the site since its dedication in 1870. Prior to that date, services were held in a log cabin on the site, according to Robert Anderson, principal of Glasgow High School and a member of the church.

Anderson said New London Road, now bustling with traffic, was a little-used dirt trail at that early time.

Over their meal, Anna and Dorothy Watson (no relation), Vera Harden and Lillian Gaines search their minds for the earliest pastor in their recollection. Their attempt is futile: none of them could possibly remember who the first pastor was. But they do know a little about the church's history.

The church was originally known as the African Union Church, then the First Colored Methodist Protestant Church. A framed document on the back wall of the sanctuary hearkens back to those times. It is an original set of rules dating from the early years of the church, and forbidding such acts as spitting on the floor or leaving in the middle of the service.

According to the Newark Historical Society, a group of 16 black residents first began meeting in a log house near where Cleveland Avenue later intersected with the road to New London. In 1866, they began to build the first church there, and by 1890, their numbers had swelled to almost 50. The distinctive brick that covers the outside was added in 1960, along with the hall in the rear.

Cloria Otis, head of the youth department at St. John's, said that the Year of Jubilee will be marked by many community events, concluding with a banquet in November. "It's not just the members' church," said Otis, "it's the community's church."

'Being small' gets big notice

Chris Oldham, 8, a third-grader at Marshall Elementary School, thinks it is fun to be small. Dragonfly, a magazine for young investigators, thought Oldham had a unique perspective on the topic - unique enough to publish his article, "Being Small" in their March/April edition.

"We try to select work with a unique outlook on one of our themes," said Carolyn Haynes, language arts editor for the magazine. "Chris expressed the benefits of being small in a 'child's voice.'"

The youthful aspiring professional writer said he was surprised and excited to be selected for publication. "My story was different from what other people said about being small," Oldham explained.

ries, it contains 2240 calories per pound (16 ounces/pound x 140 calories = 2240). This is not a good choice if you are trying to lose weight. Compare this to an apple that weighs 8 ounces for about 100 calories (160 calories per pound). Sure you can eat a few foods that may be high in caloric density but by keeping the average of what you eat on a daily basis fewer than 750 calories per pound you can feel satisfied and avoid the fat-free trap.

TV turnoff week at West Park Elementary

More than 150 students at West Park Place Elementary School "Turned Off" the television during National Turn Off TV Week this year. Local businesses such as the Christina Skating Center, The Delaware Art Museum and McDonald's helped to sponsor the third annual event for West Park. The PTA gave a free book to every child who successfully stayed "TV-free" during the week. Classroom teachers did complimentary activities, and each class that completed a lotto game, "Fun Things to do Besides Watch TV" received free ice cream. TV Free America reports that the average American child watches TV for an average of 1,500 hours per year and spends an average of 900 hours in school per year. The average parent spends 39.5 minutes per week in meaningful conversation with his or her children. 66 percent of American households regularly watch TV while eating dinner. A week without television allows families to re-examine the role that TV plays in their family lives, as well as do some alternative activities together. Parents reported they enjoyed doing puzzles, playing board games and taking walks with their children. Some admitted turning on the TV news after the children went to bed.

To CONTRIBUTE...

"Diversions" is compiled each week by Julia Sampson. Contributions are welcome but must arrive at our news office at least two weeks prior to publication. Mail to: "Diversions," Newark Post, 153 East Chestnut Hill Road, Newark, DE 19713, or facsimile 737-9019.

This is a photo of the State Hermitage Museum in St. Petersburg, Russia. The five buildings house one of the world's greatest collection of art treasures. The Neva River is in the foreground. The Hermitage is so huge, one must go across the river to the St. Peter and Paul Fortress Road to get it all in one picture.

A piece of the Hermitage coming to Delaware

I AM FORMULATING MY ideas and making notes for this column while standing on the banks of the Neva River in St. Petersburg, Russia. I am directly across from the greatest museum I have ever seen, The State Hermitage Museum, known simply as Hermitage. This museum and some others in the environs of St. Petersburg make up the reason why I have been absent from Newark for nine days, nine days I shall never forget.

In my notes I scrawled, "Never seen anything like this." It is even underlined! I would share with you a brief flashback in my life to help make the point.

I remember my first trip to the Delaware Art Museum as a child. I was certain this was the greatest museum in the world. I reasoned there is nothing else like this. Then Philip visited the Philadelphia Museum of Art on the Parkway in Philadelphia. Then I knew this was the greatest museum in the world. Then came the Metropolitan on Fifth Avenue in the city and then I knew this was... Then came England and then I knew...

Simply stated, don't try to compare Hermitage to any other museum. You are doomed to failure! I now know that for sure.

In an interview with Hermitage Director Dr. Mikhail Borisovich Piotrovsky, he explained that with all the holdings in the five huge buildings off Palace Square in St. Petersburg if you just spent one minute with each painting, sculpture, tapestry, jewelry, etc., working in eight hour shifts a day, it would take 21 years to see everything, just see it, not enjoy and savor it, just SEE it. He then looked at me and smiled and said in perfect English, "Of course by then we would have added a lot more pieces." I asked him if he had seen everything in Hermitage and he retorted, "No, of course not. I have only worked here since 1991." His broad, infectious grin let me know he was ready for my question.

But, you may wonder, why my interest in Hermitage, other than a general one in art, and why devote a column to it in the paper? The answer is easy, and like Dr. Piotrovsky, I am ready for it.

On August 1, at 800 South Madison Street in Wilmington, 14 galleries of works from Hermitage, the Russian National Archives and some other museums around St. Petersburg will open for you to see and enjoy. Having it so close for us all to see and enjoy is due to the dream and hard work of Jim Broughton, head of Broughton International. The exhibition is called "Nicholas and Alexandra: The Last Imperial Family of Tsarist Russia." It will be the first exhibition at the new First USA Riverfront Arts Center on the banks of the Christina River. What a way to open the new center!

The exhibit will be the first time many of the items have traveled out of Russia and some have never even been on display inside Russia. The focus of the entire art world will be on this peninsula from August 1 to December 31 of this year — and for good reason.

Nicholas and Alexandra will fill 14 galleries at the Riverfront Center. Tickets will be going on sale soon and, if the sales are like previous Broughton shows, a sell out will quickly happen. For information you may wish to call 302-777-7767 in Wilmington or Broughton International at 813-821-2277.

With all the art I have seen the past week in St. Petersburg, why an exhibit only on Nicholas and Alexandra? "It is an attempt to set the record straight on the last Romanoff Tsars," said Director Piotrovsky. "It is hard to love your family and be a good ruler too," he continued. "Nicholas and Alexandra couldn't communicate with others, not the army, not other nobles and certainly not with the people. It was like 20 years of being alone," the director concluded. Of course that lack of communication came to a head one October evening in the Winter Palace, the major building in Hermitage. It was the Communist Revolution.

Alexandra's diary was kept in English (she was a relative of Queen Victoria) as were many of the court records and they will be on display for us to see and to read next to the Christina River in Wilmington, August 1 to December 31.

In the weeks ahead I will have much more information including a gallery by gallery breakdown of what will be available for you to see. Make your plans early and get your tickets for what will clearly be an art event of a lifetime. It will definitely be the next best thing for going to St. Petersburg and spending 21 years to see most of it for yourself! I only had nine days and didn't see it all either. But you can bet I will see the Nicholas and Alexandra Exhibit when it comes to Wilmington.

Free hearing screenings at Christiana Care

Christiana Care will have a free hearing screening Thursday, May 28, 1 to 3 p. m. in Room 1200 at Christiana Hospital. The exam takes about 10 minutes. Hearing screenings are co-sponsored by SHHH (Self Help for Hard of Hearing People of Delaware) in recognition of May as Better Hearing and Speech Month.

For an appointment, call 428-4100. Walk-ins are also welcome.

Memorial service at Veterans Cemetery

The Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery will hold its Memorial Day Program on Saturday, May 30 at 1:30 p.m. The public is welcome at the event honoring Delaware veterans at the cemetery at 2465 Chesapeake City Road, Bear. Handicapped parking and toilet facilities are available.

UD outdoor pool opens

The University of Delaware's outdoor pool will open tomorrow. Cost for community members is $100 per individual or $190 for a family of four, with a $10 charge per person for additional family members.

Members must register in person and have photo IDs made. Registration is being held today from 2-5 p.m. and Tuesday to Friday, May 26-29 from 3 to 7 p.m.

After these dates, pool IDs will be made at the Student Services Building, 30 Lovett Ave. UD employees must show UD identification cards when applying for discounts.

Regular pool hours are Monday-Friday, May 25-June 12, noon-6 p.m.; June 15-Aug. 7, noon-8 p.m.; Mondays-Fridays, Aug. 10-28, noon-7:30 p.m.; Saturdays, Sundays and holidays May 23-Aug. 30, noon-7 p.m., except May 30 when the pool will be closed; and Labor Day weekend, Sept. 5-7, noon-7 p.m. For further information or a brochure, call 831-2868.

Newark Library children's programs

The Summer Reading Program and the "Read to Me" program will begin June 1 and end August 29. The "Read to Me" program is for children 2 to 6 years of age and the Summer Reading Program is for children ages 6 and older. Enrolling your child in this program is a way to encourage your child to read over summer vacation. Prizes are awarded after the child has read 10 books.

There will be programs for children of all ages on Wednesday mornings starting July 1. The summer programming brochure is available in the library.

Free HIV/AIDS resource guide offered

The Delaware HIV Consortium announced today that the 1998 Delaware HIV/AIDS Resource Guide is now available to the public. The directory will be provided free of charge to any person requesting it as a public service by the Delaware HIV Consortium.

For information about obtaining a free copy of the 1998 Delaware HIV/AIDS Resource Guide, call the Delaware HIV Consortium at 654-5471.

Iron Hill Brewery helps firefighters

Iron Hill Brewery & Restaurant is donating 10 percent of the proceeds from sales of their Fire Engine Red Ale to the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company. This is the second year the restaurant has brewed this ale and donated part of the proceeds to the fire company. They also donated a keg to the Firefighter's Chili Cook-Off that took place on May 9.

Last year Iron Hill raised more than $500 for the fire company.

AYUSA seeks host family

AYUSA (Academic Year in the U.S.A.) is seeking a host family for Russian, an exchange student from Ukraine. In 1990 Russian lost his left and right shins under a train and now uses prosthetic limbs. He is able to walk without difficulty, swim and compete in table tennis matches. Russian is also a winner of the Freedom Support Act Scholarship. He will be in the tenth grade and will have his own insurance and spending money. Anyone interested in hosting Russian or another student should call Barbara Overton at 610-532-7699, or Christa Andersen at 658-8771.

THE EDGE

HERE WE GO! If you like high school sports, then this is the week for you. State tournament games in baseball, softball, lacrosse and soccer will be everywhere over the next week. Local teams could have impacts in just about all of them as well. One sad note is that the baseball tournament's system of seeding teams is really screwed up. How about a little human input?

ALL THUMBS

UP: To the University of Delaware baseball team. The Blue Hens entered the conference tournament as favorites and won their way to the NCAA Tournament.

UP: To the Glasgow High boys track team. The Dragons got strong performances out of a lot of people and captured the Division I state track and field crown.

DOWN: To the system that gives Salesianum the top seed over St. Mark's in baseball, despite the Spartans going undefeated and beating Sallies twice.

HIGH FIVES

GAME OF THE WEEK

Glasgow High's and Caravel Academy's softball teams have a chance to be in the state quarterfinals Saturday afternoon. Wins there could advance each to a semifinal meeting against each other on Wednesday afternoon. The state championship game is next Saturday morning.

DID YOU HEAR?

It doesn't matter if you beat a team twice, go undefeated in your conference and go undefeated throughout the regular season, you're still not assured of being seeded ahead of a team that went .500 in your own league. Any system that allows that to happen, needs to be altered.

HENS ARE NCAA BOUND

UD tops Northeastern for crown

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The memory is officially gone.

The University of Delaware baseball team knocked off Northeastern 10-4 Saturday afternoon at Frawley Stadium to capture the championship of the America East conference and earn an automatic berth to the NCAA Tournament. The win improved the 21st ranked Hens' record to 43-8 on the season and helped get rid of the painful memory of being heavily favored and losing to the Huskies in last year's tournament. It also completed a three-game sweep through the conference tournament.

"When you come off a year like we had, it's nice for everybody," said Delaware coach Bob Hannah, who recorded his 981st career win. "It's always outstanding when these things happen — especially for the seniors."

The Blue Hens jumped on the Huskies early, scoring four times in the first inning. Delaware tacked on another run in the second inning to stretch the lead. Northeastern closed the gap to 5-4 but the Hens put the game away with two runs in each of the fifth and seventh innings.

Frank DiMaggio helped lead the offensive barrage with a two-run home run and a double.

In addition, local players Andre Duffie scored two runs while Kevin Mench scored a run and singled.

The win was special for both players.

"Last year's loss definitely helped us this year," said Duffie, a senior centerfielder, who played for Christiana High. "The seniors really stressed not looking ahead or being over-confident. We wanted to focus on each game individually."

Glasgow boys win state track title

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Glasgow racked up 160 team points as it crushed the competition to win the Division I boys state championship.

Glasgow won all three of the relays. In the 4X100 Joe swift, Isaac Allen, Gary Payne and Vince Giles recorded a time of 42.93 to beat out Dover, 43.63, and Newark 44.05. Swift and Giles then combined with Marlon Weir and Darius Crawley to record a time of 1:30.00, winning the 4x200. The Dragons foursome of, Rodney Rivera, Crawley, Brian Miller and Weir, ran a time of 3:23.70 to win the 4x400.

Glasgow had two individual champions in Jerry Smith, Pole vault, 12-6, and Fawad Nisar (1600 meters).

"I was pleasantly surprised at the way we did," Glasgow coach Mervin Spence said. "I thought everybody showed up and performed well."

St. Mark's Pat Riley won the 3,200 meters with a time of 9:52.36.

Glasgow proved enough second place finishes can lead to a state title, as individual Dragons were runners-up in six of the 12 events.

"I think we proved that without the depth in the lineup, without those second and third place finishes, you can't be state champions," Spence said.

Newark finished fifth, while Christiana tied with McKean for seventh and St. Mark's ended in twelfth place.

Glasgow girls finish fifth in state meet

After coming close several times, William Penn's 100 and 200 relay teams broke the state records at the state track meet held last Saturday at Polytech High's track.

The foursome of Dana Fletcher, Edith Lewis, Regina Century and Genelle Fletcher ran a time of 48.54 in the 4X100 to break the record set by Caesar Rodney in 1978.

The same foursome then ran a 1:42.00 to break Glasgow's 1994

Newark girls lacrosse team tops Concord

Yellowjackets get fourth win

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Julianne Sweeney scored Newark's final three goals to lift the Yellowjackets over Concord 8-7 on May 13 at Concord High.

"She had a big game," Newark coach Marcia Merena said of Sweeney's performance. "She puts on her speed and she just goes. Julianne has enough speed that when she turns it on, she can beat just about any player in the conference."

The Yellowjackets led 4-2 entering the second half. They extended the lead when Ariel Hedgedus, at the 24:25 mark, took a pass from just inside the circle and blasted it past the Concord goalkeeper.

Less than five minutes later Newark (4-10) struck again. This time Sweeney scored the second of her four goals when she bounced it into the net. With Newark holding what seemed to be a comfortable lead, at 6-2, Concord went on the offensive.

Kelly Aaron began the come back for Concord when she beat Newark's goalkeeper at the 18:15 mark. Two minutes later the Raiders struck again when Erin Knight slashed through the Yellowjacket defense for the score. Concord's Jill Hendrick scored her second goal, at the 10:55 mark, cutting the Newark lead to one.

Merena called a time out following that goal.

"Our defense wasn't forcing them out of the arc," Merena said. "I told them to get their act together. And they do when I tell them that. They usually respond and they did today. They're young they just need and sometimes reminders."

After Aaron scored for the Raiders to tie the score at the 10:00 mark, Sweeney took over. Picking up a loose ball, Sweeney beat the Concord defense down the field to score, returning the Yellowjacket lead at the 8:30 mark.

Sweeney sealed the victory by scoring at the 6:45 mark.

"We were down and [coach Merena] told us it didn't look like we wanted it enough. So when I saw the opening, I went," Sweeney said.

According to Merena, Newark is a very young team with only three contributing seniors. The entire defensive is made up of underclassman.

For this reason Sweeney, who is one of the three seniors, feels a responsibility to help the team.

"I want to do what's best for the team," she said. "When we get down and not in the game it makes me want it more. Because this team is so young, when we go out and play, a lot of times we're playing against people with higher skill level. But that will really help these [young girls] in the future."

“When I saw the opening, I went.”

NEWARK HIGH GIRLS LACROSSE PLAYER

Glasgow girls win conference

Earned second seed in state tournament

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Glasgow sealed up its first ever Blue Hen Conference girls lacrosse title by beating Newark 15-7, and A.I. Dupont 11-5.

"It's really exciting," coach Scott Dailey said. "This is the first year there really is a conference champion, and I don't think many people thought we would be contenders."

Glasgow amassed a 15-1 record, avenging its only loss, to A.I. Dupont, by beating the Tigers on Monday and securing the outright conference title.

Against A.I., Glasgow fell behind early when Tiger Melonie Evans scored at the 17:30 mark to give her team a 2-1 lead. That score woke up the Dragons, who stormed back when Annie Santo cut across the field and blasted a shot into the A.I. goal, tying the game.

With 10 minutes left in the first half, Glasgow took the lead for good when Keely Schupp beat the defenders down field for the score. Katie Sheridan, Santo, Kellye Hines and Nikki Polmon added first half goals to give the Dragons a comfortable 7-2 halftime lead.

"[A.I.] was our only loss during the season, so we had to come back and get them," Sheridan said.

Megan Linn, Danielle Kelly, Desecae Conran and Rachel Hamilton all scored in the second half to seal the victory.

Throughout the game, goalkeeper Jen Kyle stopped numerous shots by Tiger attackers.

"This game has a lot of shots on goal and [Kyle] steps up when we need her," Dailey said of Kyle, who is affectionately called the "brick house," by her teammates, because of her ability to seemingly create a wall in front of the opposition's net.

Earlier in the week, against Newark, Schupp and Hines put on a clinic combining to score nine of the Dragons' 15 goals. Several times Schupp scored off an assist from Hines.

"They seemed to drop down a lot. Keely got open and I was able to get her the ball," Hines said.

Despite being an experienced team, 10 of the 11 starters are seniors, the Dragons had never had a winning season prior to this year. Last season Glasgow managed only a 5-12 mark.

So why the drastic change this year?

"We have better communication this year," Polmon said.

Dailey is in his first year as head coach but refuses to take credit for the turn around.

GIRLS LACROSSE

"We have a bunch of athletic girls," he said. "I don't think its magic or anything I've done, except try to help them realize their potential."

"These girls just seem to have another gear. When we are down or not playing well they step it up. They're all hard working girls, most of them playing during the summer to improve themselves."

Glasgow is seeded second in the first ever Delaware girls lacrosse tournament and will play Archmere in the first round.

"The key [to winning in the play-offs] is forcing the game tempo," Dailey said. "We are going to play a lot teams we never played before. If we can play our tempo, which is fast paced, we can keep up with most teams."

Traditionally, private schools have dominated the lacrosse scene. However, Glasgow has a chance to change tradition as six of the eight tournament teams are from private schools.

"We're not looking to send a statement, but as this sport gains popularity I think the private schools will have their hands full," Dailey said.

Couden, Chad Davis and Joey Pfitzenmeyer add singles for the Pirates in a losing effort.

Brookside Bambinos

White Sox 5, Expos 4 - Chancze LePore's bases loaded walk in the bottom of the seventh lead the Brookside Bambino Minor White Sox to a come from behind victory. Danny Barker was 3-for-3 with a double for the White Sox. Mike Bender, Bobby Pilato and John Jenson added hits for the White Sox. Jenson allowed only one run in four innings to get the victory. For the Expos, Joel Drosehn and Daniel Litwa had doubles.

YOUTH BASEBALL

and JT Bowman and the hitting of Joey Pfitzenmeyer and Brett Mullen. The Cardinals were led by the strong six inning pitching of Brandon Mullins and the batting of Rocco Bradley and Kyle Sweetman.

Mets 14, Pirates 13 - Singles by Leo Marianello, Sean Zamboni, and Cara Maggioli powered the Mets to victory. Mets pitching efforts were completed by Zamboni and Marianello. Randy Gonc, J.T. Bowman and Zach DeBoda each had extra base hits for the Pirates. While, Brett Mullen, Nick

Newark American LL

Royals 12, Cardinals 9 - The Royals defeated the Cardinals behind the offensive contributions of Nathan Thomson, who had three hits, four RBI and four runs scored. Zachary Dayton added two hits and three runs scored and Grant Rogers, who reached base three times and scored twice. The Cardinals got a strong pitching performance by Anthony Mocariski. Kyle Sweetman helped offensively with a triple.

Pirates 19, Cardinals 18 - The Pirates edged the Cards in a close game behind the pitching of Randy Gonc

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

KEELY SCHUPP - GLASGOW

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Keely Schupp scored seven goals in two games, as she helped the Dragons win the Blue Hen Conference girls lacrosse championship.

Against Newark, on May 14, Schupp scored six goals. Glasgow built a comfortable 9-2 lead at halftime. However, Newark came storming back and pulled to within three goals with over 10 minutes left in the game.

That's when Schupp took over scoring three unanswered goals to seal the victory. The last of those goals came when Schupp slashed through the Yellowjacket defense, taking a pass from Kellye Hines, and blasted a shoot past the goalkeeper.

"[The key to] Keely's game is her speed, her aggressiveness and her confidence," Glasgow coach Scott Dailey said. "She is a very skilled athlete."

The Dragons sealed the Blue Hen Conference title by avenging an early season loss to A.I. Dupont on Monday.

With the game tied 2-2, Schupp took a pass in Glasgow's end of the field and beat Tiger defenders down the field before blasting a shot past the A.I. goalkeeper.

"Probably half the goals I get are by running down the field," Schupp said. "But this year because we're working well as a team, we all look to pass more."

According to Schupp, she is third on the team with 23 goals and has around six assists.

Schupp, one of 10 starting seniors on the squad, has seen a lot of adversity. Prior to this season the Dragons had never had a winning season. This year they are 15-1.

"It definitely feels good to finally be on top," she said. "Last couple of years we have been getting our butts kicked, now we finally have been coming out on top in games."

Dailey described Schupp as a hard worker, with a strong commitment to the team.

"All the girls have a lot of respect for her," he said.

TRACK, from 18

record of 1:42.59.

Overall, William Penn took second place, in the division I girls bracket, with a score of 68. Dover won the bracket, 73, and Glasgow took fifth place, 52.

Individually, Glasgow's Lakisha Mayo won the 300-meter hurdles, 44.96, and took second in the 100-meter hurdles, 14.70. Mary Polikowki won the 1,600 meters for Newark with a time of 5:20.54. In addition to the Colonials record setting relay teams, William Penn won the 4X400 relay and two individual events.

The team of Dana Fletcher, Lewis, Tasha Century and Regina Century recorded a time of 4:01.1 to win the event. Lewis won the triple jump at 37-3 1/4, and Regina Century, 2:22.79, beat out St. Mark's Sarah Conway, 2:24.43, in the 800 meters.

Caravel wins 10 of last 11 games

Bucs seventh seeded

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In a season that has already exceeded expectations, the Caravel softball team has an opportunity to make it even more special.

The Bucs, who finished the season with a 14-4 record, won 10 of their last 11 games to earn the seventh seed in the state tournament. Caravel hosted tenth-seeded William Penn in Wednesday afternoon's opening round with the winner of that game advancing to Saturday's quarterfinals. The semifinals are scheduled for next Wednesday and the championship game will be played next Saturday.

Caravel, which has started a lineup with as many as four eighth graders and two ninth graders in it, closed out the regular season with doubleheaders last Thursday and Saturday. The Bucs won three of the four games, beating Dickinson, Ursuline and Milford.

The only loss came to Henlopen North champion Caesar Rodney 11-0 Saturday night. The Riders finished their regular season with just two losses and entered the tournament with the fifth seed.

"It's a bit of downer to go to the tournament with this loss as our last game," said Caravel coach Steve Baker. "But we won 10 of our last 11 games and I think the fact we played two games today while Caesar Rodney played just one, and was fresh, had something to do with the score. I'm not saying we would have beaten them, but it might've been a closer game.

"The reason we set the game up like this was because we both were supposed to be playing doubleheaders. They got their other game switched to Friday, though."

Despite the loss, Baker was happy the way the season went.

"If you told me before the season that we could go 11-7 and make the tournament, I would have gladly taken it," the coach said. "But to do three games better than that, I think is great."

The Bucs, although young, may have a chance to advance deep. They played a difficult schedule that featured games against top-seeded St. Mark's, second-seeded Indian River, third-seeded Padua, fourth-seeded Wilmington Christian and fifth-seeded Caesar Rodney. The Bucs beat both Padua and Wilmington Christian and lost a tight 2-0 game to Indian River.

"This should be a great experience for this group," Baker said. "Every year, your goal is to win the state championship. But with a group this young, our best days may be ahead of us."

"That doesn't mean we don't want to take advantage of the opportunity in front of us, though. If we a couple games and one or teams gets upset, we could be right there."

Glasgow enters state tournament on win streak

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Glasgow High softball team prepared for the state tournament in fine fashion.

The Flight A champion Dragons knocked off William Penn and Delcastle to close out their regular season with a 16-2 overall record (13-1 in Flight A).

Sixth-seeded Glasgow hosted No. 11 Lake Forest in a first round state tournament game Wednesday afternoon. The winner of that game advances to Saturday's quarterfinal round against the winner of the game between third-seeded Padua and No. 14 Conord. The semifinals are scheduled for Wednesday while the championship game will be next Saturday.

After a nailbiting 1-0 win over tournament bound William Penn last Wednesday, the Dragons knocked off Delcastle — another state tournament team — Thursday.

Against the Cougars, Julie Van Deusen pitched her second shutout in as many days. Van Deusen allowed just one hit — a double in the seventh inning.

"Julie's really done a nice job for us," said Glasgow coach Larry Walker. "She's really focused now and it's shown up in her performance. She had an outstanding game against William Penn and did another great job for us [against Delcastle]. She's peaking right now. And this is the right time."

The pitcher also contributed offensively, knocking in Kirsty Lloyd with a sacrifice fly in the first inning. That one run turned out to be all the scoring the Dragons would need.

Glasgow scored twice more in the second inning with Brandi Redrow (single) and Lloyd (double) each picking up RBI hits. Lisa Scanlon and Redrow scored the runs.

Glasgow scored two more runs in the sixth inning.

Redrow ignited the two-out rally with a double to left-center field. Jaleah Williams followed with another double to score Redrow. Lloyd, picking up her third hit of the game, singled home Williams.

The Dragons tacked on another run in the seventh inning as Melissa Pettee doubled home Scanlon.

In all, Glasgow had 11 hits with Lloyd having three, Scanlon two, Pettee two and Redrow two.

Following the game, the Dragons — with a strong corps of seniors — turned their attention to the state tournament.

"I think we have a chance," Walker said. "This group has been to the tournament four times and has a lot of experience. But we'll have to play well each time out."

"It's a one-game series four straight times."

"There a lot of teams that have a chance to win this year."

"I think we've come together as a team," said Glasgow senior second baseman Jamie Sasaman. "We had a team sleep-over a couple weeks ago and I think that has really helped us. We play with more enthusiasm. We're excited about the tournament. We think, if we work hard, that we can do real well."

State baseball tournament gets underway Saturday

St. Mark's and Caravel made the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament, while Newark missed the cutoff.

St. Mark's is seeded second and will host Middletown in the first round. While, Caravel is seeded tenth and must go to William Penn. All first round games will be played tomorrow, with the quarterfinals scheduled for May 26.

The St. Mark's-Middletown game will begin at 2 p.m. tomorrow, while Caravel's game will be at 11 a.m..

Newark, which two weeks ago looked like a lock for the playoffs went on a five game losing streak and did not earn enough points to make the tournament.

Hens advance to NCAA

► HENS, from 18

entered the tournament with a .471 batting average (second in the country) and 31 home runs (first in the country), enjoyed the help he got from other players in the lineup over the weekend.

"With guys like Brad Eyman and DiMaggio having big games I know I don't have to do it all," said the former Newark American Little League and St. Mark's High star. "We have a really good team and I think if we can just play our game, we can win a few games [in the NCAA Tournament]."

Delaware, which received a No. 3 seed (it's highest ever) opened NCAA play Thursday in the Atlantic II Regional in Tallahassee, Fla. against fourth-seeded Oklahoma. Top-seeded Florida State played sixth-seeded Liberty and second seeded Auburn squared off against fifth-seeded Rutgers in other opening round games in Tallahassee. The winner of the regional advances to the College World Series in Omaha, Neb.

"We're not really worried about who we play," Mench said before the pairings were announced. "We know we'll have to play some big-name teams. We just have to play our game."

Duffie echoed those sentiments. "I think we can win a few," said Duffie, who started on the 1996 NCAA Tournament team. "We'll be more relaxed than we were two years ago. Back then we didn't know what to expect. Now we do." While the Blue Hen baseball program is used to success, this year's team caught everybody by surprise.

"I told the team before the year started to be prepared to lose 15 games or so," Hannah said. "We had some new guys playing different positions and I thought it would take awhile to get used to playing with each other. I thought it would take some time before we started playing well."

In reality, it took about a week. The Hens began the season 3-4 and then ripped off 20 straight victories en route to winning 40 of their last 44. The numbers are amazing — by any standard.

State baseball committee off the mark

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Despite being 14-0, 6-0 in the Catholic Conference, St. Mark's baseball team received only a second seed in this year Delaware High School Baseball Tournament. Salesianum, who the Spartans beat twice, was 3-3 in the Catholic Conference, yet is the state tournament's top seed.

According to Bob Colburn, head of the baseball selection committee, the selection is done on a points system. A team gets two points for every win. In addition, a team gets an extra point for each team it plays with a final record over .500, and it gets two points for every opponent with a record over .667.

"A few years ago we had teams that had very good records," Colburn said. "But they had weak schedules and they got knocked out of the tournament quickly."

It was this point system which allowed Salesianum to get the number one seed.

They were 11-3 overall. Two of those losses were compliments of St. Mark's.

Evidently St. Mark's, which is the defending state champion, must play a weak schedule, right?

Wrong. In addition to having defeated five play-off bound teams, the Spartans killed nationally ranked Holy Cross High, from Flushing N.Y. 13-2.

Furthermore, St. Mark's destroyed Elizabeth by a conference rival and third seeded St. Elizabeth by a combined score of 16-4 in two games. Interestingly, Salesianum's third loss came to the Vikings.

The selection committee believes the points system is a fail-safe, objective way to seed teams. That is wrong.

Under the system a team gets rewarded for playing other teams with winning records. However, the system does not consider the schedule of each team's opponents. Meaning, a team may defeat an opponent with a record over .667, thus receiving four points. However, that opponent may have earned the record by beating teams with records under .500.

Also, the point system does not take into account the strength of a conference overall. For example, the Blue Hen Conference had no team with an outstanding record this year. But as William Penn coach Mel Gardner said after a recent game, "I believe this is the strongest conference from top to bottom in the state."

The conference's worst team, Glasgow, was 0-18 but often lost games in the final inning.

To emphasize the ridiculousness of the point system consider this; a team could go 0-16, while another team could go 16-0, and still have the same number of points.

How do you ask? Simple, if the 0-16 team played all its games against opponents with an over .667 record they would gain 32 bonus points. Likewise, the 16-0 team would finish with 32 points if they were to defeat all opponents below .500.

So, is the answer to not reward teams for playing tough schedules? Of course not. But a little human input could help the committee not look so ridiculous.

Delaware must reduce greenhouse emissions

DELAWARE WILL HAVE TO REDUCE its greenhouse gas emissions by almost 24 percent over the next 10 years to comply with U.S. targets set by the Kyoto Treaty on climate change last December.

The treaty requires the U.S. to lower emissions 7 percent from 1990 levels, requiring a 30 percent reduction nationally.

According to the Delaware Climate Change Working Group which met recently at the University of Delaware, while Delaware's CO2 emissions are lower than many other states, they are still growing by 1.28 percent each year.

John Byrne, director of the University of Delaware Center for Energy and Environmental Policy (CEEP), said the Working Group will devise a plan by next year that will not only eliminate emissions growth, but do away with almost one-fourth of the gases now being produced by electric utilities, transportation, commerce, industry and residential users.

Figures for emissions by sector came from the Delaware Greenhouse Gas Inventory compiled by CEEP. Byrne said those figures reflect "business as usual" in the state and don't account for unexpected differences in economic growth or the effect of electric utility deregulation.

"Based on these figures," Byrne told the group, "electric-using equipment and transportation are the largest producers of CO2, and policy options must concentrate on these sectors."

Charlie Smisson, state energy program administrator, said the state is looking into an Environmental Protection Agency grant that could fund a project to outfit buildings across the state with a variety of non-fossil fuel power generators, then evaluate their effect on electric usage and comfort levels.

For more information on the work of the Working Group, the Delaware Greenhouse Gas Inventory, or the Initial Policy Evaluation, call Smisson in Dover at 302-739-5644 or Byrne in Newark at 831-8405.

Sterling Diagnostic nominated for Smithsonian Award

Sterling Diagnostic Imaging Inc. is a nominee for the 1998 Computerworld Smithsonian Award for innovation in information technology. The Smithsonian has selected Sterling's global accelerated implementation of SAP R/3 for inclusion in the 1998 National Information Technology Innovation Collection, as one of the year's most innovative applications of technology.

Sterling's hardcopy printer and production facilities are located in the company's Delaware Technology Center in Glasgow.

SAP America Inc. chose Sterling from among thousands of global customers as its nominee for the Smithsonian award, based on Sterling's accelerated implementation of SAP information technology, which was accomplished in just 10 months. By creating a single, universal SAP data base, Sterling was able to become a truly independent, global company less than two years after it was divested from DuPont Medical Imaging. Sterling was the first company to successfully complete a global accelerated SAP implementation of this size and complexity, setting an industry standard.

"To support our current and emerging diagnostic imaging technologies, we needed to build independent and reliable information systems in the shortest possible time, with no disruption to customers," said Christine Vincent, Sterling's SAP global project director.

This massive undertaking involved more than 1,000 users in 15 countries, six different languages, and 30 different currencies with 17 separate sets of company books, as Sterling used SAP R/3 to replace 150 DuPont legacy systems and 250 cumbersome interfaces. "Sterling didn't have the luxury of prototyping the technology in one area, then rolling it out to the rest of the company," said Paul Wahl, CEO of SAP America, Inc. "Only a truly innovative, entrepreneurial, well-managed company could have pulled this off."

The Sterling corporate headquarters is in Greenville, S.C., with X-ray film production facilities in Brevard, N.C.

Maier urges women to take advantage of state's Web site

State Representative Pamela Maier (R-Drummond Hill) is urging women entrepreneurs to take advantage of a free state of the art interactive web site to help women start or expand their businesses.

The Online Women's Business Center (www.onlinewbc.org) was developed as a public/private partnership between the U.S. Small Business Administration and IBM, JC Penney NationsBank, GTE, Avon and the North Texas Women's Business Development Center.

The site offers information on business principles and practices, market research, information about SBA and industry news. The website also provides beginning and existing entrepreneurs an online community for interactive mentoring and individual counseling. The site contains a state by state list of all the professional services that women need to start or expand a business.

New Balance store opens in mall

The area's first New Balance store specializing in footwear and apparel made by New Balance Athletic Shoe Inc. of Boston, Mass., has opened in the Christiana Mall. This is the only New Balance store between New York City and Florida.

The 2,500-square-foot store located in the Strawbridge's court offers an entire stock of athletic footwear for adults and children as well as men's casual and dress shoes. Approximately 125 styles are stocked in widths ranging from 2A to 4B and sizes ranging from women's 3 1/2 to men's 20. Active apparel and sports bags are also available.

Owner John Strojny has been in the athletic footwear business since 1974. A graduate of the University of Delaware, captain of the 1974 cross county team and a miler on the track team, Strojny combined his interest in running and a degree in marketing to operate The Athlete's Foot stores in New Castle County for 21 years.

"The commitment New Balance has to providing quality athletic shoes matches my own commitment of fitting customers into shoes that meet their needs and fit properly," said Strojny. "There is a great demand for New Balance products in this area and customers coming into the store have been very excited that they can now find an unparalleled selection of those products in terms of styles, widths and sizes."

important information

Please check your ad the first day to see that all information is correct. This will ensure your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. Call us the very first day your ad appears to make changes or corrections. By doing this we can credit you for the first day if an error occurred. The newspaper's financial responsibility, if any, for errors of any kind is limited to the charge for the space for one day.

The publisher wants to do everything possible within the confines of good taste and legal constraints to help you advertise your products or services to your best advantage. The newspaper does reserve the right to edit or reject any copy or illustration that does not meet the newspaper's standard of acceptance.

We make every effort to ensure that advertisers are reputable. However, we welcome your comments and suggestions concerning any of our advertisers. Call Classified and ask for the manager.

Classified customers of the Newark Post will be asked to pre-pay for private party advertisements.

Customers may use Mastercard or VISA when ordering by phone, check by mail with a classified order form or place and pay for your ad in person at the main newspaper office. We cannot be responsible for cash sent through the mail.

Private party categories include, but are not limited to announcements, merchandise for sale, pets, furniture, yard sales, vehicles or boats for sale. The Classified Department can answer any of your questions regarding this policy and how it may affect your situation. Please call 410-398-1230 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with your questions.
