Dr. Hullihen To Tell Savants Of Foreign Study Abroad

To Address American College Association; Important Committee Organized For Undergraduate Foreign Study; Receives Decoration

HISTORICAL REVIEW

On Friday afternoon Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University of Delaware, will address the meeting of the Association of American Colleges on "Undergraduate Study Abroad". Both Dr. Hullihen and Dean Winifred Robinson, of the Women's College will attend the sessions of the Association, which will be held in Atlantic City, January 12 to 14.

Dr. Hullihen will follow Dr. Neilson, president of Smith College, who will speak on the same subject, and will first give a brief review of the undergraduate foreign study movement. Probably the most important development Dr. Hullihen will discuss is his address will be the organization, last month, of a committee on undergraduate foreign study of the Institute of International Education. The organization of this committee, representing a number of colleges interested in undergraduate foreign study, is a culmination of several years' effort on the part of Dr. Hullihen, and has broadened immeasurably the potential facilities and support of the foreign study plan. The committee, at the time of its organization, decided to award 25 scholarships. (Continued on Page 4.)

Verona Chalmers Wins Essay Prize

Takes Third Prize In Delaware, Writing On Safety. Newark School Takes Health Precautions. Corn Show

Verona Chalmers, grade 9 in the Newark Schools, has just received third prize in Delaware in an essay contest conducted by the National Highway Education Board, of Washington, D. C., in the interests of street and highway safety. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce awarded 5 prizes in each state; Miss Chalmers' prize was $5 in gold and a bronze medal. The subject of her essay was, "Why I Should be Taught Safety at School and at Home." Miss Chalmers' achievement is a tangible result of the safety instruction in the Newark Schools.

The authorities of the Newark Schools are co-operating with the local and state boards of health in exercising every precaution to prevent. (Continued on Page 5.)

NURSE'S BOARD MEETING

The Visiting Nurse Board met on Monday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. C. O. Houghton. Several contributions which had been promised, were given at that time. The Board hopes that all other pledges will be sent in very soon.

The local physicians are expected to meet with the Board at the next meeting, February 5.

The report of the visiting nurse for the month of December was given as follows: Number of visits, 176; nursing, 109; instructive, 67. The kinds of cases were: mumps, 17; tonsillitis, 1; la grippe, 3; bronchitis, 1; pneumonia, 2; infected leg, 1; malnutrition, 3; maternity, 1; prenatal, 4; nervous diseases, 4; miscellaneous, 11; surgical dressings, 16; treatments, 41. Four health clinics for infants were held; one health clinic for tuberculosis.

PENNSYLVANIA SPEEDER WEEK-ENDS IN JAIL

Harold Lynch, of Chalfont, Pa., who was arrested on Saturday night by Chief of Police Keeley, spent the week-end as a guest of the town in the local jail. Arraigned before Magistrate Thompson, on Saturday night, on a charge of reckless driving, he was fined $25 and costs. He hadn't the money so served himself as security. Money was forwarded to him Monday and he was released.

Sewer Tax

The Council of Newark has prepared a list of all property to be assessed for the cost of the construction of an addition or additions to the sewer system of the town of Newark. This list, giving lineal feet of each property abutting on any street in which sewers have been built, and with names of owners and amount to be assessed, will be placed in Rhodes' Drug Store between January 16 and January 30.

On Monday, January 30, the Council of Newark will sit in the Council Chamber, between the hours of 8 p. m. and 10 p. m. to hear and determine any objections which may be presented against assessments made in the list.

Women's College Dance Brilliant Occasion

Beautiful Gowns, Spotlight Dances Feature Junior Prom Held In Du Pont-Biltmore

More than two hundred students, alumni, and members of the faculty of Women's College and their partners attended the annual Junior Prom of the college, which was held last Friday evening in the gold ballroom of the Hotel du Pont-Biltmore. The dance was a brilliant affair and the gowns the most beautiful that have been seen at any Women's College dance.

NEWARK COW COMPLETES HIGHEST STATE RECORD

The highest Jersey production record ever made in the State of Delaware has been completed by Prosperity's Golden Dora, a mature Jersey cow owned by Mrs. M. C. Folwell, of Newark.

This cow was placed on official test when she was 7 years and 11 months of age, and in the following year she produced 630.56 lbs. of butterfat and 11,441 lbs. of milk. Her milk averaged 5.51 per cent butterfat for the year. With this record she supersedes Rowena's Beulah, the cow which held the Delaware championship, all ages and all classes, with her record of 587.50 lbs. of butterfat and 9,707 lbs. of milk. The sire of the new champion is Prosperity's Lad, and her dam is Fern's Golden Dora, a cow which has a 365-day record of 463.58 lbs. of butterfat and 8,087 lbs. of milk.

The junior four-year-old 365-day Jersey record for Delaware is now held by Morville Cinderella, an outstanding Jersey individual in the herd of Mrs. Folwell. This cow was started on her official test when she was 4 years and 5 months of age, and in the following year she produced 566.37 lbs. of butterfat and 9,232 lbs. of milk. Her milk averaged 6.13 per cent butterfat for the year, and in her best month her production reached 63.80 lbs. of butterfat.

PLAY IN WOLF HALL

The English Department of the University of Delaware will present "The Contrast," a comedy of post-Revolutionary New York, on Friday evening, January 20, at 8.15, in Wolf Hall. The play was written by Royall Tyler, first produced in 1787, and now revived after one hundred and forty years. The cast is: Manly, Virgil Van Street; Dimple, James E. Challenger; Vanrough, J. C. Williams; Jessamy, Frank Swezey; Jonathan, Walter Davis; Charlotte, Frances Eckbert; Letitia, Myrtle Simpler; Jenny, Mariam Kinard.

MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association, postponed from last Tuesday, will be held next Tuesday evening, at 7.45, in the High School Auditorium. Dr. Fowler, Principal of Tower Hill School, will address the meeting.

"Health" Keynote Of Home Leader's Program

Mrs. McKinley To Work With Women's Organizations To Promote Health In The Home

"Health is the Thing," says, "Healthy New Year, not Happy New Year", is the advice of Mrs. Helen McKinley, State Home Demonstration Leader of the Extension Department of the University of Delaware, Newark, who adds, "To wish one a Healthy New Year for himself and his family is the best wish one can give another. As long as one has health of body he is physically able to work for the material necessities of life and mentally able to meet and conquer the worries of the mind."

"For this reason," says Mrs. McKinley, "in planning my state program of work for 1928 I am taking health as the basis. Children are being taught the simple rules of health by their teachers, the Health Crusaders and 4-H Club Leaders; the State Board of Health, with its corps of splendid workers, is striving toward the prevention of disease; so, in working with the various women's organizations throughout the state what could be better than to supplement these other agencies by helping women to improve their own health and that of their families through serving proper food, wearing healthy clothing and following the best health practices in a healthy home?"

"If a family is a healthy one it should also be a happy one because it is able to enjoy life. Is there anyone of right mind who would sell his health for any amount of money? Money without health is of no use. If you are healthy you have a better chance to become wealthy for you lose none of your salary from lost time and you do not have to share it with the doctor, the nurse, the dentist, the druggist and finally the undertaker."

"Maybe good health has always been your lot—in that case you probably don't prize it enough; maybe you have lost it and struggled to regain it—in this case you do appreciate it. Health is not an elusive thing—you may have it if you make the effort. Health is the thing."

Mrs. McKinley will welcome requests for information from individuals or organized groups relative to the details of her program.

H. D. M. Mote Recovers From Auto Injuries

Released From Hospital In Four Days; Struck By Frank Eastburn

H. D. M. Mote, aged 60 years, who was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital last Thursday, apparently seriously injured after being struck by an automobile driven by Frank Eastburn, had recovered sufficiently by Sunday to return to his home.

Mr. Mote was standing on the sidewalk near Buckingham's store when Eastburn, driving east on Main street, pulled across the street to park by the gas tank in front of the store. As he turned across the traffic, another car crowded him and he drove up the driveway next to the store. Mr. Mote was standing at that point on the sidewalk and was struck and hurled against the store steps, sustaining a severe gash in his head. Dr. Downs was called and took several stitches to close the head wound. Fearing internal injuries, he had Mr. Mote taken to the hospital in the Newark ambulance. Eugene Stiltz and R. J. Crow attended the ambulance.

Mr. Eastburn reported the accident to Magistrate Thompson and was released on his own recognizance to await the outcome of Mr. Mote's injuries.

A. H. STIMSON TRANSFERRED

Alfred H. Stimson, who has been on the engineering corps of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and has lived here for the last six months, has been transferred to a similar position at Trenton. Mr. Stimson's work in Trenton began January 1. He has made many friends during his stay here, and they are loath to see him leave.

Watchman Exonerated In Crossing Death

Coroner's Jury Absolves Williams Of Blame In Death Of Jack Andrews; Railroad Held Responsible

At a meeting of a coroner's jury, summoned in Wilmington, last week, by Coroner Harvey E. Nichols, Noah Williams, colored, was exonerated of criminal negligence in connection with the death of Jack W. Andrews, 10 years old, of near Glasgow, who was instantly killed December 24, at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing at South College avenue, where Williams is watchman. Williams had been held on a charge of manslaughter by Magistrate Thompson. Young Andrews was riding with his father in an automobile when it was struck by a train at the crossing.

Although the jury did not hold Williams responsible, the blame for the accident was placed on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, finding the company guilty of neglect in not having some system for notifying the watchman when the train was due to pass. Williams stated that it was necessary for him to stand outside his shanty to watch for the trains when they were due. He also said that he saw the train coming which struck the Andrews car, but it was using dim lights and thought it a freight train which was due. He also thought that if it was the freight that he would have plenty of time to attend a fire in the shanty before going outside.

Williams, who, in default of bail, had been held in the New Castle County Workhouse, awaiting action by a coroner's jury, was brought back to Newark and released by Magistrate Thompson.

IRA GARBUTT TO HELP PROFESSOR TIFFANY

Ira A. Garbutt, of Frederica, who was graduated from the University of Delaware in 1925 and has had two years' practical experience in electrical chemistry, has become associated with the chemical laboratory of Professor Harold S. Tiffany, 805-06 Equitable Building, Wilmington, the latter announced today.

Prof. Tiffany is city analyst and does analysis work in liquor cases for the attorney-general's office and he will continue doing that work. Mr. Garbutt studied under Prof. Tiffany while the latter was associate professor of chemistry at the University. Prof. Tiffany announces he will continue in personal charge of analysis work in criminal cases for the city and state.

Mr. Garbutt will have charge of the electrical division which Prof. Tiffany has added to his laboratory and will also attend to other duties in connection with the laboratory.

FARMER'S TRUST ELECTS DIRECTORS, VOTES DIVIDEND

At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Farmer's Trust Company, of Newark, held yesterday, the Board voted the regular semi-annual dividend of 10%, amounting to $4, and elected directors for the ensuing year.

The directors elected were: Eben B. Fraxer, William S. Kennady, N. M. Motherall, J. E. Dougherty, Edna A. Campbell, W. T. Lynam, Esq., Frank V. Whitman, William P. Wollaston, Daniel Thompson, Charles B. Evans, Esq., R. G. Buckingham, H. W. McNeal, J. P. Cheney, O. C. Jones and C. J. Moore.

DONALD STEPHENS TALKS ON RUSSIAN EXPERIENCES

Donald Stephens was the speaker at "College Hour", which was held in Wolf Hall, at 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. Stephens has just returned to this country after two years' work in agricultural reconstruction among the peasants in Soviet Russia. He spoke of his experiences in Russia. Mr. Stephens is the son of Frank Stephens, founder of Arden, Delaware's single tax colony.

LARGEST RURAL DEPOSITS

The statement of The Newark Trust Company for the close of 1927, shows that it has more money on deposit than any other bank in rural New Castle county. During the past year deposits have increased over $300,000. The statement shows resources of $1,689,110.

Coincidental Fires

Strange coincidence, last Friday afternoon, caused the local fire company to dash from the home of one brother to the home of another brother to extinguish two field fires. The brothers, Charles and E. B. Burnley, live about two miles apart. The first call was from Charles, who lives on the Lincoln Highway above Roseville. The firemen found a grass fire threatening the house and quickly extinguished it. The company had no sooner arrived back at the fire house than it was given the call from the home of E. B. Burnley, who lives on Cleveland avenue. Here another grass fire was threatening the building and was soon put out before it could do any damage.

On Saturday night, the Aetna Company encountered another unusual experience when it was called to the home of Peter Jester to subdue a blaze caused by a pot roast burning on the stove.

Saturday afternoon, a grass fire was extinguished on the property of Paul Pié, on West Main street.

Large Attendance At Inter-County Meeting

Northern County Leaders Show Keen Interest In Del-Mar-Va Association Problems

Practically one hundred business leaders acting as delegates from the seven northern Peninsula counties—New Castle and Kent, Del.; Cecil, Caroline, Queen Anne, Talbot and Kent, Md.—adopted resolutions for their respective counties at the Inter-County Convention, held Friday, in the Auditorium, Washington College, at Chestertown, continuing affiliation with the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association and planning county campaigns toward aiding the financing of the association. The attendance at the convention was not only one of the largest and most representative to have been assembled to discuss Peninsula community welfare, but the enthusiasm and interest displayed was agreed by Association officials to surpass even the original interest in the northern counties.

In behalf of the association Dr. Grier made the following statement relative to the convention:

"Speaking for the association officials, as well as personally, I desire to express the keenest gratification in the convention. The upper tier counties have given us evidence by the splendid attendance at the convention that they are vitally concerned in the work of the association. The direct interest taken by the individual counties. (Continued on Page 8.)

FARM BUREAU MEETING

The New Castle County Farm Bureau will hold a meeting and luncheon, next Tuesday, at the Rodney Square Inn, Wilmington. The meeting will be called at 10 o'clock. The first fifty members signing cards to attend the meeting will be given a free lunch.

Mr. H. C. Milliken, president of the Farm Bureau, will preside at the meeting. The county and state extension men will give reports. Dean A. C. McCue, of the University of Delaware, will probably deliver a short talk.

DRIFTER TAKEN ILL

On Monday night, Harry Jackson, a colored drifter, appeared at the office of Magistrate Thompson and asked that he be given lodging in the jail over night. When the man was locked up by Chief Keeley, it was noticed that he was sick, and Dr. Downes was summoned. Dr. Downes found him running a high fever, and ordered him to the hospital. William Clancy took him to the Delaware Hospital in the Newark ambulance.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Leonard Lewis tomorrow, Thursday afternoon, at two-thirty.

In the evening, at eight o'clock, the members have been invited to meet with the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church at the Presbyterian Church.

Ellison Re-elected Aetna Fire Chief

J. R. Fulton Elected President; 43 Fire Calls Last Year Considerable Decrease Over Two Preceding Years

At the annual meeting of the Aetna Fire, Hook and Ladder Company, held last night, Elmer J. Ellison was re-elected chief. This will be Mr. Ellison's third year as head of the Newark smoke-eaters. At the same meeting, William Bolton and Walter R. Powell were elected assistant chiefs. Other officers elected were: Fire recorder, Charles Eisner; head pipeman, Howard Murphy; assistant pipeman, Edwin Shakespeare; Corbett Crompton, Frank Gates, Herman Renshaw and Charles Hopkins; directors, to serve three years, R. J. Crow, R. E. Ramsey and G. I. Durnall.

At a meeting of the directors, of which there are nine, held last night, John R. Fulton was elected president; G. I. Durnall re-elected vice-president; R. E. Ramsey, secretary; and Warren Singles re-elected treasurer.

The fire company responded to 43 fires in 1927; 14 in town and 29 out of town. The total damage was estimated at $63,000; of which $13,200 was credited to fires in town, and $50,400 to out-of-town fires. This record compares more than favorably with the past two years. In 1926, there were 68 calls, and in 1925, 61 calls. The decrease is considered due in a large degree to the fire prevention propaganda released by the fire company, and to inspections sponsored by the department.

Delaware Citizens To Hold Meeting Series

Three Subjects To Be Brought To Attention Of People Throughout State

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Delaware Citizens Association held on Thursday in the Senate Chamber, Dover, a report outlining subjects for discussion in a series of meetings to be held throughout Delaware, within the next two months, was adopted. The plan, presented by Bishop Cook, chairman of a special committee to make recommendations on the subject, will enlist the assistance of prominent citizens in carrying a knowledge of the ideals of the association to all Delaware. Requests for meetings have been received to date from seven committees. The report outlines three subjects that the committee feels need to be brought to the attention of Delaware people.

First, the rapid change that is taking place in the state as the result of good roads chiefly, but due also to telephone, radio and other such agencies. "Communities", Bishop Cook declared, "formerly almost isolated, have been brought into close and continuous communication with the current of life from outside their borders. There is a constant stream of motor cars up and down the state. In the past seven years this has worked. (Continued on Page 2.)

ALUMNAE MEETING

The Newark Chapter of the Women's College Alumnae Association will hold its January meeting at the home of Miss Marjorie Rose on next Monday evening, January 16. An especially interesting program is being arranged and all members and those eligible to join are urged to attend this meeting.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the lecture room of the church.

The M. E. Church and the St. Thomas' Church will join the Society at this meeting. Mrs. W. E. Wells, of Wilmington, will be the speaker.

NEW GOVERNMENT BONDS

The Treasury Department of the United States has just issued a new 3½% bond to be exchanged for the third Liberty Loan series.

Electric Lights Make Hens Work Over-Time

The use of electric lights in hen houses has become common in late years. When lights are used properly the average flock will lay more eggs in a year and will lay a larger proportion of them when prices are highest. A hen eats to maintain herself and, if there be a surplus, she utilizes it in the production of eggs. Through the use of lights, the birds are given a "longer day" so that they consume more feed.

The time to begin use of lights in the fall depends upon the flock. With yearling hens it is best to hold off until they have nearly completed the molt. In the case of pullets, lights may be used any time after October 1st provided the birds are in winter quarters and all set to come into production. Pullets should be really matured and in good flesh before put under lights unless they happen to be late-hatched stock. In that case, poultrymen have found lights will help to bring them to maturity. If we put pullets under lights prior to October 1st, it is apt to result in a fall molt.

There are in common use two systems of lighting layers—"morning lights" and "evening." Of the two, morning lights seem to work out most satisfactorily for the average poultryman. It leaves evenings free. Morning lights, of course, necessitate getting up at 4.30 in the morning, or attaching an alarm clock arrangement to the lighting system.

When the birds come down from their roosts in the morning they will immediately go after the mash hopper. Practically after each mouthful of mash they will demand a drink, so provision for water must be made. During cold weather it may mean getting up when the lights are turned on unless you have some device to keep the water from freezing. Practically all of the beneficial effects of additional daylight are lost if the birds go without water the first thing in the morning.

When using lights great care must be exercised not to make any sudden changes in the hours of lighting or in the method of handling the flock. If you do, your birds are almost sure to go all to pieces. Forgetting to turn on the lights a few mornings in succession is apt to throw the birds into a molt. This is particularly true in the case of pullets.

So often poultrymen make the serious mistake of discontinuing the use of lights all of a sudden in the spring. In almost every instance the birds stop laying and go through a partial molt. By just gradually doing away with lights, you may avoid this trouble. When making a change in the ration or a change in the environment always go about it slowly.

A flock of hens under morning lights should be fed in much the same manner as you would otherwise. Provide for them a good mash, which should be in the hoppers, giving the hens an unlimited opportunity to eat all they want. In the evening just before they go to roost give them a chance to fill up on scratch grains; feed about 12 pounds of scratch grains to one hundred hens during the winter months.

The ideal way to feed scratch grain is to put it in a trough or on top of the mash. Hens that have to pick up the scratch grains in the litter usually pick up a lot of dirt and filth with the grains, which is what we want to get away from as much as we can.

Aside from keeping mash before the hens all the time and feeding scratch grains in the evening, you want to be sure you have oyster shells and water available.

GOOD ADVERTISING OF A GOOD THING

The Fruit Trades Federation, the "London Times" tells us, has decided to spend a further £40,000 in newspaper advertising this winter to popularize fruit-eating throughout the British Isles. The signing of the new advertising contract marks the fourth consecutive year of the "Eat more fruit" campaign. Mr. Gordon Boggan, the organizer of the campaign, stated recently that during the past three years advertising had turned the eating of fruit from being a luxury into a national habit, and the Board of Trade returns showed that over £5,000,000 more had been spent on its consumption since the newspaper advertisements first appeared. In the new campaign stress will be laid on the vitamin and "sunshine" value of fresh fruit.

Less meat and more fruit should mean better health for the most of us.

The beauty of the house is order, the blessing of the house is contentment, the glory of the house is hospitality, the crown of the house is godliness.

"A literary exchange says that it has been a great year for books—but it remains to be seen whether it has been a year for great books."

and great changes and will continue increasingly to alter the character of the state. The call is insistent that the citizens should make the largest and most intelligent use of these forces. It is fatal simply to drift.

"In the past the drift has been from the country to the city, where the opportunities are greater. But the city is proving a poor place to live and rear a family. Here is Delaware, uniquely placed, a most attractive place in which to make a home: a strip of fertile land capable of intensive cultivation, within short distance of great city markets, waiting, it would seem, just for a better understanding of its advantages on the part of its own citizens to leap ahead.

Second, the type of Delaware's population. "Looking at the state from its racial aspects," the report continued, "it is made up chiefly of so-called Anglo Saxon stock of American origin, with little mixture of the foreigner or foreign born. It is much more homogeneous than is usually found in this part of the country. It is almost equally divided in population between the city and industrial element of Wilmington and the rural and agricultural element in the state. If these elements contend against each other, it means a division where there ought to be close cooperation and unity. A central city is necessary to an agricultural district; an agricultural district, necessary to a city center. Fundamentally, their interests coincide.

"The state is small in population, which makes the success of an effort for unity in action all the more feasible, but at the same time threatens to engulf the state between larger ones both North and South, unless there is developed a Delaware 'spirit', which shall come to be widely recognized because of the intelligence and the quality of its citizens. 'Some of the smallest nations have most powerfully influenced mankind. Greece, the Palestine of the Jews, the islands of Great Britain and Japan are examples. Delaware is small, but it has the chance to develop the highest type of American life, if its citizens will learn to cooperate so as to make the best use of their opportunities.'

This leads to a consideration of the possibilities in "Adult Education" in the state. "Education," Bishop Cook insisted, "in any proper sense is lifelong; not simply acquiring information but learning how best to adapt ourselves to the conditions about us; to so use its forces that life may be continually enriched and beautified.

"The most important field is not, then, the schooling of children, but the education of adults who have it in their power to make such changes in political, social and economic life as their experience may inspire them to undertake. 'Every great social change has been accomplished by this kind of education in adult life, where, by conference and comparison of experience, men and women educate each other.

"This is what the Delaware Citizens

Association seeks to start. It has no political plans, no schemes for school advancement, no other axe to grind. It seeks simply to provide a means whereby the citizens of the state may discuss their problems—social problems, health problems, problems that have to do with political integrity, care of dependents, all those of general interest, and come to conclusion as to what ought to be done and how to do it. To a share in this, the Delaware Citizens Association invites all people of the state."

REWARD FOR WORK

It almost invariably follows that good work of any kind receives its reward. Sometimes it is true, the reward is not of the obvious kind; but it is there just the same. "One self-improving hour whole years outweighs of stupid stares and of loud hurrahs." Whether our sincere and earnest efforts meet with praise and material reward or not, they will always bring us a measure of compensation. Self-respect, most precious of all possessions, comes from the practice of doing one's best in every undertaking; while the sacrifice of self-respect is involved in the opposite of shirking responsibility and doing the least possible, and not doing so that will. We get out of life what we put into it—that is often said, and it is one of the truest bits of philosophy ever uttered.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE WRONG PLACE

Friend (at a French play): "Why did you applaud so vigorously when that comedian made his speech before the curtain?"

Spriggins (confidentially): "So that folks would think I understood French. What did he say?"

Friend: "He said that the remainder of his part would be taken by an understudy."—Weekly Scotsman.

6,946 hospitals now in operation in the United States have a 50,445 beds and the increase of fifty hospitals last year is sufficient to take care of an increase of 5,000,000 in population.

The average American loses about seven days each year because of sickness, equivalent to a loss of 2 per cent in useful industrial commercial productivity.

Break Up Vice; Outlaw Maryland's Gretna Green In Cecil County

So Orders Grand Jury In Scathing Report; Traces Murders To Dives; Would Change State's Marriage Law

Deploing the commercialization of marriage vows credited to the lax marriage law, and calling upon officers to break up all gambling and rum-selling dives, the long awaited Grand Jury report for the Cecil County Circuit Court, made Friday, presented a scathing indictment of conditions in Elkton and the county.

The report urges that the court impose maximum sentences on all convicted violators of the law in connection with lawless dives, and also urges the passage by the Maryland General Assembly of a new marriage law, which will end the commercialization of marriage used in making Elkton a Gretna Green.

The jury at the same time returned a true bill of indictment against Taft Malin, of Elkton, charging him with the murder of Mitchell Gross on an abandoned wharf property near a section of Water street, Elkton, known as "The Coast." It was this murder, together with the murder of a man named Owen Johnson in the Whittaker Barrens, moonshiner's, Principio Furnace, that started a clamor for a clean-up, and inspired much of the Grand Jury's activities.

The two murders were cited in the report as "traceable to, and result from places which have been allowed to exist, one a bootleg joint and the other a gambling den."

The jury pointed out that as a result of its work in ferreting out gambling dives and speakeasies many of the persons involved had already been indicted.

In the report, the grand jury says: "In our investigations of the lawless conditions, to which your honorable court called our attention, we beg to report that we have tried to the best of our ability to ferret out the cause of the conditions as they now exist, and our labors show that a large percentage of those persons investigated have been before this court for several terms, either as witnesses or charged with some violation of law.

"This is particularly so of our county seat, where we have two murder cases, both of which are traceable to, and result from, places which have been allowed to exist, one a bootleg joint, and the other a gambling den.

"The witnesses examined, cannot tell the whole truth without incriminating themselves. We believe the law can be enforced, but are of the opinion and do recommend that the authorities, both town and county, use every means at their command to break up all such dives, and that when arrested and convicted, your Honorable Court see that all violators of the law receive the maximum penalty.

"We believe that conditions in Elkton, brought about by the Marriage Law, are deplorable, that a new law should replace it, making impossible the subterfuges which are now indulged by those interested in continuing the commercializing of the wedding vow. Also, that in the meantime, existing town ordinances and State laws be enforced to the letter by those having the authority to do so.

"Several persons appeared before us in regard to conditions of certain roads in the county, which we referred to the County Commissioners for their consideration.

"We examined 88 witnesses, considered 27 cases, ignored 9, found 18 presentments and 17 true bills of indictments. We visited the county jail and found 29 inmates, 17 white and 12 colored, all males. The jail was in fair condition, except a few needed repairs, which we recommend be made. A committee which visited the county almshouse reported the inmates all well cared for and their quarters clean and comfortable. The farm is in good condition and well tilled, as crops show. The stock is well cared for and in a thrifty condition. Everything shows that they have received the best of care and attention."

Elkton and Vicinity

Harry W. Pippin was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of Elkton for the ensuing year at the annual meeting of the chamber held Monday evening in the banquet room of the Masonic order, with John H. Terrell, vice-president; A. F. Hubbard, secretary; W. C. Feehly, assistant secretary; John H. Minster, treasurer. The following were elected board of directors: Dr. Howard Bratton, Harry W. Pippin, Daniel S. Terrell, D. J. Ayerst, William J. Davis, W. C. Feehly, Murray J. Ewing, A. F. Hubbard, S. Ralph Andrews, Henry M. McCullough, Carroll T. Gardner, John H. Terrell, Stanley Evans, Irvin T. Kepler and John H. Minster. President Pippin will announce his committees at a special meeting later in the month.

The American Legion Auxiliary of Cecil Post No. 15, has elected officers for the year. They are: Mrs. Wallace Williams, president; Mrs. Karl M. Currier, vice-president; Mrs. Edmund Crothers, secretary; Miss Beale Bratton, treasurer; Mrs. Malcolm Ricketts Gilpin, chaplain and Mrs. Philip N. King, historian.

mander; J. H. McCloskey, second Vice-Commander; Karl M. Currier, adjutant; Ralph Gray Davis, finance officer; Russell Hoey, sergeant-at-arms; the Rev. David L. Quinn, chaplain, and County Agent Thomas H. Bartilson, historian. Toastmaster William J. Bratton was master of ceremonies. Thomas Leonard, of Wilmington, made an interesting address. Maryland State Commander Wallace Williams, of Elkton; Dr. Willard H. Wright, of Elkton; William Matthews, vice-commander of Delaware; Alexander Crothers and Arthur McGee, of Crisfield, Department Adjutant of the State of Maryland, each made short addresses.

Dr. J. H. Mason Knox, Jr., director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of Maryland, addressed the Parent-Teacher Association of Port Deposit Monday night on "What Can Be Done for the Child?"

There will be a general meeting of high school teachers of Cecil County on February 10 in the Elkton High School, beginning at 9.30 a. m., under the supervision of E. Clark Fontaine, supervisor of high schools. The program will consist principally of round table discussions by the various principals of the high schools.

William K. Allee, a retired merchant of Rising Sun, has gone to Florida to spend the balance of the winter.

The newly-formed Boys' Club of North Elk parish, North East, will hold a meeting Friday evening, to be addressed by Dr. H. A. Cantwell on "First Aid."

Magistrate H. J. Roe, of Port Deposit, has sentenced a Negro boy named Vandyke to six months in the House of Correction for stealing an overcoat from an automobile owned by Harry Alexander.

WIFE GETS $2500 IN ALIENATION CASE

A jury in the Cecil County Court, at Elkton, Saturday afternoon awarded Mrs. Irene Sykes the sum of $2500 in her $10,000 suit for the alienation of the affections of her husband, LeRoy Sykes, against Miss Margaret Anderson, also of Elkton.

The case was tried by eleven jurors, after its foreman, Election Supervisor Bayard G. Black, of Charlestown, was taken ill shortly after the case was put on trial, and had to be removed from the court room. William H. Marcus, of Elkton, was moved up to the foreman's chair. The plaintiff testified that she and her husband got along very well until about three years ago, when Miss Anderson, of the Bay View section came to Elkton.

After the arrival of Miss Anderson, Sykes' attitude towards his wife and family took a change, and he is said to have deserted his family and taken up his residence at Bacon Hill, with Miss Anderson, who later purchased the Heatzig property in Elkton and has since resided there.

Miss Anderson denied that she was the cause of Sykes leaving his wife. She is the owner of a rooming house for tourists passing through Elkton. Sykes, who was convicted some months ago, charged with violating the Volstead Act, is now serving a six months' sentence in the Maryland House of Correction, was a witness in the case.

Marshallton

The Misses Roberta Foard and Lora Crouch, of Marshallton, and Edward Ehart, of the Cedars, were guests at a card party given by Mr. and Mrs. Alvan Burnite, of Wilmington, last Saturday evening. Among the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. York Smith, of Union Park Gardens, former residents of this town.

Peggy Hubert, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hubert, is now much improved and returned from the Delaware Hospital last Monday. She suffered a serious attack of appendicitis.

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Mill Creek Fire Company were guests of honor at a dinner given by the men of the company last Friday evening.

Mrs. Mary Crossan, well known to many residents of Marshallton, died at the home of her son, George Crossan, in McKeesport, Pa., last Friday night following an illness of two weeks. Although Mrs. Crossan had never made her home here, she was a frequent visitor and had made many friends. The funeral services were conducted in Frankford, Pa., on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clark, of Chester, spent last Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Broadbent.

Howard Longstaff is recuperating at his home after an illness from complications.

Miss Miriam Barlow has accepted the position of cashier of the local American Store.

Christiana

The annual Christmas party and "treat" of the Christiana Improvement Association was held in School Hall Tuesday evening of last week. Santa Claus paid the association a visit during the evening, making his entrance through the chimney. Each person present was called by name, and presented with a gift from Santa's pack. During the entertainment period recitations were given by Mrs. Charles Barrett and Master Paul David. Later on refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Louis Thorp, Jr., Mrs. Preston W. Spence, Jr., and Mrs. John Hanna.

The Presbyterian Sunday School gave a Christmas party for the children in the church last Friday evening. The affair had been several times postponed on account of illness among the members of the school, and for various other reasons, but was none the less thoroughly enjoyed when it finally took place.

The exercises opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. S. L. Irvine.

For the Sunday Stay-at-Homes

Don't stay away because it rains. That would not keep you from your business.

Don't stay away because company came; bring them.

Don't let the Sunday paper keep you; we have something better.

Don't stay away because you are rich; we can help you to cure that.

Don't stay home from laziness; idle men tempt the devil.

Don't stay away because the church is imperfect; should you find and join the perfect church, its perfection would cease.

Don't stay away because it isn't your denomination; same excuse would keep you out of heaven.

Don't stay away because you do not need the church; it isn't so.

If you must look at the dirt six days, take one to examine the clouds.

Don't stay away because the church does not need you; never did the church need more and better men.

Don't stay away because you know more than the preacher; God has something to say to you worth hearing.

Don't stay away because its hard to get ready; make it a matter of conscience and not of convenience.

Don't stay away because you are not needed; the stay-at-home citizen loses the election.

Don't stay away because there are plenty there; there are a thousand million non-church goers in the world; you are responsible for one.

Don't stay away because of the children; the boy and girl who eats at your table should sit next to you in the church.

Don't stay away for any reason except one you can conscientiously give your maker.

Too High A Price?

Testimony before a coroner's jury, sitting in judgment on the recent fatal accident at the Pennsylvania grade crossing at South College avenue, brought forth the extreme price it was necessary to pay to prove the obvious fallibility of the safety precaution at that crossing. The life of a 10-year-old boy was instantly snuffed out to prove that precautions further than a set of gates, and a man to raise and lower them, was necessary to make the crossing even comparatively safe. The watchman, who very humanly erred in judgment, was exonerated by the jury, and the railroad company, which failed to provide the watchman with any warning of the approach of trains, was found guilty of criminal negligence, resulting in the death of a child.

This recent accident gives opportunity to compare the relative merits and deficiencies of the safety precautions of the two railroad companies running trains across the streets of our town. Both have their merits and their deficiencies. From the death record, it appears that the gates are the most effective. However, neither the gates nor the lights are sufficiently effective, per se. A combination of both, without much doubt, would have prevented both the last fatal accidents occurring at the crossings of the respective roads.

Even with gates, lights, and signals to the watchmen, the crossings will never be anything more than a constant menace to human life and limb. There is only one solution; the abolition of the grade crossing altogether. That solution is accepted by all authorities; the only thing standing in the way of its application is a matter of dollars and cents. The question now is whether human life or silver dollars is the most valued commodity.

"Getting Ready To Live"

William James, early in his life, said that he did not have much personal interest in immortality. However, when asked about it in later years, when his life was growing richer and more serviceable, he answered: "I find my interest in personal immortality growing stronger." When asked why, his answer was, "Because I am just getting ready to live." Apparently, the greater one's idealism, one's devotion to truth, to goodness and to beauty, the stronger is one's zest in existence and the greater the probability of one's to continue in existence.—Michigan Christian Advocate.

Rates of Postage Declared Unfair

Revision of existing postal rates and establishment of a postal rate system upon a sound and permanent basis are recommended in a report of the postal committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to be submitted to Congress by Lewis E. Pierson, president of the organization.

Existing postal rates, the committee finds, have proved in many respects to be clearly inadequate and uneconomic, putting unfair, and in some cases prohibitive burden upon the important use of the mails. This, it is asserted, reacts unfavorably upon business and the public interest, the chamber announced.

Among the conclusions of the committee which Congress is asked to consider are:

That the increases in the rate on private mailing cards has driven more than 80 per cent of private post cards out of existence.

That, under the increased zone rates on advertising matter in newspapers and magazines, this class of matter which contrary to prevalent belief, yields substantial profits to the post office department, has shown a decrease, instead of a normal rate of increase corresponding to the growth of the publication business.

That the rates on newsdealers' bundles used in wholesale newspaper and magazine distribution are too high for the character of service rendered by the post office.

That rates on publications mailed by other than the publishers are so high that this business shows a decrease of 37 per cent.

Similar adjustments of certain third and fourth class rates are recommended by the committee which concludes its report by saying:

In its studies leading to the preparation of the present report the Postal Service Committee has found cumulative evidence that the rates referred to in the report are too high, resulting in the falling off in volume of business or failure to maintain normal growth.

The Post Office Department reports of business handled show that, if the postal rates had not been raised and if the average normal increase in revenue had continued, the revenues at the old rates for the three years ending June 30, 1927, would have slightly exceeded the actual receipts under the new rates.

ships of $300 each, open to nationwide competition. Since that time, Dr. Hullihen has been able to get 16 scholarships from the city of Wilmington, and anticipates a number more, for national competition. With this as an example, it is thought that other cities throughout the country will contribute generously of scholarships for both local and national competition.

The committee will, also, give the foreign study idea wide-spread national publicity. The members of the committee are: Dr. Stephen P. Dugan, Director of the Institute of International Education, chairman; and the following heads of the French departments of their respective institutions: Miss Florence White, Vassar; Professor Horatio Smith, Brown; Miss Mary V. Young, Mt. Holyoke; Professor James F. Mason, Cornell; Miss Margaret Frazer, Radolph Macdon Women's College; Professor Charles A. Downer, C. C. N. Y.; Miss Dorothy Innes, Wellesley, now with the Foreign Study Group in France; Professor Bert Young, Indiana; Professor Raymond Weeks, Columbia. Dr. Hullihen will also serve on the committee, but has asked that his name will not have too much prominence because of his connection with the University of Delaware, which has developed the Foreign Study Plan. Dr. Hullihen was urged to accept the chairmanship of the committee, but declined for the foregoing reasons.

Dr. Hullihen will conclude his address with a summary of opinions of students, who have had the year study abroad, as to its value and their judgments as to its distinctive differences from the corresponding year in this country; and quotations from letters from college deans and teachers, giving their opinions as to the merits and disadvantages of the foreign study idea.

Receives Decoration

Last Thursday, at a luncheon at the French Embassy, in Washington, Dr.

Hullihen was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France, in recognition of his work in developing the Foreign Study Plan. Dr. Hullihen received the decoration from the hands of Paul Claudel, Ambassador of France to the United States.

In accepting the honor, Dr. Hullihen said that he could accept it not as an individual, but only as a representative of the University of Delaware, the Foreign Study Committee and the Board of Trustees of the University of Delaware, who all together, by consistent and united effort had developed the Foreign Study Plan to its present effective state. Dr. Hullihen paid particular tribute to Mr. Pierre S. du Pont, whose interest and generosity had made the development of the plan possible; to Professor Kirkbride, from whose original conception of a foreign department in Paris the present plan was evolved; and to the faculty of the University of Delaware, which had worked out and put into effect the details of the plan.

Historical Review

In his address before the Association of American Colleges, on Friday, Dr. Hullihen will give a historical review of the undergraduate foreign study movement. A concise synopsis of that review is as follows:

In 1922-23 a year's study by a member of the Delaware faculty of conditions in France, with special reference to courses available in French universities suitable for American college juniors or seniors. July, 1923, first Delaware group sailed for 11 months study in France. In 1924 organization of the Marks Committee on Undergraduate Study and Travel and establishment of a number of $1000 scholarships open to nationwide competition for undergraduate study in any foreign country under general direction of American Council on Education. 1924-25 second Delaware group. 1925-26 third Delaware group and first Smith College group. 1926-27 and 1927-28 fourth and fifth Delaware groups and second and third Smith College groups. Students from 20 different colleges in the Delaware group of 1926-27 and from 25 colleges in 1927-28 group now in France. List of colleges thus represented: Amherst, Boston University, Brown University, Colgate, Colorado College, Columbia University, Cornell University, Dartmouth, Delaware, Dickinson, University of Florida, Hamilton, Hood, Mount Holyoke, University of Iowa, University of Indiana, Kenyon, Knox, Lafayette, Miami, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, University of Montana, College of the City of New York, New York University, New Jersey College for Women, Olivet, University of Pennsylvania, University of Pittsburgh, Principia Junior, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Rutgers, Sacred Heart, Syracuse, Vassar, Wellesley, Western College for Women, Western Reserve, Westminster, Wheaton, and Williams.

For all these reasons New York's annual automobile show assumes an extraordinary economic importance. Here the prosperity of the United States is embodied in synthetic nitrocellulose lacquers of a hundred hues, in gleaming metal, in new triumphs achieved by the engineer and his artistic compeer, the body designer. A whole country has waited for this exhibition of our well-being. With railroad car-loadings, the condition of the agricultural community, steel production, and exports, statisticians must now incorporate automobile sales in order to deduce an economic index that will enable us to visualize the state of the nation.

More than twenty million of us now bowl over fine roads. And yet the automobile manufacturers are so confident of the future that in 1927 they spent the enormous sum of $300,000,000 to expand their manufacturing and selling facilities. Why not? Twenty-five years ago a few unimaginative, gloomy conservatives predicted that the "saturation point" would be reached with three million cars on the registration books. More than that number were sold in 1927 alone, and the estimates for 1928 range from an over-optimistic 5,000,000 to a more plausible 3,750,000. Soon we shall be exporting a million cars a year. Even then the once dreaded saturation point is not in sight. A single car, once the dream of every American, is no longer enough. Already 2,700,000 families find two cars necessary to complete happiness, according to a survey made by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and this although the "two-car market" has hardly been exploited. Even the farmer must have

WINTER DRINKING PANS FOR BIRDS

William R. Moses

Although the fact probably is not realized by most people, the suffering of birds during the winter season may be in a greater part due to lack of water than to lack of food. A close observer will note that during the summer months his bird-bath is also used as a drinking fountain by his feathered neighbors. In the winter time, it is true, most of these fly south. In such states as Tennessee, my own home, however, mockingbirds, bluebirds, cardinals, blue jays, sometimes robins, and many other species are permanent residents.

When the weather grows cold, these birds, on flying to the bird-bath for a morning drink, are quite likely to find, instead of a pan of water, a board on which are bread crumbs, suet, seeds or table scraps. This, of course, is excellent, and will save the birds a great deal of work and trouble in getting their food.

However, it may necessitate their flying far and searching long for water. They may, in fact, be forced to quit the neighborhood on that account. The way to prevent this is quite obvious. By placing a small pan of water beside the food, one can have a free lunch counter that no bird will scorn.

Providing water for winter birds is hardly feasible in the northernmost states, as so few birds remain there over winter, and water, when placed outside, will freeze in such a short time. In the central and southern states, however, it is only necessary to remove the ice in the morning, and refill the pan, and the birds will have water throughout the day. Moreover, it is to places where they have found food and water in times of necessity that birds will return in the summer.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

WHEN BLOOMERS WERE NAUGHTY

On Monday evening information was received by the police that two women were promenading Broadway attired in short satin dresses and full bloomer costume and conducting themselves in a most indecorous manner, to the annoyance of respectable ladies and gentlemen who were taking a walk in that vicinity. They were taken into custody and placed in a cell to ponder in solitude upon their disgraceful conduct. Such acts as these will certainly operate materially against the respectable portion of our community wearing the new and so-called costume.—From the New York Times of October 1, 1921 mobile is only $953. And what a car it is! Examine it with a critical eye. Four-wheel brakes, high-compression engine to attain road speeds of sixty-five and seventy miles an hour, low centre of gravity, long wheel base, fine lines, shock absorbers, self-starters, such technical niceties as noiseless alloy-steel valves and invar strut pistons, a score of touches that once distinguished the custom-made or the expensive imported car—surely it seems as if the mechanical road millennium has dawned. The sighs of those who bemoan the passing of old craftsmanship—of what avail are they in the face of this miracle wrought by automatic machines and mass production? Not for $10,000 could the old artisans have produced this graceful, smoothly riding, luxurious gasoline vehicle that costs less than an average thousand. No industry is so keenly competitive as that of producing automobiles by the million. None is more assiduous in studying the public welfare.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES IN NEWARK CHURCHES

A two weeks' evangelistic program will commence at the Presbyterian Church on January 24, and will continue every evening until February 5. Reverend John D. Lindsay, of Findlay, Ohio, will be the speaker. The hour of each evening's service will be 7.45.

Reverend D. W. Jacobs, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal Church, is preaching a series of sermons leading up to special evangelistic services which will begin at that church on January 29, to be held each evening at 7.30. A number of pastors of M. E. Churches in the vicinity will assist Mr. Jacobs in the services.

Interest is increasing in the weekly young people's society, the Epworth League, which meets at the church every Sunday evening at 6.45. J. Wilkins Cooch, as president of the League, issues an earnest invitation to the young people of the town and the university to attend these meetings.

A little-known historical fact has just been disclosed by Admiral Phillips. Probably most people, if asked why naval uniforms are blue, would reply that the color harmonizes best with the color of the waves, or that blue dyes are most successful in resisting salt water and sea air. Actually, they are blue because in 1745 a former Duchess of Bedford had a blue riding habit faced with white. The Duke of Bedford was at that time First Lord of the Admiralty and had before him the question of a color for the first naval uniforms. The King remarked to him how attractive the Duchess's habit looked and he thereupon chose the color which has ever since, and in probably every naval and merchant marine in the world, been standard for sea wear.

The world is much the best university. One does not begin to learn until the gates of the college have closed behind one for good, and the problems of life are met in actual experience.—Lord Aberconway.

The Newark New Century Club held its regular bi-weekly business meeting on Monday.

Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy announced that the Choral Society would again become active. The requirements for membership are desire and willingness to sing; untrained voices are wanted, although restricted to club members. All those who will and can sing in tune are urged to be present at the club rooms next Monday at 2 o'clock for a half hour of singing.

Mrs. Manchester of the Consumers' League of Delaware introduced Miss Laura Parker of the Council of Women of Home Missions, from New York City, who talked most appealingly of the work among children at the cannery camps, urging co-operation in overcoming the problem of migrating people of the State by caring for the physical, moral, and mental training of these children at our very gates.

Miss Edna Murray rendered three vocal selections, "The Morning," "Peggy," and "Memory."

Mr. Frank Stephens, of Arden, delighted those members present with his talk on "Arts and Crafts in the Shops of Arden"—an artist himself was speaking, revealing his accomplishments, his aims, his ideals, his dreams, in fact, his innermost thoughts of Arden, a colony where work would be done for the beauty of life.

An informal meeting of the club next Monday at 2.30, will be in charge of Mrs. Heim, assisted by Mrs. McCue, Mrs. Dinsmore, and Mrs. Rhodes. Refreshments will be served.

and at the stroke of midnight the hostess assisted by her daughters, served a good old-fashioned sour kruit supper that tempted the most critical appetites.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Tyrens have issued invitations for a similar event and by all appearances "The Beantown Choir" will be kept busy trying to keep up with the whirl of gaieties planned in their honor.

Mrs. Robert C. Levis entertained a few friends at dinner last evening in compliment to Miss Frances Hurd, who expects to sail from New York City on the 18th for a trip to the Barbadoes.

Miss Marian McKim, of Georgetown, is the guest of Miss Frances Hurd.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Whitercraft entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hollingsworth and daughter, Mildred, who leave for Florida this week.

WEDDINGS

BUZBY-PILLING

Mrs. Hannah Thompson Pilling, of this town, and Mr. Walter J. Buzby, of Atlantic City, were quietly married by the Friends' ceremony, at the former's home on Orchard road, yesterday afternoon at four o'clock. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Buzby will sail from New York City on the Empress of France, January 24, for a three-months' cruise which will take them along the coast of South America, stopping at Kingston, Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Montevideo, Buenos Aires, and many other points; then across to Cape Town, up the East Coast of Africa, with inland excursions to Kimberly Mines, Victoria Falls, up the Nile to Luxor, across to Monaco, where they leave the boat. They will then spend some time in London, Paris and other European cities. On their return they will live at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Buzby is one of the most popular and beloved of Newark women. A great deal of entertaining has been done in her honor in the few months since her engagement was announced.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Miss May Boone, of Reading; Dr. and Mrs. Joel Boone, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Straub, of Pottsville, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Horsey, of Lansdowne, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. High School Divides Honors With Alumni

Boys' Basketball Team Loses To Alumni, 52-17; Girls Beat Alumnae, 27-23

Last night the Newark High School and the Newark High School Alumni Association met on the basketball court and divided honors. The alumni smothered the High School boys under a score of 52 to 17, and the High School girls won from the alumnae, 27 to 23.

The alumni, with a team of former High School stars, ran rings around the comparatively green High School quintet and polished them off with ease. Oscar Morris and Paul Jaquette, both last year's varsity men, took the scoring honors for the alumni with 10 and 11 points, respectively. Holloway did the best execution for the High School, garnering 11 points.

The girls game was closer, with the High School girls always holding a small advantage. Scores:

SOPHS TAKE DELAWARE BASKETBALL TITLE

The sophomores clinched the interclass basketball championship of Delaware College, last Thursday, when they swamped the junior team 25 to 14. Up to that game each team had won three and lost one game.

The sophs held an edge throughout the game. The first half ended 16 to 9 in their favor, and they allowed the upper classmen only 5 points in the second. Squillace and Riggen took the scoring honors with 9 tallies each, while Roser garnered 6 points for the juniors. Score:

DELAWARE TO ENGAGE ST. JOHN'S CAGERS, FRI.

Last Friday's Game Postponed; Boyer's Absence Severe Lost to Swimming Team

Due to construction on the new addition to the gymnasium, the University of Delaware was forced to postpone the opening of its basketball schedule for one week. The game with St. John's scheduled for last Friday night will be played on February 23. The season will be opened here this Friday with St. John's.

The new building is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that in a few weeks the pool will be ready for the swimming team. The swimming team, with several new candidates of experience and record on the squad, looks forward to a successful campaign. However it suffered a blow in the loss of Wilson Boyer, sterling diver, who has left college to take a position with the Bell Telephone Company. Boyer was counted on as a

N. S. C. DROPS GAME TO POLISH FALCONS, 22-13

Staging a surprising rally in the last five minutes of play, the Polish Falcons, of Wilmington, upset the Newark Sporting Club, 22 to 13, in a basketball game, played in the Armory, Monday night. Up to that point the Falcons had a lead of only one point. The first half ended 6 to 5 in favor of the Falcons.

The superb defense of the Falcons really won the game for them. It allowed the Sporting Club only two goals from the field in each half. Cornog, Bland and Williamson played the most finished basketball for Newark.

J. V.'s MEET RUTGERS PREP FRIDAY NIGHT

Marion Hopkins, Local Athlete, Will Be in Prep School Line-up

Rutgers Preparatory School of New Brunswick, N. J., will oppose the University of Delaware Junior Varsity in Newark on Friday evening. On the Prep team will be Marion, "Biff," Hopkins, former Newark High School star. "Biff" has made a good basketball, football and baseball record in his two years at the school.

Also on the team will be four of the six-man team which last year won the world free throw basketball title in the annual tournament at Charleston, S. C. The Prep School is running a tournament of its own this year, with individual and team awards for winners from New Jersey high and preparatory schools. More than 200 New Jersey schools are expected to enter.

The team is captained by Bill Shellady, captain for the second time, and running mate at guard to Hopkins. At center is Jim Comerford, who made a good reputation at the post in Connecticut athletic circles last year. The forwards are Johnny Roman of Wilmington and Herb Carlson. Bob Shellady, brother of Bill, is likely to get into the game.

DEL. COMMUTERS LOSE TO POLISH FALCONS, 27-19

New Stars Cost Less; Are Faster, Larger

Coming as a sensational climax to the news of the offerings of Ford and General Motors are W. C. Durant's new Star Four models—springing a big surprise on even the knowing ones of the industry. This year W. C. Durant celebrates his silver anniversary—twenty-five years of service in the automobile industry and it was generally conceded that the man who created Buick and Chevrolet, who formed General Motors and who for many years was the president would commemorate this in a way which would be a fitting climax to his many years of leadership in the field. Amid the din of talk and publicity about Ford and Sloan, W. C. Durant, as is characteristic of the man, has been saying little and doing much. Now he announces a line of many sensational features, exactly matching Ford's prices.

His speedy and economical Star Four motor has been developed to exceed 40 brake horse power, which will give a sustained speed, hour after hour, of from fifty-eight to sixty-eight miles per hour. And Mr. Durant promises that it will create even greater records for gasoline economy and low upkeep.

Powerful 4-wheel Bendix mechanical brakes will match this increased speed with increased safety. They are of the 3 shoe type, with a large 11 inch brake drum, positive and simple of adjustment and action.

The wheelbase has been lengthened to 107 inches—the longest for the price. New extra large, semi-elliptic springs have been developed, using a new process which it is said gives such easy riding qualities that shock absorbers are unnecessary. Interiors have been greatly enlarged and made much roomier, giving increased comfort to the car already famed for its easy riding qualities.

The motor has a bore of 3 1/2 in. and a stroke of 4 1/4 in., with a piston displacement of 152 cu. inches, is rubber mounted, and equipped with Morse silent chain timing—the result being that engine noise and vibration even at high speeds is practically eliminated. Force-feed lubrication and a vacuum system of a prominent make are also features. The large gasoline tank is in the rear.

The new beauty of the line is conspicuously revealed in a higher radiator, making an impressive front view and giving a perfect streamline effect. New large full crown fenders, lower top, and in striking two-toned lacquer finishes in a wide variety of color combinations.

Checking over the specifications, it is evident that the most casual observer cannot help but be impressed with the sheer beauty of the models and the very unusual values presented.

The line includes the Four-Door Sedan at $570; the Coupe at $495; the Two-Door Sedan at $495; and the Sport Roadster at $495.

Not since W. C. Durant tersely announced April first of last year that he was "back on the job" have even his closest friends had an inkling of his plans. At the time of his severing his connections with a number of interests in which he had been a prominent figure Mr. Durant said "My plans for the future have much to do with a well considered program greater to the interest of Durant Dealers and to the benefits of the Stockholders of Durant Motors, Inc."

In introducing a line of low priced fours he becomes a formidable contender in the battle of giants.

"NOW WE'RE IN THE AIR"

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, the first team of fun-makers to achieve fame, are now trying another branch of Uncle Sam's Service and say so in "Now We're in the Air", the picture which brings them to the Arcadia Theatre at Wilmington the week of January 9th.

Beery and Hatton are not Lindberghs when it comes to non-stop flights, but they outdo the famous Colonel when it comes to non-stop laughing. Their tries at aviation are something unexpected, which even Lindy could not hope to better.

The story of "Now We're in the Air" is a farcical one and every moment is either a laugh or a thrill and sometimes both.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Anna B. Guthrie, who passed away January 14, 1923.

Just a line of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of love's devotion,
That our hearts still long for you.

Though the Good Lord took her from us,
Yet we know His ways are just,
It will all be plain hereafter
In His wisdom we can trust.

Sadly missed by her children,
Mrs. Edwin Guthrie.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cold Weather Desserts

In winter, we are accustomed to have the furnace lighted, and feel aggrieved if we are chilly and the radiators are not sizzling hot. Another thing we come to know, in strike years anyway, is that it takes coal to keep the furnace running. The body is much like a furnace, but it uses food for fuel. Interestingly enough, both coal and food are graded by calories, or the amount of heat given off by a certain weight when burned.

When the atmosphere is cold, the body is more rapidly cooled and so requires more fuel to maintain its constant temperature. If the extra fuel is not furnished in the diet, the body eats up first its fat and finally its muscle, until starvation, it burns itself out. This process of nature explains why we like certain foods in winter more than in summer. Most people do not wish to eat a greater bulk of food, but get the calories by choosing foods richer in fat. It takes two and one-quarter ounces of sugar to give off as much heat as one ounce of fat.

Sugar, Spice and Everything Nice

Now is the season when pies come into their own, the succulent apple, the spicy squash or pumpkin, the rich, fruity mince, in crusts flaky and tender. There are, of course, many other favorites, fruit pies of all kinds and lemon meringue.

These are no longer the burden to make that they used to be, for the bulk of preparation has been taken out of the home. Canned fruits come ready to use, mince meat, instead of being the labor of a week, also is put up in cans, and coconut grated and canned in its own bulk, needs only the service of the can opener.

The old favorites, steamed date, fig, plum puddings are now prepared in the same manner, taking the labor out of the home, and need only to be heated and served with whatever sauce is best liked. Some of the preferred sauces are a sweet Hollandaise, foamy sauce or hard sauce. Left-over canned fruit syrups, thickened with cornstarch and flavored with salt and lemon juice, are very satisfactory sauces.

Fruit Desserts are Good

While hot desserts appeal at this season, they are not necessarily rich in calories. Following a heavy dinner, a fruit soufflé would be better than a suet pudding, pie, or roly-poly. Berrys may be made quite rich with butter and brown sugar and served with hard sauce, or else nearly as simple as plain apple sauce, and served with no sauce at all, or light cream. To make the latter variety, butter a pudding dish and cover sides and bottom with a layer of dried, ground bread crumbs. Fill the dish with apple sauce, (a medium sized can is about the right amount for the average family) or crushed pineapple, top with crumbs, and bake until brown. The richer variety is put together in layers with plenty of butter, brown sugar and cinnamon, and emerges from the oven quite candy-like.

Winter shortcakes are just as good as the summer varieties and suit the requirements of the body better. Almost any of the canned fruits, drained from their juice, arranged on layers of tender, buttery shortcake, heaped with whipped cream or spread with marshmallow cream are dishes to fill and satisfy the hungriest mortal and the most fastidious guest.

Cold Desserts for Heat

Strangely, our coldest desserts, with the exception of ices and sherbets are also the richest in heat and energy producing elements. Ice cream, mousses, and parfaits rich in eggs and cream may temporarily chill the body, will give out a supply of energy to more than make up for their temporary cooling effect. The simplest ice cream is the Philadelphia, a combination of light cream, sugar and flavoring. This type is most satisfactory for fruit flavors. To three cups of coffee cream add the contents of a can of fruit and three-quarters of a cup of sugar, which should be dissolved in the syrup. The fruit itself should either be put through a ricer previous to combining with the cream, or added in small pieces before freezing process is completed.

"Pot Luck"

Come along and "take pot-luck"! (We may have stew; we might have duck) But whatever there be I pledge you cheer, Joy's full grace and welcome sincere, So come along and "take pot-luck"!

Have you ever experienced the particular kind of dismay which seems to rush over one at the appalling realization that an unexpected guest has arrived just in time to partake of the meal which you had confidently planned for the express purpose of using up odds and ends? A "pick-up" meal—finishing up the Sunday roast, just enough of this and that left over to go around, counting only members of the family. Honestly not a crumb too much—nor too little—were it not for the Unexpected Guest! Have you known the embarrassment of not being able to conceal your anxiety?

Buy Prepared Foods

If such an experience has ever been yours, you probably made a resolution that never again would you be caught in such a situation. Henceforth you would be prepared. You would take advantage of the next sale of prepared foods and lay in a good supply! And if you really carried out your resolution, you know the comfort of an "emergency self" of quick-to-prepare, delicious canned foods. You know, too, the actual savings it has meant, not only in time, worry and work, but in money. Bargains in prepared foods of every kind are constantly available at sales, and the foresighted housewife is quick to take advantage of them.

Ready-to-serve dishes which will prove their special merits and which deserve a place on the emergency shelf include whichever may be your favorites among the twenty-seven kinds of canned soups; canned spaghetti; baked beans; entrées such as chicken à la King, chop suey, lobster Newburg and, of course, a few cans of salmon, tuna fish and other prepared meats. Vegetables of all kinds in cans offer to save you time and energy and to give you valuable vitamins if you will but keep them handy on the shelf. Canned mushrooms add tone and flavor to many dishes and are delicious sautéed on toast. And you will want fruits, plenty of them for appetizers, salads and desserts. Plenty for the "pot" and all good "luck" with such a store of good things to serve!

You may have proved all this for yourself. If so, the following suggestions for menus may merely offer new combinations of dishes for the "pot-luck" dinner. If not, you will find it both pleasant and profitable to try them, whatever the occasion.

SACRIFICE OF CIVIC SERVICE

To use President Coolidge's word, few men "choose" to run for civic office. Most men prefer to attend to their own business and to enjoy what social life their leisure hours give them. Prospective candidates have to be canvassed and persuaded to a realization of civic responsibility. Someone must do the work of an alderman or school trustee. If capable men refuse to do it, others less competent will, and the city will suffer.—Calgary (Alta.) Herald.

J. R. O. U. A. M. NEWS

The American Flag Council, No. 28, J. R. O. U. A. M. convened their meeting at an early hour last Monday evening. Encouraging reports were accepted from the various standing committees. Great enthusiasm is being shown for the thirty-first anniversary of January 25. This night will mean much for Japhetism in Newark. All State officers and Councils, together with friends, are expected to be present. Come early and avoid the rush as we expect to display our sign S. R. O. very early.

After the meeting Monday night 25 of the brothers journeyed to the Summit Bridge Council, where our Past Councilor Henry P. Mote, installed their newly elected officers in a very creditable and solemn manner.

Tonight, Wednesday, we will journey to Welcome Council, Wilmington, where Brother Mote will install their new officers.

Next Friday the Council will visit Old Glory Council, No. 12, Delaware City, for installation of officers by Brother Mote.

Our fraternity today affords protection both from a financial and social standpoint, which is just as essential now as it has ever been. In order that this may continue it is necessary for us to impress the young with the accomplishments of our Order and of its aims and objects and instruct them early as to its benefits and protection. The things you did a month ago, Or what you did last year, old scout. Or even what you did last week. Don't give you much to brag about. For folks aren't interested in retrospection.

They don't much care what you have done, They want to know what you are doing.

—A. J. Smythe, Publicity Com.

Mineola Council, No. 17, Degree of Pochontas started the New Year in a progressive manner on last Wednesday, when they initiated four pale-faces.

After the regular routine of business, the lodge room was turned over to Sister Elva Widdoes, who had charge of the entertainment.

Some splendid music was furnished by the Taylor Brothers, and proved so irresistible that after a duet by Cora Jackson and Lillian Messick, and recitations by Gertrude Jacobs, Lillian Messick and Sara Tryens, the affair was turned into a dance.

After the final number, a square dance, delicious refreshments were served by the social committee.—Sara Tryens, Press Correspondent.

NEWARK DAIRY MAIDS

On Thursday evening, a delegation of Dairy Maids visited Wynema Council, No. 10, of Wilmington for the purpose of interesting Wynema Council in a Craft of Dairy Maids.

Sara Tryens was spokesman for the delegation and after a short but interesting talk pertaining to Dairy Maids, she repeated the following:

We're that new band of Dairy Maids From little Delaware.

Happy and content are we

With ne'er a care

For when we've finished milking

And the dairy set to right,

We start right in to churning,

And fun reigns at its height.

Sour milk is not welcome,

We select the best of cream

So our butter will be wholesome

And the quality supreme.

Goodfellowship and laughter

Are always on hand,

So our Herdman looks after

The best cows in the land.

This met with tremendous applause and it is expected to add a new craft to the Dairy Maids in the near future.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Friendship Temple, No. 6, Pythian Sisters, held a big time on Friday evening after the business meeting. Captain Richard Ramsey had his Degree Team out for practice and from the way the work was put on, it promises to be the leading team of the Domain.

On next Friday evening, January 13, the Temple will hold installation of officers, and all members are requested to be out and make it a big night.

K. OF P.

Oseola Lodge, No. 5, K. of P., still hold their weekly entertainments, which seem to make a hit with the members, as the attendance is growing larger each week.

On next Monday evening, January 16, a committee led by Ollie Leverage, promises the best entertainment of the season. Among the numbers on the program will be addresses by Rev. Diston W. Jacobs, Zack Wells, several Past Grand Chancellors of the Domain, including J. Carroll Brinton, Irving H. Brinton and others. On the musical program will be a selection by the Rev. Diston Jacobs and his wife. While the program is not quite completed, yet it promises to be a big night in Pythianism in Newark. All members are requested to attend. On Monday, January 30, Grand Chancellor Frank W. Fisher and staff will visit Oseola Lodge for the purpose of installing the newly elected officers, so brothers keep these dates in mind and don't fail to attend.

A. O. U. W.

Anchor Lodge, No. 4, Ancient Order United Workmen, will hold a regular meeting in their lodge room tomorrow evening. All members are urged to be present, as important business will be brought before the meeting.

IN THE SAME COUNTRY

The most beautiful story in all literature was written almost 1900 years ago, by a Greek physician named Luke. In simple directness and exquisite charm, it has no superior in language. It tells a complete story without a needless word, yet leaves much for the imagination to supply, which are marks of the perfectly told narrative. Read again how simply but eloquently the story begins:

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night."

If one knows even a little about the hill country of Judea, its starry skies, and possesses even a little of the gift of imagination, he can picture the keepers of the sheep out there on the hillside that first Christmas night, their flocks safe from the attacks of marauding wild beasts. The shepherd is a familiar figure in Biblical lore. He centers the matchless Twenty-third Psalm. Many of the parables of the Master magnify his calling. He is a type of watchfulness. While others sleep, he is alert at his post of duty, fending off enemies of the flock, and refreshing his soul in communion with the stars, when the distracting scenes and noises of the day are done.

It is not surprising, rather it is divinely natural, that the vision of Truth, coincident with the advent of Jesus in the manger at Bethlehem, should first dawn upon the wakeful consciousness of the shepherds and lead them to his birthplace. It is the way of Truth's appearing. On simple minds does the vision come and in open hearts does it abide. Their sleepless eyes first beheld the radiance of the star, their attuned ears heard the song of the heavenly host, and their answering faith brought them in wonder to the humble place of nativity in a glorified stable.

It would be interesting if Luke had followed the course of the shepherds down the years. Did their vision last through the thirty years in which the Bethlehem babe was growing in favor with God and man, being prepared for his three years of ministry? Were any of them in the throng that listened to him speak "as one having authority" from the prow of a boat on the lake shore? Did any of them witness that astonishing manifestation of infinite supply when five thousand were fed with five loaves and two fishes? Could any of them have been in that throng that spread branches in his way as the Master entered Jerusalem, and watched with sore defeat the preparations for his crucifixion? We shall never know. But this we do know—that their wakeful eyes beheld the heavenly vision, their simple faith brought them wondering spectators to the humble birthplace, and their enchanted tongues told and retold the story of that wonderful night, so that faith was kindled to high expectation that the Messiah had truly come.

Nineteen hundred years ago the message of Truth appeared to earth in the physical form of a babe. Before and ever since visions of Truth have been waiting to be revealed to hearts and minds humble and wakeful enough to receive them. There is an enchanted country in which they appear. It is peopled with constant souls who through long nights of gloom wait with courage for the first signs of the morning. While others sleep, they watch on the hillside in wakeful expectancy. They are the heralds of light, the beholders of visions, the torch bearers of Truth's progress.

If the revelation of Truth is confined to a single occurrence many centuries ago, Christianity is dependent upon the written word and not on the experience of men. That revelation ushered in the world's greatest teacher and showed to mankind its Lord and Master. But today, as in every age and clime, the visions press to be revealed to watchful eyes and willing hearts who wait in eager expectancy "in the same country."—York (Neb.) Republican.

There's nothing on earth that gives you more trouble, and less value for your trouble, than a personal grudge. If you have one, don't feed it; starve it.

"BEN HUR"

On Thursday and Friday, January 12 and 13, the management of the Newark Opera House will bring to Newark the stupendous movie spectacle of General Lew Wallace's classic, "Ben Hur." Raymond Navarro is cast in the title role, and is supported by that old-time favorite, Frances X. Bushman. May McAvoy and Carmel Myers, as the feminine leads, portray charming innocence and sacred seduction.

"Ben Hur" has been produced on a lavish scale, and close attention has been paid to the reproduction of historic detail. The chariot race is said to be one of the most thrilling stunts ever attempted in motion pictures.

CARD PARTY

A card party for the benefit of St. John's R. C. Church, Newark, will be held in the Rectory on Friday evening, January 13. Five hundred and eighty will be played, starting at 8:00 o'clock.

Recipe for Preserving Children
Take one large, grassy field, one-half dozen children, two or three small dogs, a pinch of brook and pebbles. Mix the children and the dogs well together and put them in the field, stirring constantly. Pour the brook over the pebbles. Sprinkle the field with flowers. Spread over all a deep blue sky, and bake in the hot sun. When brown, remove and set away to cool in a bathtub.—Fairmont (Minn.) Independent.

ties and their reports on the convention floor assuring us of their support, both financially and morally, is not alone encouraging but is unquestionable evidence that they recognize the value of the Peninsula working as a unit for its welfare and that they appreciate the great things which may be accomplished in the future. I am satisfied that these delegates will exert their best efforts in the individual county campaigns and that they will meet a ready response from their fellow county citizens."

Dr. Franklin B. Bomberger, Executive Director of Administration and Markets of the Association, expressed his complete appreciation of the convention, both because of the impressive attendance and the spontaneous and unanimous action of the counties in resolving to continue affiliation and work toward aiding the financing of the association for the three year period ahead.

Dr. Bomberger said:

"The fact that practically one hundred business leaders in the seven northern counties gave their entire day to the Inter-County Convention and entered so fully into the association's problems, must be accepted as unquestionable indication of the desire to assist in carrying on the association's operations. This loyal interest gives assurance that each of the northern counties will take immediate action in providing the financial aid necessary in their district to carry out the program presented them. Briefly, it is the final guarantee which determines continuation of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association."

Edwin H. Brown, Jr., who presided as chairman at the convention, also expressed himself as being highly gratified with the outcome. The program under Chairman Brown's direction was confined strictly to the business to be considered. The addresses during the morning by Dr. G. Layton Grier, association's president, in which he presented the history and achievements of the association, and by Dr. Franklin B. Bomberger, who reported on the Peninsula-wide referendum, received favorable comment throughout the convention.

Following a luncheon in the college cafeteria the delegates assembled in individual county groups in special rooms provided for them and considered the question of their county continuance. They adopted resolutions which were presented from the floor of the convention on reassembling at 2:30 p. m. In each instance they had voted for immediate action in conducting county campaigns and had considered dates for their organization and general meetings.

Following were the delegates and temporary chairmen attending from Cecil County, Maryland and New Castle County, Delaware:

Cecil County—Irvine T. Kepler, chairman, G. Harry Davidson and Daniel S. Terrell, of Elkton.

New Castle County—William F. Metten, chairman, A. W. Cummings, J. Paul Mullin, J. Frank Davis, Charles Warner, Jr., William Douglas, Gerrish Gassaway, Charles Gibbs, I. L. Wright, George N. Seaver, William B. Mack, John Richardson, Jr., Alfred D. Warner, Jr., of Wilmington; Ed William and C. A. McCoe, of Newark; George C. Burge, of Middletown.

ENTERTAINMENT AT HILLSIDE

Mrs. Orville Ottey will give her second entertainment at Hillside School on Thursday evening, January 12, at 8:00 o'clock. The proceeds will go to the piano fund.

Women's College Dance Brilliant

Class, Dr. Hollibeen, and Dean Dutton, were guests of the Junior Class. Dean Robinson was also an invited guest, but it was not possible for her to be present.

The grand march was led by Miss Dorothy Baylis, vice-president of the class, with her partner, Harry Mankner. Miss Rebecca Hobson, treasurer of the class, was in charge of the tickets, and Lillian Steele, of the music. George Madden's orchestra furnished the music. The Juniors wore wristlets of pink and white flowers, which distinguished them from the other students and guests. The program was of white leather, with gold lettering. The members of the program committee were: Misses Louise Booker, Helen Morton, and Anna May Starling. The favors for the young men were black bill-folds with the University seal in the corner. The favor committee included: Myrtle Simpler, Evelyn Long, and Virginia Swain.

Spotlight dances were a feature of the program. In the fourth dance of the second half the Juniors offered a surprise in a special novelty number. Each girl's program had on its cover an historical date. Gradually the couples were eliminated until 1929 remained to receive the price bracelet, which was won by Miss Margaret Burke.

The Seniors paid the Juniors a pretty compliment by sending Miss Helen Stayton a corsage, and the Juniors returned the compliment by giving Miss Katherine Horton her corsage.
