Thurber Carnival At U.D. Directed By Judith Espinola

There will be five performances of the University of Delaware's Readers' Theatre presentation of "The Thurber Carnival" this year.

The curtain goes up in Wolf Hall auditorium next Wednesday night for the first performance, and the play will be repeated Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, with a Saturday matinee. Usually the Readers' Theatre presents three performances.

The production is under the direction of Judith Espinola.

Readers' Theatre shuns standard staging, but lets the content of the play and audience imagination do most of the work. Thurber's ingenious works are especially suited to the medium.

Thurber's stories billed for E-52 University Theatre production are "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," "The Unicorn in the Garden," and "The Night the Bed Fell."

Original music for the production is being composed by Dick Eckert, a Delaware student, and scenery and costumes are under the direction of Andrew Greenhut.

Tickets are on sale at the Mitchell Hall box office on the Newark campus.

A new program open to business and academic seniors, and sponsored by the Wilmington Trust Company, has been announced by the Newark High School guidance department.

Two stenographic trainees will attend school four hours a day and work in the bank three-and-a-half hours.

They will be paid for a seven-hour day but assume costs of tuition, registration, and supplies. All tuition payments will be refunded after two years' satisfactory full-time employment by the bank.

Interested students are urged to see their guidance counselor.

Picket Line Halts Morning Workers At Chrysler Plant

UAW Officials Calls Strike
"Unauthorized;" Members
Urged To Return To Work

The work stoppage at the local Chrysler assembly plant was called an "unauthorized strike" yesterday by a top union official who told the men to go back to work.

Albert D. Tomme, international representative for the United Auto Workers in the area, last night quoted E. T. Michael, UAW regional director, as saying the Chrysler stoppage is an unauthorized strike and all members are instructed to return to their normal shifts.

Union and plant officials joined last night in radio appeals for workers to return to work this morning. Workers scheduled to report for work at 8 a.m. yesterday were greeted by a picket line set up at 5 a.m.

A union spokesman for the pickets said the work stoppage was not a wildcat strike, which is specifically barred in the UAW contract with Chrysler. "We just aren't going in," he said.

Union and plant officials met about 10 a.m. to discuss the situation.

A union spokesman said Chrysler management is refusing to discuss many grievances. Near the head of this list is a union request that its men be given time off to go to church, he said.

He explained that Chrysler is working overtime shifts on Saturdays and Sundays and will not grant the men on the Sunday shift "freedom of worship" by allowing them to take time from work to attend church.

The Newark plant is working around the clock with two production shifts and one maintenance and repair shift.

Council Considers Electric Service Lease For DP&L

Power Company Officials,
City Finance Committee
Weigh Service Problems

Delaware Power & Light Co. officials have proposed a study of Newark's electrical system with the possibility of operating it for the city on a lease basis.

President Austin T. Gardner, and Lloyd R. Leslie, DP&L vice president in charge of public relations met with Newark City Council and the municipal finance committee last Monday night to consider revisions in city sales and service with provision of electricity.

Councilman Henry R. Folsom Jr., chairman of the finance committee, said that Delaware Power & Light would have to pay the city—in fees for franchise rights, rental of lines and equipment—at least as much as the city earns from its electrical sales, and also give consideration to local expansion with the population increase.

Folsom said that whether the DP&L can do this would depend on complete analysis of the city's operating costs and profits.

A complicating factor involves differing rate structures. The city buys electricity wholesale from DP&L at Kingswood and Middletown.

However, the power company sells directly to a number of major customers in the city including Chrysler Corporation.

Former Local Chrysler Chief Reports Progress In Illinois

James G. Shepherd Heads New Chrysler Auto Assembly Plant At Belvidere; General Contract Work Reported At Halfway Point For Daily 960-Car Output Potential

James G. Shepherd, former manager of the Chrysler auto assembly plant at Newark, reports that general contract work on Chrysler Corporation's new passenger car assembly plant at Belvidere, Ill., has reached the halfway mark just a year after plans for the facility were first announced.

Shepherd, manager of the Illinois plant, said "We have been extremely fortunate in having fine weather to help us along and we believe we will meet our original schedule of having the plant ready for car assembly next summer."

Important progress items listed by Shepherd include completion of steel construction for the two-story office building; completion of the 165-ft. water tower with its 400,000 gal. capacity; 40 per cent completion of paint spray booths, and 90 per cent completion of trim conveyors; installation of conveyor tracks through ovens and spray booths, and beginning installation of the paint recirculating system and air supply fans in fan houses.

Located on a 267-acre site which one year ago was open farmland, the new Chrysler plant will cover more than 1,900,000 sq. ft. of manufacturing area and more than 61,000 sq. ft. of office space.

Total manufacturing area will cover nearly 44 acres.

The greater part of the manufacturing operations will be concentrated on the first floor with its 1,582,875 sq. ft. of space, with paint spray booths and drying ovens occupying most of the 264,000 sq. ft. of the second floor which extends over a portion of the building.

Chrysler's newest assembly plant faces the Northern Illinois Toll Road just a mile south of Belvidere and 14 miles east of Rockford.

Production potential is 960 cars a day over a two-shift operation, with approximate peak employment around 5,000.

Initial production will be concentrated on a one-shift operation with some 2,500 hourly-rated employees.

In addition to the more than 1,300 construction workers currently employed at the plant site, Chrysler has some 30 key staff people working in temporary quarters on Route 20 three miles east of Belvidere.

As the plant nears completion, additional key personnel will join employees already on the grounds to prepare for the hiring, processing and training of personnel for the various plant operations and activities.

Senior Play Plot
Comes To Life
With Eye Injury

"Curtain Going Up," Christiana High School's senior play, centers about the many problems faced by a frustrated high school play director as she tries to direct her school's senior play. Among her problems is an injury to one of her most important actors.

Unfortunately similarities have developed between the plot of "Curtain Going Up" and the actual production of the play itself.

Last Friday, Paul Stoddard—cast to play Buck, a girl-shy football player—sustained a serious eye injury and had to be rushed to Delaware Hospital.

With the performance only 10 days away, Donald Strilling accepted the challenge of filling the role of Buck if Paul should be unable to appear.

"Curtain Going Up" will be given in the Christiana Senior High School auditorium, Friday and Saturday nights, Dec. 11-12.

Prudent Use Of Benefits Levels Blue Cross Rates

Prudent use of Blue Cross benefits by members has made it possible for Group Hospital Service to avoid a rate increase in 1964. H. V. Mayhew, managing director, told the board of trustees at their November meeting.

Use of available benefits is one of the factors in Blue Cross expenses which directly affects rates. This year, use of benefits has not increased as it has in the past.

"This is to the great credit of our members and their physicians," Mayhew said.

Joe Hollon, Chuck Shelton Head Matmen For Coach Marcantonio's Squad At NHS

Co-Captains Joe Hollon and Chuck Shelton with lettermen Creighton Beddow, Mark Hill, and Vic Sadot, head Coach Andy Marcantonio's wrestling squad at Newark High School in preparation for the Blue Hen Conference opener at Newark on Friday, Jan. 8, at 6:30 p.m., with Mt. Pleasant High School.

Hollon will wrestle at 145 or 154; Shelton at 133; Hill, 95-lbs.; Sadot, 120; and Beddow at 133 or 138.

Rowan Perkins, a varsity performer last year, is expected to handle the 180-lb. chore.

Junior varsity wrestlers from last season, who are working out in the gym each afternoon for starting berths with Marcantonio's Yellow-jacket varsity include Bob Jackson, 163; Bruce Jones, 112; Tom Foster, Steve Kubicek, John Roselle, and Billy Waggoner, 120; Tommy Berchard and Carleton Strahorn, 127; and Dick Kelley, 133.

A formal elimination series of matches for Yellowjacket squad candidates will be held in the Newark High School gym on Saturday, Jan. 2, beginning at 2 p.m. Coach Marcantonio announced yesterday, to launch the 1965 wrestling season.

The public is invited to attend at a nominal admission charge, with proceeds to be used for the annual banquet honoring members of the wrestling squad.

The Newark coach will explain the point scoring system prior to the Jan. 2 elimination tournament.

Last year, the Yellowjackets had twin-title holders in Perry Boone, 120, and Harvey Folk, 154—winners of both the Blue Hen Conference and state championships.

Both champions are enrolled as freshmen at the University of Delaware.

Nash Buckingham, Van Campen Heilner and Arnold J. "Ducky" Stewart—nor Robert Ruark, Bus Humphreys, Tony Higgins, Ray Ott and Rudy Taggart—ever had a more pleasantly memorable morning in a duck blind than we experienced last Monday with Robert A. Beck on a portion of the Thousand-Acre Marsh adjoining the Beck homestead near Delaware City.

The wind blew a cold challenge through the reeds of the still, sluicewater marsh; ducks etched their matchless tracery against a gray sky as a pale November sun shone sporadically through a scudding, cloudy curtain; and thanks to Bob Beck's serene serenity with a wooden duck call, we had shooting of which dreams are made.

Home in a Newark living room last Sunday night as we waited with a 16-year-old son, sports fan, and duck hunter for the appearance of Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney on the Ed Sullivan Show, the telephone rang, and it was Delaware City's Bob Beck with his invitation to join him on the morrow when he had an open blind.

No time was lost in reaching a decision on this Beck bid, but in the moment it took to say "Yes Sirree Bob," the two former heavyweight champions had appeared and disappeared on our TV screen. But that was one telephone call well worth the while.

Delaware City lay sleeping and comparatively unchanged beyond the Tidewater refinery where the myriad lights shone like vari-colored jewels scattered against the night's black velvet backdrop, and rolling across the Reedy Point Bridge, we turned back the pages of the past in driving over the highway embankment between the vast marshlands beside the river.

And then we were knocking on the door at the rear of the great white farmhouse where Bob Beck was born, and where another generation is growing up as the waterfowl legions follow the skyways over the marshes as they have for many, many generations past.

Six beautiful mallards were hanging on the cold wooden wall of the entranceway, the kitchen as we passed from the darkness into the welcome warmth and light within, and then there was hot steaming coffee and good man-to-man duck-hunting talk with breakfast while the early light of a brand new day stole slowly over the marshes, with all the best of it yet ahead.

"Do you have plenty of shells?" Mr. Beck asked his guest—and with some good reason in light of past performance.

"Plenty—three!" the host was informed by a visitor caught short on ammunition in a first-of-the-season sport after a hunting son's inroads on the arsenal at home. And these three shells had been located after a frantic search, in a too long unused gunning coat pocket.

"Here, have a box," Bob Beck said, proffering a brand new Rem-And we took 'em.

Walking across a stretch of flat pastureland, we stepped into a trim duck boat on a pond at the edge of the field, and with a long push-pole, Bob sent us gliding over the surface and past a stand of decoys into a narrow channel through a tall jungle of foxtail reeds.

A long, broad, silver pond lay beyond, and a pair of ducks exploded from the 25 decoys floating in black silhouette before the perfect camouflage of a blind nestled back in the reeds tangle, and the boys drew a sliding the boat into a weed-covered marina at the rear of the blind, we stepped into the shallow water on a board platform, opened the gate, and were in as dry and snug a duck blind as ever we'd been.

It had been 10 years since we last hunted the Thousand-Acre Marsh—with Ted Mathewson, Big Bill McNertney, and Dick Ware—and it was good to be back and to find things so little changed, although the foxtail reeds have replaced much of the native cattail and other more desirable wetland vegetation.

"Had to blast out that channel with dynamite," Bob said, concernedly. "Bob said duck concerning our avenue of approach, 'and it takes a lot of sickle work to keep these ponds open,' he added with a reflective frown.

Thousands of redwinged blackbirds arose from the marsh in almost solid swarms to flare and converge again in writhing wraiths like smoke before the wind, and Bob said "The ducks should start to fly after those blackbirds get out of here. This marsh was loaded with ducks last night—I walked out in the yard just to listen to 'em, but most of them pulled out for the river early this morning while it was still dark."

And then Bob Beck began calling in mallard and black duck dialect to a first wedge of high flying waterfowl far, far out over the marsh.

The twinkling fork turned and drew us straight toward us—high, high overhead—passed by, and turned again to come wheeling back—lower. And as Bobby nearly blew his eyes and heart out with a performance to shame the long-outlived live English cullers, the flight of so many ducks circled and circled, down, down, and down.

Back of us and out of sight behind the towering foxtails, the ducks were preparing for another pass over the

Goeller, Ludlow, Stearns Honored As Top Harriers

Mike Goeller and Co-Captains John Ludlow and Ricky Stearns were presented trophies for outstanding performance with Coach Ray Ciesinski's 7-2 Yellowjacket cross-country varsity this season, at the recent annual banquet honoring the Newark High School harrier squad.

Second in final conference standings, Ciesinski's Yellowjacket varsity finished third in the Blue Hen Conference meet, and took fourth in the state meet.

The Newark junior varsity finished second in final standings, and took second in the conference and state meets.

Plagues were awarded to Goeller for taking third and fourth places in the Blue Hen and state meets; and to Stearns for finishing sixth in the Blue Hen event.

Hill received a plaque for winning first place in the javayve Blue Hen Conference meet; and plaques were presented to Jim Brown and to Gary Carpenter for winning third and fourth place spots in the junior varsity state meet.

"We missed winning the Blue Hen Conference dual title by one point," Coach Ciesinski said.

"Injury to Capt. John Ludlow possibly cost us the Blue Hen and state titles, but the boys did a remarkably fine job without John, as their record indicates," the veteran coach concluded.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Did It The Hard Way

There weren't many jobs available in 1935, but a determined young man named John Adams decided there must be a better way to make a living for his family than driving a team of mules on a WPA project in Iowa, Kansas, Adams went to the race track—not to look for a winner but to look for a job.

He got one, and two years later he was the leading jockey in the U. S. Jockey Adams did it the hard way, without the aid of the 5-sound apprentice allowance. Older than most when he decided to become a jockey, Adams chose not to tie himself up with a contract. He continued among the top echelon and in 1942 and '43 was again the country's leading rider.

Globetrotters Plan Dec. 12 Exhibition At UD Field House

Owner Abe Saperstein will present the original Harlem Globetrotters in a professional basketball stand against the Washington Generals in the feature of a tripleheader sports and variety floor show at the University of Delaware Carpenter Field House in Newark, on Saturday night, Dec. 12, at 8 o'clock.

Supporting entertainment that will precede the game and continue at half-time, will include a table tennis match involving international champions Richard Berkman and Lee Dal Joon.

The variety floor show will feature Peg Leg Bates, celebrated one-legged dancer, and accompanists Steve Parry, trapeolinist Mike LeMay, acrobat: George Lee, finger balancer, and Lee Marx, acrobatic juggler.

Until Willie Shoemaker and Bill Hartack came along, Adams was the only 3-time jockey champion. After 25 years in the saddle during which he rode 3,270 winners, he retired in 1958 to train for Texas Ralph Lowe and others.

This year he took over the training of the Hasty House Farm of Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben for whom he had at one time ridden such good horses as Hasty Road, Sea O'Erin, and others.

At the Hotel Plaza in New York City next Thursday, John Adams will receive the Thoroughbred Racing Association's award as one of only eight race riders having 3,000 or more winners to their credit.

End Steve Mitchell, HB Charley Hayman Score 2 TD's Each In Newark 34-0 Win

Steve Mitchell at end, and Charley Hayman at halfback for Coach Bob Hoffman's Yellowjackets, wound up their Newark High School football careers as seniors last Thursday morning with a pair of touchdowns apiece as Newark defeated Christina High School 34-0 at Delaware Stadium.

Coach Bill Horney's Vikings held the powerful Yellowjackets in check for the first quarter, but Newark moved into a 14-0 lead at the half.

In the second period, Mitchell took a short pass from Quarterback Norris Saunders to score the first touchdown, and Halfback Dick Fulton kicked the conversion.

And Hayman capitalized on a Yellowjacket drive by running a short but tough yard into the Viking end zone for the second TD. Again, Fulton's kick was good.

In the third quarter, Mitchell took a Saunders pass for a 64-yard scoring play, and Hayman broke free to unleash his 16-second speed for a 75-yard touchdown run.

Fulton converted both extra points with his "place-kicking artistry, and in the final quarter, scored a touchdown of his own in taking Saunders' pass for the 21-yard maneuver.

Ex-Ford Athlete Dean Flint Recalls First Team Trip

Dean Flint, personnel manager for the GM plant on Boxwood Road, first visited Newark as a Haverford athlete and opponent of Delaware's Fightin' Blue Hen baseball and basketball teams.

Now, a generation later, Mr. Flint is a Newark area resident—at Millford Crossroads—and his athletic allegiance is somewhat torn between his old Fords and newly-adopted Hens.

"I had no idea that I would ever live near Newark," Dean Flint reminisced recently at the Newark Post, "but here I am—and I like it."

NEW FIGHT AGAINST OLD FOE

This is the year of the renewed offensive against an old enemy—tuberculosis.

And high time. The advent once again of that colorful holiday habit, the Christmas Seal, reminds us that TB is a deceptive disease—still far from vanquished—and the U.S. Public Health Service reports that more than 53,000 new active cases break out each year in the United States. In addition, there are 10,000 relapses annually.

Nor is that all. In addition to new and previously existing active cases—110,000 in all—there are another half million persons classed as "high risk" individuals. This means that they have recently been TB patients, or are known to have had contact with newly reported cases.

The report of the U. S. Surgeon General's task force made earlier this year, emphasized that these half million, too, are part of the present TB problem in the United States.

The task force projected a long-range program which, if fully implemented, will make possible a vast reduction in the TB case rate in 10 years. But your Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society is in the field fighting the battle here and now. Given the necessary funds it can continue to wind up each year with real victories.

Christmas Seal funds are practically the sole source of income available to this indispensable organization. To guarantee tangible results—here and now—in the counterattack against TB and other respiratory diseases, put the words "Share the Health—Answer Christmas Seal Appeal Generously" high on your Christmas list.

Letters To Santa Claus

Postmaster F. Allen Coeh and his associates at the U. S. Post Office in Newark, are among the foremost of Santa's assistants, and each year process many letters addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole. After reading his mail, Santa returns some of the letters from his legion of little friends, with the request that Mr. Coeh forward a few to the Newark Post for publication to assure the little people that their letters are not neglected. Postmaster Coeh and his friends join Santa in wishing all of these little letter-writers a very, very Merry Christmas!

Dear Santa Claus

Dear Santa Claus,
I want a bike that I saw at Pep Boys that goes from a penny to a dollar. I want a lot of substitutes. We thought we'd get our letter in early this year, to give you time to think about it. I bet you remember us. We hope you do, there's eight of us this year. Last year there was just seven.

We'll thank you now for anything you decide to leave us. They'll be the usual cookies and milk for you. Or would you rather have a cream puff like last year? We'll try to be good—we know that makes your work easier. Love
The 8 Little Bellaires

Gardener Christmas Gifts Advised by Dave Tattall

When Christmas shopping for a friend or relative whose hobby is gardening, why not buy a really appropriate gift. Garden centers, florist shops, hardware stores and bookstores all have items of interest for the garden enthusiast, says Dave Tattall, assistant agent in ornamental horticulture.

Books, plants and tools are always favorite articles with gardeners. If chosen with care, there is a gift to gladden the heart of every home gardener this Christmas, Tattall advises.

Pie Eyed at Christmas

Chiffon pies complete holiday meals with a light, right note. By using commercially-made egg nog, you incorporate a seasonal beverage in a novel dessert. Unflavored gelatin combined with egg nog and whipped cream is the magic ingredient to maintain the airy texture and height of the pie's filling. The gale breath of whipped cream with a citron and shaved chocolate trim is a colorful invitation for all to join in the eating fun.

Egg Nog Chiffon Pie
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
4 cups bottled egg nog
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, optional
4 teaspoons rum flavoring, optional
1 10-inch baked pie shell
Softened gelatin in 1 cup of the cold egg nog in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water. Add sugar, and stir until gelatin and sugar are dissolved. Add remaining egg nog. If additional flavoring is desired, add nutmeg and flavoring. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Whip gelatin mixture until light and fluffy; fold into whipped cream. Turn into pie shell; chill until firm. Garnish with additional whipped cream, shaved chocolate, chopped maraschino cherries, orange peel and citron. YIELD: 1 10-inch pie.

Three Cookies From One Batter Are Holiday Timesavers

Here are two new twists on a cookie that's made American history. The first twist is a "cookie pop." The second twist is an "easy-do" bar cookie. And the cookie that made history is the Toll House Cookie, a scrumptious invention that all began when somebody added nuggets of semi-sweet chocolate chopped from a semi-sweet chocolate candy bar to a traditional drop cookie batter — and created the cookie that's now America's favorite. Semi-sweet chocolate morsels, created just to make the wonderful new cookie, have made history, too, in a whole new art of shortcut chocolate cookery.

You'll find the recipe for authentic Toll House Cookies on every package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. To make the "easy-do" bar cookies, just spread the Toll House Cookie batter evenly in a greased 13" by 9" pan and bake in a 375° oven for 12 to 14 minutes. The same batter is used for the cookie pops.

Toll House Cookie Pops

Make the batter for authentic Toll House Cookies, following the recipe instructions found on every 6-ounce package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. To make cookie pops, drop batter by tablespoonfuls 4 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Flatten slightly with back of spoon. Insert 6-inch sticks — push sticks from edge to about two-thirds through batter. Bake at 375°F. 10 to 12 minutes. Remove gently while warm with wide spatula. Let cool thoroughly before serving. YIELD: approximately 1 1/2 dozen 8" cookies.

Julekake...

... means "Christmas bread" in Norway where the crown-topped loaves, filled with raisins and candied fruits are traditional. Translated into this convenient hot roll mix version, Julekake is a fine Christmas baking choice for the hostess with limited baking time. It's an all-purpose goodie, as tempting to offer with coffee in the evening as it is at breakfast or brunch-time.

Julekake: Sprinkle yeast from 1 package hot roll mix over 3/4 cup warm (not hot) water in large bowl; stir to dissolve. Add 1 unbleached egg, 1 tablespoon honey, 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom and dry mix. Mix well. Let rise in warm place (85° to 90° F.) until light and doubled in size, 30 to 60 minutes.

Knead 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup chopped pecans and 1 cup chopped candied fruit into dough on floured surface until smooth and satiny, 5 to 7 minutes. Divide in half. Shape into two round loaves and place in center of two well-greased 8-inch round cake pans. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Cut one inch deep into side of each loaf, about one inch up from the bottom of baking pan.

Continue cutting around base of each loaf to make complete circle. Punch down the center of each loaf with hand. (This gives Julekake its typical shape.) Brush with slightly beaten egg. Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 30 to 60 minutes.

Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes until deep golden brown. Remove from baking pans immediately.

Glaze while warm with mixture of 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and 4 to 5 tablespoons milk. If desired, decorate with chopped nuts or candied fruit. Makes 2 Julekakes.
