Prominent Legionnaires Take Office

Dr. P. K. Musselman

C. H. Hopkins

Dr. S. E. Burr Installed As Commander Of American Legion

Dr. P. K. Musselman Succeeds F. Allyn Cooch As Local Post Head

Legionnaires in the state of Delaware were urged to take more interest in local, state and national political affairs by Dr. Samuel Engle Burr, of New Castle, who was installed as department commander at Dover Friday night.

Succeeding Daniel G. Conant, of Rehoboth, the new head announced that the Legion legislative committee would be "alert and active" at the coming session of the Legislature. "Of course," he said, "it is not the business of the American Legion to take sides in matters of politics or of religion. As an organization, we are non-partisan and non-sectarian."

"We hope that those men and women who are elected to office may look with favor upon our legislative requests, regardless of the political party to which they may belong."

Lands Free Press

Dr. Burr declared the American Legion recognizes a free press as one of the greatest bulwarks of our democratic institutions. "We believe in free press, freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom to bear arms, and we believe in preservation of the various rights and privileges guaranteed our citizens by the 'Bill of Rights' in our Constitution," he said.

Monthly meetings, the first of which will be on Nov. 4 in the Old Courthouse at New Castle, of department officers and committees, and chairmen of standing committees, the second Monday of each month were proposed by the new commander.

Other officers installed were: Vice-commander, Samuel Green, Wilmington; historian, William E. White, Wilmington; chaplain, the Rev. Lawrence D. McCarthy, Wilmington; sergeant-at-arms, Bernard Young, Smyrna; national executive committee member, Edward A. Mulrooney, Wilmington; alternate national committee member, George D. Hill, Dover; George T. Lyon, Jr., New Castle, took his post as adjutant and William R. Marvel, Wilmington, as finance officer.

Local Officers Installed

Commander Burr's first official act was the installation of officers of the J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10 on Tuesday night. Local men who took office were: Dr. P. K. Musselman, commander; W. Floyd Jackson, vice-commander; Dr. John R. Downes, finance officer; Frank Bolling, chaplain; A. E. Tomhave, historian; G. Dewey Plummer, sergeant-at-arms.

Call Sounded For Annual Horticultural Exhibition

A call for fruit and vegetable displays to be shown at the annual exhibit of the Peninsula Horticultural Society, which is scheduled to be held in Dover, December 14, 15, and 16, has been issued by E. R. Dick, Smyrna, president of the association. According to Mr. Dick, many fruit growers and some vegetable producers fail to save exhibits of their products until too late to display their best examples in the annual show. He urged them to begin selecting their exhibits before their best fruit or vegetables were sold or put in storage.

The exhibit this year is to be held in the State Armory in Dover while the meeting of the association, which is held annually in conjunction with the exhibition, will be in the Legislative Hall of the State House. Included in the exhibit of fruits and vegetables will be displays of apples, pears, quinces, cabbage, potatoes, sweet potatoes, celery, lettuce, and onions. An exhibit of equipment and materials

COLLEGE PROGRAMS ARRANGED

Raymond Gram Swing Listed First Speaker

Opening the University Hour program for the year, on Monday, October 17, in Mitchell Hall, Raymond Gram Swing, radio news commentator on the European situation for one of the leading American broadcasting systems and a foreign correspondent, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Swing comes to the university shortly after his return from Europe.

The Salzburg Trapp Choir will be guest of the university on Friday, October 28. Four years ago this group won every important European singing competition and will present a program of Capella singing, folk songs and instrumental music.

Other Speakers Listed

Later in the year, guest speakers at Mitchell Hall will include: Dr. Cornelius Weyand, professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania, an outstanding American authority on literature, and Dr. John M. McBryde, former editor of the "Sewanee Review" and dean emeritus of the graduate school of Tulane University.

Thomas Craven, distinguished art critic and one of the foremost contemporary writers on art, will visit the University of Delaware on March 14. Mr. Craven is the author of "Men Of Art," the most widely read book on art in the English language.

On April 18, Carl Sandburg, famous American writer and poet, will be the guest speaker. He has spoken in Mitchell Hall before.

Firmen Swinnen, master of the organ at Mitchell Hall, with present three recitals during this school year.

Highway Users Favor Auto License Fee Cut

The Delaware State Highway Users Conference favors a reduction in license tag fees, increased personnel for the state police with increased wages and an eight-hour day, consolidation of the Motor Vehicle Department with the State Highway Department and civil service for all employees in these two departments.

The conference, however, opposes any reduction in the gasoline tax until a road inventory is made to determine Delaware's future highway needs, according to Hugh F. Gallagher, chairman of the conference.

He said the conference favors the distribution of part of the gas tax to cities and towns equipped to build and maintain their own streets and for towns not so equipped to have their streets taken over by the State Highway Department.

Postoffice Vacancy To Be Filled By Examination

An open competitive examination under the rules of the U. S. Civil Service Commission has been announced for the position of substitute clerk-carrier in the Newark postoffice. Receipt of applications will close October 20.

Applications for the examination must be made on the prescribed form, which, with necessary instructions, may be obtained from the commission's local representative, C. S. Crompton, assistant postmaster.

All persons wishing to take the examination should secure blanks and file their applications prior to the hour of closing business on October 20. The date for assembling competitors will be stated on the admission cards mailed applicants after the close of receipt of applications.

New Features Announced For Newark School Pupils

Carlton E. Douglas, superintendent of Newark Schools, announced a new feature for students this week. Each pupil will have two hours weekly activities of his or her own choosing, such as band, orchestra, gymnasium, girls' chorus, boys' glee club, home economics, wood carving, journalism, social dancing, or art.

Mr. Douglas stated that 64 per cent of last year's graduates have enrolled in colleges, business schools, or nursing classes, the highest number in many years.

Railroad Executive Is Speaker At Lions Club

J. L. Webb, superintendent of stations and transfers of the Pennsylvania Railroad, presented some interesting phases of present-day railroad problems in a talk before the Lions Club at the Newark Country Club Tuesday evening. President Paul D. Lovett officiated.

WINNERS REWARDED AT CLUB

Annual Dinner Marks Closing Of Golf Year

Seventeen prizes were awarded to tournament and contest winners at the annual banquet of the Newark Country Club which marked the official ending of the local golf season Saturday night. More than 100 members and guests attended the colorful affair.

The golfing household of J. Franklin Anderson made off with three major prizes, although the head of the family could do little more than gloat over the accomplishments of his talented wife and club champion son.

Mrs. Anderson carried home the cup which is presented annually to the lady champion and also had the "ringer's prize" under her arm as she departed the festivities.

George F. Anderson, Toms School student who became the first club champion to successfully defend his crown, when he defeated B. F. (Sankey) Richards, a former titleholder, in a brilliant match in July, was awarded a beautiful silver pedestal trophy for his effort.

Challenges Other Fathers Although an also-ran in every tournament in which he performed, the head of the Anderson household laid claim to special distinction as "the father and husband of champions" in a short speech.

Wayne C. Brewer presented the trophy to the club champion, while Dr. George W. Rhodes made the presentation speech to Mrs. Anderson. He also presented trophies to Mrs. Milton L. Draper for capturing the "lady luck" contest, and to Mrs. Irvin Crow for ladies' low net score.

Robert Stewart, Sr., was chairman of the committee which arranged the dinner. John K. Johnston was toastmaster. Group singing was led by Robert Strahorn, while the leader and Major R. W. Argo sang vocal solos, accompanied by Bud Wilson at the piano.

President Makes Report

Harry L. Bonham, president of the club, gave a financial report for the year. With about $900 in bank at the outset of the season, the club expended some $1,700 for a new tractor, battery of mowers, and caddy house, while it is indicated that close to the original $900 will still be in bank at the end of the fiscal year, Mr. Bonham revealed.

Rivaling the Andersons as a prize winner, J. A. Giamateo was presented with the President's Cup by Leon H. Ryan, and three silver spoons for winning weekly tests. Other spoons were awarded to C. W. Davis, Mike Fidance, Robert Stewart, Jr., Ben Davis, Jr., and J. T. Mason. J. D. Counahan made the presentation remarks.

Graesser Receives Award

A low-net score affair played Saturday resulted in a triple tie between E. B. Burnley, J. A. Julian, and E. C. Graesser. Mr. Graesser won the draw and was presented with an award by Mr. Counahan. Ted Beck, Wilmington, former Please Turn To Page 5

Two Exhibitions To Be Given At Art Center

The Wilmington Society of Fine Arts has announced two exhibitions from Sunday until October 30. Included in the displays will be the twelfth annual exhibition of work done by pupils in the art classes of the public and private schools of Delaware and a special exhibit of seventy-five original watercolors by Walt Disney for the motion picture "Snow White."

The Art Center is open daily from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Sundays from two o'clock until six.

Chrysler Corporation Closing Deal For Dameron Land Today

65-Acre Tract Purchased By Motor Concern

S. E. Dameron, local landowner and real estate operator, announced today that the Chrysler Corporation had filed an option taken in July on a 65-acre tract by buying the land outright. The purchase figure was not made public.

The deal is being closed in Wilmington this afternoon between Mr. and Mrs. Dameron, joint owners of the tract, and attorneys for the Chrysler Corporation.

With a frontage of 2,600 feet adjoining the Pennsylvania Railroad's tracks, the land being sold is approximately 1,000 feet in depth. It adjoins Newark on the eastern edge with a portion located within the town limits.

Although Mr. Dameron would not discuss the possibilities of what use will be made of the tract by the Chrysler Corporation, it is reliably reported that a large parts depot will be built in the near future.

Full Assembling Plant

In July, Mayor Frank Collins was quoted as having conferred with attorneys and engineers of the automobile concern. The Mayor was also quoted as stating that the company intends to construct a building a thousand feet long and several hundred feet wide.

The company representatives, who came to Newark from Troy, N. Y., the Mayor was quoted, had explained that they were considering construction of a full assembling plant on the site later. Ground ample for this purpose is included in the sale being completed today.

It is thought that the depot will be operated as a subsidiary of the Chrysler Corporation. About $250,000 will be spent on the depot, it is reported.

Long-Drawn Transaction

Mayor Collins has stated that the company intends to do some finishing work at the depot, such as painting of fences and other parts, and that an estimated 200 workers will be employed, including finishers, shipping handlers, and a large clerical force.

The company representatives visited Newark more than a year ago and conferred with Mayor Collins, local bankers, and Chamber of Commerce officials. No action was taken at the time, however.

In June of this year, representatives returned and negotiations were opened with Mr. Dameron. The option on July 1 was the result of the second visit.

Retaining considerable acreage adjoining the Chrysler property, Mr. Dameron plans to do some immediate sub-dividing into lots. His plans are already made for an extensive house-building program along Ogletown.

Fourth Anniversary Marked At Party

Eleanor Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Todd, Chapel St., entertained a number of her little friends in celebrating her fourth birthday last Saturday. The guests included: Eleanor Davis, Janet Campbell, Jacqueline Barrett, Clifford Stoops, Walter Todd, Alice Stoops, Elva Todd, Burton and Eugene Campbell.

Ladies' Aid Society To Hold Bake November 3

The Ladies Aid Society of the Newark M. E. Church will hold its annual poultry supper on Thursday, November 3, from five to seven p. m. in the dining hall of the church.

Heed Of Planting Methods Necessary For New Trees

"Flowering dogwood trees from nurseries came in one of two forms," Professor Detjen pointed out, "the better they will take hold for a vigorous start. The planting, of course, must be done properly, if the trees are expected to grow well. Good garden soil should be provided in large quantity for it is only in good soil that such trees can be expected to thrive."

Professor Detjen advised the selection of a well-drained spot so the roots will not suffer from standing water either in a surface depression, or in a hole dug into hard soil. A deep hole dug into a hard pan of clay will quickly fill with water during rainy weather and especially in early spring, he pointed out.

Slightly Below Surface

When trees are to be planted in well-drained and rich, loamy soil, the ball of roots should be set slightly below the surface either about as deep or slightly deeper than the tree stood while in the nursery.

Prepare a hole of good size and fill in partly with good garden soil. If the soil is poor, add some bone Please Turn To Page 5

DEMOCRATS SCHEDULE BIG RALLY NEXT WEEK

Republicans To Luncheon Next Wednesday; Clam Bake Is Staged

With Delaware's two major parties swinging into the thick of the fight and a third state ticket being tossed into the field, political warfare grew intense this week.

Republicans to the extent of 1,200 men and women of New Castle County gave impetus to the party's recently-opened state campaign at a clam bake and entertainment in the Black Cat State Road, last night.

Short addresses by George S. Williams of Millsboro, candidate for representative in Congress; James R. Morford, Cedars, candidate for attorney-general, and Wilmington's Mayor Walter W. Bacon featured the meeting. H. Eugene Savery, chairman of the speakers' committee, presided.

Candidates Introduced

All candidates on the state and county tickets were introduced as the best fitted for the positions. Mr. Williams declared that the Republican Party can well liken its campaign attitude to the indomitable spirit of Christopher Columbus who ordered his fearful sailors to "sail on."

"We are going to 'sail on' until we make secure that which means the life and prosperity of America," he said. "We are joining hands for the success of our party and we will overcome any obstacles which may arise to impede our course."

Mrs. Caleb M. Sheward has been named general chairman of the biennial luncheon of the Republican women of the state in honor of the party's candidates to be held in the Hotel duPont, Wilmington, next Wednesday. Mrs. Frank G. Tallman, Republican national committeewoman, has announced.

Tickets for the affair are being distributed at the Republican women's headquarters at 219 West Ninth Street, Wilmington, and through New Castle County hundred vice chairmen.

Democrats Rally Next Week

Stewart Lynch, Democratic candidate for attorney-general and chairman of the party's speakers' bureau, has announced a mass meeting to be held at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on a date next week to be announced later.

The Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, former United States senator from Delaware, will preside. In addition to state candidates, Wilmington nominees and candidates for the several senatorial positions for New Castle County will be on the stage. The principal speaker of the evening will be the Hon. Charles West, former United States Vice Consul at Naples, Italy. Mr. West, a native of Ohio, is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and Harvard University. He formerly headed the department of political science at Denison University in Ohio.

Noted as an effective public speaker, Mr. West has filled numerous engagements throughout the country. His speaking ability has been recognized many times by national Democratic leaders, especially in 1934 and again in 1936, when he was selected as chairman and keynote orator for the Democratic convention in Ohio.

State Ticket Nominated

A state ticket, except for a nominee for Congress, was selected at Dover Monday night by the Independent Republican Party.

Dr. Walter O. Stack, Dover, was nominated for state treasurer; Charles duP. Ridgely, Camden, for state auditor; J. Postle Hammond, Milford, for insurance commissioner, and Robert G. Houston, Georgetown, for attorney-general.

A platform was adopted calling for revision of the primary election laws and election of school commissioners. It expressed interest in the Townsend old-age pension plan.

Epworth League Session At Cecilton, Md. Sunday

The Southern Division of the Wilmington District Epworth League will hold its annual convention at Cecilton, Md., on Saturday at 10:30 a. m. Rev. C. E. Davis is the host pastor.

Leaders and speakers include: Miss Mary Buckworth, Middletown; Miss Eleanor Ford, Still Pond, Md.; Miss Louise Burns, Elsmere; Ralph Brown, Wilmington; Dr. Walter Gunby, Wilmington; Rev. V. M. Goodhand, Christiansa; Miss Myra Hall, Seaford; and Rev. E. Wheatley, Jr., Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J.

The theme of the convention will be "Youth's Dedication to the Highest for the Highest Good of Others." A banquet will be served at 5:30 p. m.

Dean Marjorie S. Golder

Dean Golder, of the Women's College, University of Delaware, will discuss "Phases of Modern College Education" before the members of the Newark Century Club on Monday afternoon. For the convenience of local school teachers who will be special guests, the session will be held at 3:30 o'clock, one hour later than usual.

Miss Marian Gillmore will play several piano selections. Mrs. Joseph S. Gould, chairman of the education committee, is in charge of the program and will act as hostess for the day. Following Dean Golder's address, tea will be served.

hot dog roast last Wednesday night in honor of two new girls, Barbara Richardson, Minnie and Geneva Harris, New York. The guests were Miss Minnie Smithers, Miss Virginia Harrington, Miss Ethel Johnson and Mrs. C. E. Douglas.

Mrs. Etta Wilson's father and sister, Mr. William R. Sterling and Miss Lucy Sterling, Middletown, were dinner guests of the Wilsons Tuesday evening.

A congregational supper will be held tonight at the Newark M. E. Church.

Mrs. Samuel McFarlin, 116 Haynes St., is recovering rapidly from her recent illness.

WEDDINGS

Michener-McVaugh

The wedding of Miss Mary Jean McVaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McVaugh, and H. Walton Michener, of Avondale, Pa., took place at the bride's home at Hockessin on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. Lauren Bennett, pastor of Basking Ridge, N. J. Presbyterian Church, a cousin of the bride, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Robert S. McVaugh, a sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Joan McVaugh, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Mr. Milton Michener, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of teal blue velvet with matching accessories and carried an arm bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The matron of honor wore a brown velvet with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Following a wedding trip north, Mr. and Mrs. Michener will be at home in Chatham, Pa., after October 15.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Lee, Jr., of "The Hillside," Chambers Rock Farms, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son at the Wilmington General Hospital last Saturday. Mrs. Lee will be remembered as Miss Cressa Crowe.

At one time, Frederick William I treated his army of 30,000 to a banquet at which was served probably the largest cake ever made. Hauled in on a huge cart drawn by 8 horses, it was 18 yards long, 8 yards wide and 1/2 yard thick.

must not be broken.

Tamp the soil firmly with foot or stick all around the ball and water well if the soil is dry. Otherwise water in moderation. After the surface water has disappeared, fill in remaining soil and cover with a good mulch of peat moss, grass clippings, or wood soil.

Later on, water only when necessary. Properly planted trees should make a good start in the following spring.

When dogwood trees are to be planted on clay soils, which at times may suffer from excess water, good drainage must be provided, but below as well as above the ground.

Drainage Is Necessary
If proper drainage is deficient, it is advisable to dig a hole into the hard clay and place a bit of sand or gravel at the bottom. Unless there is a drainage ditch from the hole it will soon fill and drown the roots.

It is much better to dig a trench from the hole to a lower level and fill the trench with sandy or gravelly soil to the excess water can drain before damage is done to the roots.

If such a trench cannot be prepared it will be advisable to plant the tree as high as possible and cover the partly exposed ball with a mound of earth. Under such conditions it is necessary to mulch with an extra-heavy layer of peat moss or wood soil so that the roots will not dry out.

If the soil is poor, then it should be dug deeply and should be well prepared two weeks before planting. A few handfuls of good garden fertilizer should be added to insure a good start in growth.

All broken branches must be neatly trimmed back with a sharp knife and the rest of the top kept in a good balance. Very little, if any, trimming will be necessary on trees purchased through the Newark Garden Club. It is promised because they generally are delivered in good condition and require no extra pruning.

"If these few hints are observed," added Professor Detjen, "as is firmly believed they will be, the trees will make a hearty start next spring."

Sorry Ending Of A Sorry Season

Sunday night, as we stowed our baseball scorebook in mothballs for another winter, numerous events of the 1938 campaign in the Bi-State League passed through our mind. Generally speaking, the season was a dismal failure throughout. It was a particularly poor year from Newark's point of view.

Winning nine games without a setback, the Jackets topped the first-half flag without too much effort. Then they took a nose dive that planted them in the cellar with Bel Air throughout the second half. Oxford, an in-and-out team until the final weeks of the race, finished with a strong spurt to win the second-half hunting. The Maroons simply outgamed and outstayed the Jackets to capture the three-game championship series.

Regarded as a "nothing" pitcher by the Newark team, George (Sadie) Aiken, for the second straight time, pinned the Jackets when the chips were down. For a "nothing" pitcher, Aiken has a strange habit of stopping Newark with titles at stake. Yet he is still regarded as strictly a "nothing" pitcher.

In addition to losing a championship that was well within their grasp on numerous occasions, the Jackets dropped plenty of coin in 1938. There is considerable doubt whether Newark will be represented in a league next year.

Tough On Paul

Holding Oxford to three hits in the final game of the series, Paul Whiteman was the victim of his mates' inability to hit Aiken's "nothing" tosses with any degree of effectiveness.

Winning five games in the first-half march, Whiteman, who hurled for the Dicors in the Wilmington City League during the second half, limited his local activities to the outfield thereafter. Last Sunday was his first appearance as a starting hurler in the Bi-State loop since July 3. It was also his final appearance.

He was touched for one earned run and gave up a pair of walks that led to Oxford's second marker, but his effort should have taken the verdict. He was that good!

Aiken's "nothing" offerings consisting of beautiful control and a teasing curve. "Sadie" was able to master the Jackets because they insisted on swinging from the heels. Only Dick Roberts and Jack Edmondson did any choke hitting and they were the lone Jackets to give Aiken any trouble. Newark's would-be fence busters were checked with easy, dribbling ground balls for the most part.

Failed To Fight

Oxford was lucky to be in the series at all. League President Thomas T. Preston, who indicated an elastic attitude toward rules of the loop throughout the season, was of considerable help to the Maroons. Under the league code, Oxford should have been given a defeat for failing to play the game scheduled with the Jackets on July 24. Newark filed a formal protest in accordance with the by-laws of the circuit, but President Preston apparently "forgot" the whole matter. And Newark failed to push its claim.

As things turned out, Darlington would have been the winning team in the second half had Preston shown interest enough in the proceedings to reach decisions with the rules as a guide.

But Darlington or Oxford, it probably would have been of little consequence to the Jackets in the play-off series. It simply appears that Newark is a runner-up town when baseball races are decided. And if Taylor Biles was smart enough to get his charges in the series, it's really something for Darlington to squawk about . . . not Newark.

A Grand Idea

Several ideas about football should have been garnered by the University of Delaware from Washington College in recent years. In the last three out of four, to be exact.

Now, even before the teams meet in 1939, the Sho'men are stepping out with a novel scheme that is worthy of consideration by Graduate Manager Gerald Doherty and his athletic cohorts.

Prior to the Juniata rout in Chestertown two weeks back when only 188 paid admissions were recorded at the gate, canny Tom Kibler and his aides had laid plans for the playing of a night game in the baseball park at Salisbury, come October 21.

With Johns Hopkins, which doesn't draw flies ordinarily, providing the opposition, the Sho'men figure to turn an almost certain financial loss into a profit by utilizing facilities available for a night game. And playing it on Friday night instead of on Saturday afternoon won't exactly put a crimp in the plans.

But the idea has another distinct advantage that will not be shown in an immediate return in dollars and cents. It is far bigger than that. It is educational in that it will concentrate the attention of people living on the lower portion of the Eastern Shore on their own and only college.

With similar facilities available in both Dover and Milford, it might not be a bad plan for University of Delaware officials to make use of them by way of acquainting downstate residents with their own and only university.

The clash listed with St. John's College on October 29 provides a wonderful possibility for such a plan.

WHITEMAN HOLDS OXFORD TO 3 HITS BUT LOSES

Aiken, Touched For Six Singles, Captures 2-To-0 Duel By Tight Work In Pinches; Second Bi-State Title For Taylor Biles' Charges

By "The Roamer"

Oxford copped the Bi-State League championship for 1938 by defeating Newark's Yellowjackets, 2-0, at the Pennsylvania center last Sunday. Less than 300 paying patrons witnessed the fray.

Aiken Is Winner

Repeating his victory scored in the second game of the series, George (Sadie) Aiken limited the Jackets to six scattered singles. Only two Newark players advanced beyond first base. Manager Shorty Chalmers reached third in the second and Dick Roberts did some fast stepping to land on the hot corner in the fifth.

It was Oxford's and Manager Taylor Biles' second straight successful pennant march and the second title victory registered over the Jackets in as many starts. The Maroons won in 1936 and repeated this year. No schedule was played in the Bi-State last season. Aiken, a Kennett Square husky who learned his mound lessons at Fordham University, was the pitching mainstay in both series.

Paul Whiteman, starting his first game since splitting a finger three weeks ago, hurled one of the greatest contests of his career in stopping the Maroons with three hits. He fanned nine. But Whiteman did things in bunches last Sunday to lose the verdict.

He fanned Maroons in groups, gave up two hits in one inning, and issued the only two passes he gave during the game in the same inning.

First To Score

Whiteman fanned the side in the first frame and whiffed Goldie for the third out in the second. Singles by Woodworth and Cooney sandwiched around Jim Yerkes' sacrifice gave Oxford a run in the third, however.

Came the fourth and, after Edmondson had disposed of Richardson with a nice running catch, Whiteman proceeded to walk Jackie Myers and Larry Preston in succession. Then things started happening over which he had no control.

Scotten rolled a double-play ball at Chalmers who tossed to Conway, forcing Preston. Conway's throw beat the runner at first, but Argo dropped the ball.

With Myers perched on third and Scotten on first, Chalmers pulled a "Heinie Zimmerman" to give the Maroons their second run. When Scotten made a break for the middle cushion on a pitch to Goldie, Roberts rifled a throw to Chalmers that caused the runner to turn back toward first.

As Chalmers also moved toward first, Myers eased off third and dashed for home. Instead of trying to nip the runner at the plate, Chalmers made a lunge at Scotten, but he slid into first in safety. Goldie grounded out, Whiteman to Argo, on the next pitch.

One More Hit

Although Cooney opened Oxford's sixth with his second single and was advanced on Richardson's sacrifice, And Barrow gave Myers a life by kicking his roller. Whiteman prevented further scoring. Preston was called out on strikes and Scotten forced Myers. Chalmers to Conway, Cooney's second safety was the lone Oxford hit after the third.

The Jackets placed the first hitter on the runways in three innings, but lacked the punch to send a run home. Edmondson opened the game by singling to right.

He was nipped at second, however, when Barrow's bunt rolled straight to Aiken. Sheats forced Barrow and Roberts forced Sheats.

In the second Chalmers wheeled a pass out of Aiken to open the stanza. Conway fanned, but Jackson rifled a single to left, placing Jackets on first and second.

Chalmers made a break for third when the final strike slipped past Argo and was safe when Woodworth dropped Yerkes' perfect peg. But Whiteman forced Jackson at second for the final out.

Aiken Bears Down Richardson's unassisted double play saved Aiken some trouble in the third. Edmondson, first up, rolled out to Myers. Barrow followed with a single to left. Sheats slammed a wicked smash down the first-base line that looked good for a double, but Richardson raced over to the bag and snared the ball for a twin killing.

JACKETS TO FACE NEW CASTLE

Drastic Shifts Made In Line For Battle

Coach William K. Gillespie's Yellowjackets will have a dual objective in view when they journey to New Castle tomorrow afternoon to oppose the Mudflatters on the gridiron.

The Newark combine will not only be seeking its initial win of the season, but it is particularly anxious to avenge for the defeat suffered last year at the hands of a light but spunky Castilian eleven.

The Jackets' mentor has been stressing an offensive through the air, but to-date has been unable to develop an effective aerial bombardment that will net yardage.

With the return to form of Bill Bellman, the locals' chief backfield threat, Newark will probably rule slight favorites to overcome its opponents, despite the fact that three losses have been chalked up against the home club.

Veteran Line Fails

Due to the failure of the veteran line to make the showing expected, Coach Gillespie announced this week that a drastic shake-up would be made in the starting lineup, sacrificing experience for weight.

At the guard posts will be Norv and Paul Robinson while Don Gallagher, formerly an end, and Ray Ewing will occupy the tackle positions. Bill Hancock will handle his regular center duties, while Bob Stewart and either Roy Kleink or Bob Ewing will be at the end posts.

In the backfield will be Ackie Stiltz, quarterback, Bellman and George Norris, halfbacks, and Gus Smith, bucker. As a result of the shifts, Dick Tweed, Buck Gregg, and Nowi Sheaffer, linemen, and Harold Beeson, a back, will be sidelined when the firing starts.

New Castle, sporting a light and inexperienced team last season, surprised the local team and sported a victory by turning back the Jackets. With football obviously on the upgrade at the William Penn School, the Mudflatters held a veteran Conrad High School team to one touchdown last week and Jacket enthusiasts are looking forward to a hard-fought battle.

Bi-State League Teams Get $62.76 In Series

The recent series for the Bi-State League championship played between the Yellowjackets, winners of the first half, and Oxford, which copped the second-half crown and went on to take the 1938 flag, was one of the most profitable three-game series in many years.

Each team received $62.76. Gross receipts amounted to $237. Expenses ran to $97.54, leaving a net balance of $139.46. The league's share of ten per cent amounted to $13.94, leaving $125.52 to be divided equally between the Jackets and Maroons.

Cosmopolitan Backfield

George Washington University may have the most cosmopolitan backfield. One combination includes Vic Sampson, of Watska, Ill.; Fred Sartore, of Sacramento, Cal.; Ken Batson, of Madisonville, Texas, and Tom Grady, of Augusta, Ga.

New Suits

Tulane's football team is outfitted entirely in green instead of green jerseys and gold pants, or white jerseys and green pants.

Young Turron Plays

Vic Turron, an outstanding prospect for George Washington University's backfield, is the son of Leon Turron, former G-man. Vic is a sophomore.

TOUCH-DOWN TACTICS

CORNELL . . . by Carl G. Snively Head Football Coach

This is the fifth in a series of six outstanding diagram plays by leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's new Cities Service Football Guide.

THIS is one of the plays on which Jerome Holland, Cornell's All-American end distinguished himself during the 1937 season. The fullback, No. 2, receives the ball from the center and crashes into the line with all the appearance of making a line buck. He stops behind the guard, however, pivots, and hands the ball back to Holland who comes behind him to take the ball and to go off tackle as shown in the diagram. He may make a lateral pass to the tail back, No. 4, if the defensive half back gets a tackling position on him, or he may keep the ball if the blocking removes the opponents from his path.

In the Cornell-Colgate game, which was a much closer game than the score would indicate, Holland made two touchdowns by means of this play in rapid succession early in the fourth quarter and decided the issue in what, up to that point, had been anybody's game. In the Pennsylvania game, however, Holland's lateral pass on this play was intercepted by a Pennsylvania halfback and quickly converted into a touchdown.

Engineers Hold Norfolk To Draw; Prepare For Ontario Invaders

The Fort DuPont Red Devils, playing their first game of the season on foreign territory, battled the Boots of the Norfolk Navy Yard to a scoreless draw at Norfolk last Saturday.

A crowd of 2,000 watched the Red Devils advance to within three yards of pay dirt on two occasions in the fourth quarter, only to have the Boots turn them back without a score. Unleashing their most sustained passing attack of the season, the Delawareans more than matched the efforts of the vaunted sailor combine that rolled over them like a tidal wave last year at Fort DuPont.

Goal-Line Stands

The Devils' powerful defense was called upon to show its might shortly after the opening whistle. A blocked punt gave Norfolk the ball on DuPont's 12-yard line. But the Engineers went to work with a vengeance and took the ball on downs after pushing the naval forces back 15 yards.

Again in the second quarter, DuPont's defense proved its mettle by thwarting the only other serious threat made by the Boots. Norfolk, driving 50 yards, had a first down on the Devils' four. Battling with their backs to the wall, the Engineers stopped the sailors without a score.

New Ontario provides the opposition at Fort DuPont Sunday, when the Devils will endeavor to keep their uncrossed goal line free of alien cleats.

Curtis Is Dinner Host To Local Basebatters

Edward A. Curtis, superintendent of the Continental-Diamond Fibre Company's Newark plant, will entertain members of the concern's baseball team at a dinner to be held at Powell's Restaurant tonight.

The Fibremen, playing under the sponsorship of the Continental-Diamond company, captured the championship of the New Castle County League, representing Newark in the Bi-State circuit, they lost out to Oxford in the post-season series which ended Sunday.

Mr. Curtis inaugurated the dinner for team members last year. Tonight's affair starts at six-thirty o'clock.

Tackled Pitts

Bill King, Notre Dame griddier, says his biggest football thrill came when he tackled Alabama Pitts at Sing Sing prison so hard that Pitts had to be helped from the field.

Inexperienced

The Brooklyn Dodgers will have the only player in the pro football league without experience in college football. Robert Campbell, back, played football in the army.

CRIPPLED HENS TO FACE RED DEVILS

Lockwood, Viden, Geor And Homan Handicapped

By Bill Fletcher

The ever-to-be expected run of injuries tagged the city of Delaware football footsteps early this week. Steve Grenda went through long workouts in preparation for the battle with College at Carlisle, Pa.

Injuries Number

Not content with the torn shoulder muscle of Viden, the Hens' forward threat to-date, and a pair of horses to Ed Homan, er from Cape May, N. J., game of the year. Last game of the year, Lockwood, Viden, Geor And Homan handed the two remaining of the Blue and Gold field. Co-Captains Tompkins and Ernie George, more good in the form of a slight fluency and an injured former, and a pulled leg the latter. Ken Lockwood, also went to the hospital with a badly-bruised stomach.

All are expected to miss the powerful Red Devils be greatly handicapped ailments.

Held to a 7-to-7 deadlock, however, was not the Red Devils' true test. The Carlisle institution is to place a well-balanced, weighty eleven on the field.

Form Reveal

Displaying a complete form following a 124 game the Grizzlies two weeks Hens appeared drop last Saturday as a fast Virginia combination shod over the Blue and Gold. Not once did the any of the offensive previously shown as the quarter and then pressed another pair to the final.

Best Passing Pairs

Pitt's best passing combination this fall is likely to be Goldberg to Daddio on the varsity, and Kish to Rettinger with the seconds.

Thompson-Riley

Cards have been received announcing the marriage of Estella Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of Chester, Pa., to Mr. Peter Aloysius Riley, on Tuesday, October the seventh. Mr. Riley is well remembered in Newark where he has many friends.

The bride and groom are spending some time at Delaware Water Gap, Pa. They will be at home to their friends after November first at 830 West Eighth Street, Chester.

Holton-Cubbage

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Calvin Cubbage, 1934 North 31st street, Philadelphia, Pa., on Wednesday evening, October 8th, when Mr. Cubbage's daughter, Helen Kathryn, became the wife of William Evans Holton of Newark, Delaware. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Elder B. F. Coulter. The bride was gowned in white crepe meteor trimmed in duchesse lace and was attended by Miss Marion Green of Washington, D. C. Lawrence Hayes of Philadelphia acted as best man. Miss Clara Snodgrass of Philadelphia, played the wedding march and Kathryn Holton, sister of the groom, was flower girl. Buffet luncheon was served to the relatives and friends. After a stay at Delaware Water Gap, Mr. and Mrs. Holton will take up their residence at Newark, Delaware.

Those who attended from Newark were: Mrs. W. J. Holton and daughters, Laura, Edna and Kathryn; Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Holton, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Hitchens and Misses Sarah and Emma Campbell.

Alumni Organize

Members of the Alumni of Newark High School met in the High School building last Thursday evening when permanent organization was effected. The officers are as follows: president, Warren A. Singler; vice-president, Miss Agnes McDell; recording secretary, Miss Bessie Whittingham; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. N. Reed; treasurer, Miss Dora Law.

Accepts Post At M. A. C.
