DR. WINIFRED J. ROBINSON
Dean of the Women's College

DELAWARE DAY AT NEWARK

INAUGURAL EXERCISES AND DEDICATION OF
WOMEN'S COLLEGE

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS PRESENT—SERVICE TO COM-MONWEALTH KEYNOTE OF THE DAY

"The greatest day Delaware has ever known" seems to be the general opinion of the public concerning the occasion of the inauguration of Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, as president of Delaware College, the dedication of the new Women's College, and the installation as Dean of Dr. Winifred J. Robinson. Newark, in spite of the many brilliant commencement days of former years, has never entertained such a crowd of notables and distinguished guests as gathered to witness the ceremonies of last Saturday. Estimates of the crowd varied from two thousand to thirty-five hundred. The number included the most distinguished men and women of Delaware, and educators from all parts of the Union. Enthusiasm and faith in the possibilities of our little Commonwealth was the spirit of the day.

All things combined to make the occasion a memorable one to those who attended the exercises October furnished a day rivaling in loveliness the perfection of June. The exercises were held on the campus, where tiers of seats had been placed on each side of the oratory steps to accommodate the people. The speakers' platform, draped in gold and blue bunting, and made attractive by palms and ferns, had been placed on the wide avenue, facing the college steps. Facing the platform, seated on the steps, were the students from the Women's College and the cadet corps from Delaware. The speakers stepped out from a background made brilliant by the many-colored robes of the learned doctors and professors, into a setting of peculiar impressiveness. Around them, in a semi-circle was massed a group of responsive listeners. The stately old lindens which line the walk reared their trunks like great classic columns in a coliseum of old, as the twentieth century heralds proclaimed the gospel of Justice, Truth, and Righteousness. An appreciation of the opportunity afforded by the State institution, its relation to the State, and a sense of civic responsibility pervaded the speeches of the day, and thrilled the listeners with faith in the future of Delaware. The keynote of the occasion, which was expressed by every speaker was the advancement of the Commonwealth of Delaware.

The exercises began promptly at eleven o'clock, when, with the college band leading, the Delaware College cadets and guests fell in line and marched from the Joe Frazer Athletic Field to the Campus. Chancellor Charles M. Curtis presided at the exercises. In opening the inaugural exercises, Chancellor Curtis, after reviewing the history of the College, said:

"It will be seen, then, that at this seat of learning there are four grand divisions of effort, cultural arts courses, vocational, scientific and engineering courses, courses in scientific and practical agriculture and a college for women. With these has come a vision of larger usefulness. Plans are being made to take the educational facilities of the college to those who can not come to her. The influence of the college will be widened by college extension courses, summer schools, by special lectures throughout the State wherever requested, and by co-operation with the other educational agencies.

"With increasing responsibilities it has been found that there was need of an executive head, unhampered with professional duties, and through the liberal responses to an appeal, and especially because of one very large gift from one who thinks this institution is worthy of help, a partially completed endowment fund has been provided to attain that end. It was under these new conditions, and to these larger duties, that the new president has come. And it was a happy day for us when he came. A trained instructor, a cultured scholar, an experienced administrator, we have in Dr. Mitchell a leader capable and eager to lead forward to the larger fields of usefulness, to develop and use the latent resources which will surely be available and to promote sound learning. With his gentle but firm and high principled character, and his wisdom, he will surely guide aright our footsteps onward and upward."

Dr. George W. Marshall, in speaking for the Board of Trustees said,

"Today, under the new Articles of Incorporation, the State of Delaware is the sole owner of all real and personal property, including the Women's College and the College Farm.

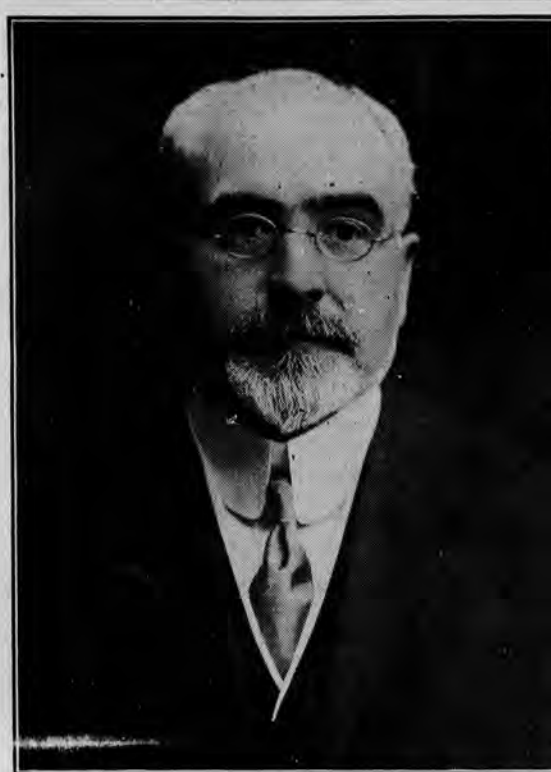

"Delaware College has 'found herself' for a distinct mission in the life of Delawareans; she is now the absolute child of the State; and it behooves the State to see that she is properly maintained with dignity and generosity, and to provide a competency to properly and adequately conduct her affairs, so that there may be a distinct forward movement along the contemplated lines of all her numerous activities."

WEDDINGS

VANDEGRIFT-REIFSNIDER

The wedding of Miss Adelaide Vandegrift and Mr. Henry Price Reifsnider of Philadelphia will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Philadelphia, this evening. Miss Vandegrift is well known here where she has many friends. Among guests from Newark are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, and Miss Nellie Wilson.

RHODES-WALKER

The marriage of Miss Helen Walker of Newark, and Mr. G. W. Rhodes, popular druggist of the town, was solemnized this morning in St. John's R. C. Church at 9.30 o'clock. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, ferns, and yellow and white blossoms. Father Dougherty of Newark officiated, using the nuptial mass. The bride was beautifully attired in white crepe meteor, with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Alice Fennessey of Wilmington, wore yellow and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. James McKeon of Newark was best man. Joseph Walker, brother of the bride, and Mr. James Bradley of Riverton, N. J., acted as ushers. Mrs. Anna Armstrong of Summit Bridge played the wedding march and sang an Ave Marie at the close of the service. A wedding breakfast was served to about seventy-five guests at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Walker, Delaware avenue, (continued on page 8)

Opposes Erection Of Poles

Council Postpones Action Till Next Meeting

Town Council on Monday night considered the petition of the Diamond State Telephone Co. for permission to erect additional poles from the east end of the town limits to Chapel street, in order to serve a few customers. It is the general opinion of the members that there are too many poles on the Main street and they are opposed to the erection of any more unless positively necessary for the betterment of the telephone service. The agreement was reached and Council adjourned for one week when the subject will be taken up again. The matter of better protection at the North College avenue crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad also was discussed, and left in the hands of Mayor Joseph H. Hosinger, who will take it up with the railroad officials.

OBITUARY

S. LOUIS CANN

S. Louis Cann, aged 47 years, died at his home on Depot Road, Tuesday evening, October 13, at 10 o'clock.

Funeral services will be held at his late residence on Friday at 2 p. m. The Rev. W. J. Rowan, assisted by the Rev. W. F. Corkran of Wilmington, will conduct the services. Interment, Head of Christiana Cemetery.

HENRY STEELE

This community was shocked last Saturday morning to hear of the sudden death of Henry Steele. Although Mr. Steele had been in failing health for some time, no one realized his condition was so serious. Mr. Steele had been confined to the house for about a week. Saturday morning about 8 o'clock he was seized by an attack of heart trouble and died in a few minutes. Mr. Steele moved to Newark from Wilmington about 30 years ago and built up a big butcher business. He turned this over to his son, Chas. P. Steele in 1900. He was one of the best known citizens especially in our immediate rural districts. His business relations with the farmers as well as his interest in all phases of rural life made him a host of friends.

The funeral, largely attended, was held from his late residence on Delaware avenue on Tuesday afternoon, the Masonic Order officiating. Interment was made in Head of Christiana Cemetery. He leaves a wife and two children, Mrs. Franklin Welch of Washington, and Chas. P. Steele of this town.

Ritter Factory Running Overtime

Farmers' Urged To Produce
More Tomatoes

Canneries come, and canneries go, and the people of Newark seldom pause, perhaps, to note their coming and going. But far removed from the old-fashioned sort, which has been received with little enthusiasm in the community, is the branch of the P. J. Ritter Conserve Co., located on the site of the old match factory, this season. This company, which has been operated under the same name for fifty-six years, when it enters a neighborhood, plans to stay and make good; its policy is to give a full return for all it receives, and become an asset to the community. Aside from the plant established in Newark the company has three large plants in Philadelphia, one in Bristol, Pa., also a can manufacturing plant, and the main office in the former city. Catsup, baked beans, all kinds of preserves, jellies, jams, and fruit butter are shipped to all parts of the country.

Mr. Charles Ritter, vice-president of the company, when talking with a representative of The Post yesterday, dwelt upon the importance of getting the farmers interested and informed, so that there would be an increased tonnage per acre next season. Newark was selected as the location of the new factory after careful examination of the soil, when it was proven that conditions existed here favorable to the growing of tomatoes, should the farmers be induced to apply scientific methods to their task. Through the efforts of Mr. Ritter, Mr. Burnett Landreth, Sr., expert of the Landreth Seed Co., visited the State Farm and spent a day in consultation with Prof. C. A. McCue, who has experimented with tomatoes during a period of three years. These men have been co-operating in the work of finding the exact kind of seed best adapted to the tomato industry in this locality, and will give the results of their investigation to the public, free of charge, at an open meeting to be called later in the season. The Ritter Co. wants to stay in this section, and grow with the community. It is up to the farmers to produce an acreage which will satisfy them.

The main building of the plant as it now stands (as erected in 1911) has been equipped with the latest and most approved sanitary machinery. Seven hundred and ten horse-power boilers suggest the capacity of the plant, which is (continued on page 4)

Meeting Of Guarantors

A meeting of the local Chautauqua Association is called for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Public School building. The object of the meeting is to complete plans for the coming Lyceum Festival to be held here November 5, 6, and 7. All the guarantors are urged to be present.

The tickets have come and will be given out at that time and placed on sale.

Services Of Citizens Appreciated

The Faculty Committee on Arrangements for the Exercises at the College on October 10 desire to thank the people of Newark for their generous co-operation in the entertainment of out-of-town guests of the two colleges. It was only through the helpful assistance of the many friends of the College in Newark that the various committees directly in charge were able to carry out their plans so successfully.

DELAWARE DAY AT NEWARK

character furnishes an admirable site for a college which is to inspire youth with ideals of growth and of service through truth and freedom. Its situation on the mid-Atlantic seaboard has many advantages as regards temperate climate and inherited traditions of refinement and achievement. Placed virtually on the Mason and Dixon Line, Delaware College is national in spirit and scope, able to interpret aright what is best in the North and what is best in the South in helping to make the American mind.

The bases of the College are laid on granite in that it is a State institution buttressed by Federal funds and now beginning to receive the generous support of its Alumni and the friends of education. Thus while its ownership and control are single, centering wholly in the State of Delaware, the support of the college is three-fold, representing a union of the resources of the State, Nation, and endowment. An analysis of these three sources of income is encouraging. When Delaware College was reopened in 1870, the income from the Federal Government was less than $5,000. Today the total income from the Nation is $85,000, and this amount will increase for the next seven years at the rate of $1260. So gratifying have been the results of this investment in education along agricultural and scientific lines by the National Government that we may confidently expect this sum to grow from decade to decade.

The financial history of the College shows that the State has put its shoulder to the wheel. At first the appropriations by the Legislature were intermittent, now they are continuous and increasing.

the college with all the forces in the life of the State making for progress. Happily the spirit of co-operation has been a signal feature in the recent growth of the college. Witness the manifold activities in the Department of Agriculture. Just now it is placing in each of the three counties a competent man who will seek to enrich rural life. Very soon a capable woman will likewise undertake similar extension work in home economics. The lectures, bulletins and extension courses which the faculty are carrying forward, all go to show that the soul of the college is service.

"Delaware College will fail in its mission unless as a result of its activities every acre of ground yields a richer harvest, unless all breeds of stock on the farm are improved, unless the varied industries are quickened with new initiative and power, unless the life of the home is sweetened, unless all the schools of the State are strengthened, and unless the churches and all the agencies that make for a soul social and moral life are re-enforced. The influence of the College should tend to a string with energy the arm of every worker and impart a noble idealism to the thought of every citizen. In fine the task of an American College is to make publicists. When men and women have publicmindedness, all reforms accomplish themselves through growth and self-renewal of social agencies."

"The events that are now taking place in Europe emphasize as never before the moral mission of America. We have cherished hitherto the detachment of our nation and its independent role in the affairs of mankind. This path outlined by Washington has brought to America a moral prestige unique in the annals of mankind. So big with import is this fact that it furnishes

RESIDENT FACULTY OF THE WOMEN'S COLLEGE

The establishment of the Women's College at an outlay of $150,000 by the very Legislature which honors its with its presence at this time is an infallible proof that the State has embraced this institution in its affections and hopes.

Equally significant is the fact that public spirited men and women both among the Alumni and friends of education are giving generously of their means to strengthen the college in its noble work of training citizens in a democracy. The gift of the "Joe Frazer Field," one of the most beautiful in America, marked an epoch in the life of the college. The efforts in behalf of the Alumni endowment are indicative not only of the growing usefulness of the college, but also of sound statesmanship among its friends in seeking to achieve the higher purposes of the commonwealth through education. The spirit of co-operation on the part of various civic organizations in the building of the Women's College only confirms the belief that the two colleges are destined to enjoy the increasing support of the people of the State.

Delaware stands alone in concentrating all its agencies for higher education at one point. The advantages of this plan both as regards economy and efficiency are apparent. Such concentration, however, implies outreach to every part of the State. The unification of educational agencies at Newark will mean little unless there is effective co-operation on the part of occasion for solemn thought rather than national complacency. In the presence of such a task the College must energize all the moral forces in the life of America. It must temper the mind of youth with seriousness as regards responsibility, and sympathy as regard the progress of the race.

"I had the pleasure of hearing Joseph Chamberlain address a vast meeting in the Royal Albert Hall in London in the interest of greater solidarity for the British Empire. Behind him on the platform sat more than two hundred members of parliament, and opposite the speaker's stand was a streamer with this legend upon it: 'Learn to think Imperially.' Recent events which fill with anguish the heart of man enjoin upon American youth concern for a wider solidarity—the brotherhood of man: 'Learn to think Internationally.' Viewing then the past of Delaware College and encouraged by all the forces of growth in the present we may well beg that Heaven's benediction shall be upon all of those who have borne the burden and heat of the day, who have fostered this child of the commonwealth for the noble career of service that stretches out before it. Especially upon the Alumni, Trustees, Faculty and above all upon Dr. George A. Harter, as leader and inspirer of the college and of the people of this State to give full effect to personality through training, may we invoke the blessings of an all-wise Providence, who plant-

SATURDAY'S EXERCISES

IN order to make room for the news story of Saturday's celebration, we are releasing our space. But this we should like to call to the attention of our readers. Never in our recollection, has there been such a state wide recognition of any institution as was witnessed and expressed here on Saturday. The key note of the exercises was Service. The college is now admitted to be the head of the educational system of the State. Further than that, its function will not be considered fulfilled unless it plays an active leadership in all the State affairs. With this inspiration, what an incentive it is for those who are to carry this work on! With such aid and co-operation we can well look toward wonderful development in the next few years.

Another thing that impressed us was the responsibility placed upon the residents of Newark. With such an institution in our midst we have a duty of no small proportions. Few communities are so blessed as this one. Let us see to it that we give of our best. The eyes of the whole State are watching us. Shall we not be truly worthy of the honor this imposes?

MR. MILLER'S CANDIDACY

The contention that Thomas W. Miller, Republican nominee for Representative in Congress, should resign the office of Secretary of State because he is conducting a campaign, is untenable. If the affairs of the State Department were not being attended to, there would be ground for this claim, but inasmuch as the office is being run on strictly business lines, as everyone who has any dealings with it can testify, there is no reason why Mr. Miller should surrender this post. It will be recalled that when Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the Presidency he did not resign as Governor of New Jersey until several days before his inauguration. Why, then, should an exception be made in the case of our Secretary of State? Surely, he will not present his resignation for the sole purpose of gratifying the partisan whims of his opponents.

The State Department is being conducted in a manner that reflects credit upon the present administration. This fact is admitted. The claim therefore that more attention should be given to the office by the nominee is not only without a basis, but it is founded on the kind of partisanship that makes the intelligent voter think twice before he casts his ballot.

The Star is not a political organ. It has no candidate for Congress or for any other office. In justice to Mr. Miller, however, it can be said that he embodies all of the essentials that would make a capable and efficient Representative in Congress. Intelligent, honest, upright, conscientious, a man of education, and in the vigor of youth, he is able to represent Delaware in the House as she should be represented.

For Those Tired Of War News

It is not easy to understand the psychology of the expression, "I am sick of war news." It seems hardly possible that any one should be so narrow in his interests, so lacking in human sympathy as to become surfeited with the details of one of the most portentous crises of humanity.

Not merely generations but centuries to come will dwell upon the present clash of nations. Libraries will be written about it; lives spent in its study. It will be the source of inspiration to countless millions, and thousands of the wise or near wise will deduce conclusions from it for the guidance of mankind. Imagination and emotion will enrich themselves from its slightest episodes. The effects are incalculable. The physical aspects of civilization, now scarred and blackened and presently to be beautified and adorned on account of it, only typify the abasements and glorifications which the soul of the world will undergo.

Yet there are people to whom destiny has granted the supreme privilege of being contemporary observers of the struggle, holders of front seats at the spectacle of the ages, sharers of its great emotions, who still turn away from it, not from agony or horror, but apparently from sheer blasé indifference. They are sick of it. "I wish," they say, "they'd give us something else." Truly, we have here a curious frivolity, intolerance of the higher call of world realities, of stuff of the spirit which is as strange and inexplicable as war itself.

Of course, the newspapers are blamed. They are the natural scapegoats for the aberrations of their readers. "Cut out the army of words," says a distinguished national legislator; "just give us the information." He does not realize that there are not words enough to give the information, that language is bankrupted by the facts, that it is only by heaping Ossa upon Pelion that some picture of the reality can be thrown before the eyes of such as will read with imagination and feeling.

into catsup after the rush season is equipped for the making of catsup only. From 80 to 100 people—and no foreign labor is a policy of the company—are employed, and the plant is in full operation from 10 to 12 weeks in the year. The most modern sanitary ideas prevail throughout the establishment. Dr. Messick, cannery inspector of Delaware, has approved the methods in operation, and unreservedly recommended the products of the plant. Samples kept from day to day, will at the close of the season be presented to Professors Penny and Thompson for analysis, to assure the public that the product is as it is claimed, a pure tomato catsup, containing no harmful preservatives. The sanitary handling of the tomatoes, the method of sealing, etc., are relied on alone for preserving the catsup. About six thousand baskets of tomatoes are now being received daily. One-half of this amount comes from the farms of the neighborhood; the remainder is shipped over the Delaware road from lower Delaware.

Farmers have found the plan of unloading their crop an improvement over their experience of former years. After the load has been weighed they drive to the receiving station, where the tomatoes are emptied into automatic washers. This does away with tedious waiting for the baskets.

The process by which the catsup is made, and the evidence of sanitary precautions everywhere, is extremely interesting. After the tomatoes have been dashed around in the huge washers, they are sorted and carried on a large moving tray through several sprays of boiling water, to be finally put through a great cloud of steam, before they are considered of a satisfactory cleanliness. From here they go to a huge vat, where they are heated, the seeds extracted, and the skin removed. Quantities of this pure tomato pulp are stored in tightly sealed 5 gallon cans, to be made past. The pulp for immediate use is strained through silver plated machines, and run through glass lined pipes to vats, where the sugar, vinegar and spices are added. The one-half pint bottles to be used, are taken from the boxes as packed by the blower, and placed on trays in the sterilizer—a moving form thirty feet in height which revolves around coils of pipe until the bottles are heated to a temperature of 290 degrees, making them absolutely sterile. After this process they are immediately filled by a machine at the rate of 90 bottles per minute. From here they are carried automatically to a second machine where they are sealed with doubly sterilized paraffine corks. Again they move in the automatic trough to a third machine, which labels them. From here they pass to the packers. About 6000 dozen bottles are being shipped daily. From the time the tomatoes enter the first automatic washer they are never touched by human hands.

The Ritter Co. is planning in every way possible to establish themselves permanently in the life of the community. They are taking up the problems of the farmer, frankly recognizing the unpleasant and difficult part of their propositions, and entering into an honest effort to help solve them. The question of securing help is recognized as a difficult one for the tomato grower. Mr. Ritter is deeply interested in this phase of the situation and has a plan which will be suggested, probably through County Agent L. A. Cooch, before the contracts for next season are on. The concern is the kind every progressive community is looking for, and deserves the support of the farmers in making the plant a permanent one in Newark.

Some years ago a young school teacher opened a Bank Account with $30. She has kept it up and today has in Bank $996.57. When you get your next check, why not deposit it here—or at least, a part of it. You will then always have enough to keep a moderately hungry wolf from the door. Many women are now banking here. A cheery welcome awaits you, whether your account be large or small.

When you Bank a Dollar that's the beginning of it. When you spend a Dollar that's the end of it.

Generous Offer From Wilmington Library

Librarian A. L. Bailey of the Wilmington Institute Free Library has announced that any resident of Delaware who can get some responsible person to vouch for him (or her) can borrow books from the Wilmington Institute Free Library. Since the new Parcel Post law went into effect it has become possible to send books to any part of Delaware at a cost of 5c for the first pound, increasing at the rate of 1c for each additional pound. Those who wish to borrow books from the Library can deposit a sum of money (not less than $1.00) from which the cost of postage will be deducted until the sum is exhausted when the borrower can make a new deposit. There is, of course, absolutely no charge for the use of the books.

Books may be kept for four weeks and even for 12 weeks if so desired by the borrower, the library reserving the right to ask for their return in four weeks if wanted by other readers.

Wilmington's Famous Art Colony

Before the European war thousands of Americans annually visited France to ramble through the famous Latin Quarter of Paris—the European center of pictorial and illustrative art. One of the beneficent effects of the war is to emphasize the importance of Wilmington as America's art center.

It is more unique than Paris in that the colony of Wilmington painters and illustrators are all of the Howard Pyle school, and most of them received all their art education in Wilmington.

It would be difficult to find an American magazine or illustrated novel of note that does not contain the work of one or more of the Pyle school of artists.

The Annual exhibitions of their paintings—this year's being held at the DuPont Auditorium in Wilmington, November 2d to 9th inclusive,—are designed to honor the memory of their illustrious master, and to ensure public appreciation of American art. About eighty artists will be represented and many of them will attend in person.

AMONG THE NEW MAGAZINES

A Little journey To Delaware

The October number of "The Fra" contains one of the famous "Journeys" of Elbert Hubbard, this time of special interest to Delawareans, since it is "A Little Journey to Delaware." The little State seen through the glasses of Elbert Hubbard's originality, takes on added interest. The article includes among other things, short sketches of General James Harrison Wilson, Howard Pyle and Judge Gray; the du Pont Powder Company and the Wilmington Park System. Some striking statements from the article follow:

"Delaware is the second smallest State in the Union, counting square miles. In point of wealth per capita, it ranks fourth in the Union. In Delaware there is neither poverty nor riches. In Delaware there are no slums.

"Delaware has more sea-front according to its square miles than any other State in the Union.

"In Delaware 'the Mediterranean and the Baltic blend.' In other words, Delaware is neither North nor South. The hookworm is not in evidence, and so far Delaware has not been put to the necessity of making wooden nutmegs to eke out a commercial existence.

"The population of Delaware is two hundred thousand, and when I explain that the cities of Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit have each approximately five hundred thousand people, you can see the relative importance that the State of Delaware plays in the line of politics, political economy and powder, not to mention other explosives in the way of ideas.

ed this institution that he may guide it over ever-expanding fields of truth, freedom and service."

Luncheon was served in the College Gymnasium to a host of out-of-town guests. At two o'clock the procession formed to proceed to the Women's College where the exercises were continued.

The exercises of the afternoon were presided over by Governor Charles R. Miller. Following the presentation of a trowel by the governor, to Grand Master W. E. Valiant, exercises marking the laying of the corner-stone were conducted by the Grand Lodge, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Delaware.

The corner-stone of the new building was then laid by the Grand Lodge of Delaware, A. F. and A. M. The officers who took part in the ceremony were as follows: William E. Valiant, grand master; Walter W. Bacon, deputy grand master; Wilks Bowen, senior grand warden; William M. Mash, junior grand warden; Dr. J. Paul Lukens, acting grand treasurer; V. V. Harrison, grand secretary; Frank B. Newell, Sr. D.; George Bennett, Jr. D.; John W. Macklem, grand senior steward; Walter L. Morgan, junior steward; A. L. Sanborn, marshal; William Rockwell, sword bearer; George S. Williams, chaplain; Harry Galbraith, tyler; R. J. Culbert, G. L. Dickerson, George L. Brooks, Edward W. Cooch, Thomas J. Day and Frank B. Massey, past grand masters.

In the corner-stone were placed the following:

Proceedings of the 108th annual convocation of Grand Lodge of Delaware, A. F. and A. M.; program of the exercises of the day; suffrage literature by Mrs. John Cranston; temperance literature by Mrs. S. H. Messick; literature sent by College Women's Association; resolutions prepared by Everett C. Johnson in relation to the college bill; copies of the Newark Post and Ledger; seeds presented by Mrs. Frank C. Bancroft, in behalf of the State Grange; institute program by Prof. Wesley Webb for State Board of Agriculture; group of students and list of names pictures of the Federation of Women's Clubs; souvenirs given by the State president of that federation, Mrs. Reynolds; Senate badge presented by Dr. Marshall; Bible and coins given by Prof. and Mrs. Harry Hayward; pictures of Mrs. A. D. Warner and Dean Robinson; copy of the bill creating the Affiliated College Commission; picture of the college presented by Mrs. Warner for the commission; invitation to the exercises; views of Delaware College; W. C. T. U. pin presented by Mrs. S. M. Donnell; $1 given by S. J. Wright; sentiments written by Dean Robinson; photograph of Dr. Mitchell; war news from the daily papers; Hadcock & Company's business card and an English coin presented by Governor Miller.

Following the reading of Scripture and prayer by Rev. G. E. Reed the keys were presented by Frank N. Overder to Governor Charles R. Miller, who in responding reviewed the work of the commission since its organization and referred to the loss of a devoted member, Dr. G. W. Twitmyer.

"No one in this State was more profoundly interested in the establishment of a Women's College in Delaware than Professor Twitmyer. He was the first secretary of our commission; his enthusiasm in the cause was a constant source of inspiration to all those with whom he was associated. But it was not destined that he should witness the completion of the work which he so earnestly advocated. In his death our commission lost a most valued member, the cause of education an earnest supporter, and the State a kindly, lovable Christian gentleman. After his death was disclosed the fact that in his will he had left his entire library of almost two thousand volumes to this college; a substantial evidence of his great interest in this institution. We miss his presence here today, but the memory of his influence will ever remain with us.

"Professor Twitmyer's place was filled by the selection of Professor Harry Hayward, dean of the Agricultural Department of Delaware College as the representative of the State Board of Education. The first real difficulty which confronted the commission was the performance of the duties imposed by the Legislature without exceeding the amount of money appropriated. Under these circumstances it was necessary to proceed with great care and deliberation.

"The contract for the construction of the buildings was awarded and work begun January 5, 1914, proceeding without interruption until the buildings were opened for occupancy on the fifteenth of September last. The individual members of the commission were ever conscious of the responsibility with which they were charged. The difficulties were minimized by the cordial and co-operative spirit which existed throughout our deliberations and in no instance was a question finally determined until the members were prepared to support it by unanimous vote.

Everett C. Johnson on behalf of the Board of Trustees accepted the keys from Governor Miller. The installation address was made by President Mitchell to which Dr. Robinson made the following response:

"The President of the College, The Governor of the State and my fellow citizens of Delaware:

"In accepting the responsibilities and rewards of this office, I feel that I am entering into a work which has long been in progress, for many years ago the thought came to the minds of Delaware women that the education which they had gained by their own initiative and effort, by their painstaking reading and carefully planned travel, might by the organization, which we call a college, be brought to a large number of women at an earlier age than they themselves had acquired their education, with more economy of time and money than their education had involved, and thus bring to the State greater efficiency in its women than it ever had known. Women have done more thinking than they have expressed in all ages, ever since 'Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.' In this case, however, the thinking was expressed, first among themselves, then to their husbands, brothers, and sons, who in turn took the project to the legislature where the deed was done, and the thought of these women became a fact, even as in the days of Queen Dido, 'a woman was the leader of the deed.'

In establishing the lines of our educational policy we must survey carefully, looking to the future, and trusting that if they should be resurveyed they might be found true like the Mason and Dixon line, 84 years after it was established when the stone that marked the boundary between the three States, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Maryland, had disappeared and the latter workers with their improved methods found the use of the mason-ing stone just where they would have placed it.

The academic structure which we wish to raise must be bounded by four walls. The first must separate the work that stimulates from the idleness that kills. Hoffman in his picture of Christ before the doctors presents in that face the inspiration that comes to youth from work and Christ himself says, 'My father worketh, hitherto, and I work.' Effort conserved must be forever kept inside and energy wasted must be forever outside this first wall. The second wall which we would raise must stand between the recreation which we wish to foster and the foolish spending of time in that which pleases but leaves no good behind when it is past. Our psychologists have taught us that more accidents occur when the workers in the mills are weary at the close of the day than at any other time, hence employers are shortening hours and increasing holidays from the business men's standpoint. The principle is just as applicable to the mental work of the student. There must be no holes in the wall which separates wholesome play from the frivolity which stimulates but does not strengthen. The third wall is that which shuts out the false from the true in that which is taught. On the outside must be all that is conventional in teaching, all that is servile following on the part of the learner; on the inside all freedom in method for the teacher, all honest questioning for the learner. The fourth wall, the ethical from the unethical, that devotion to duty, that love of humanity, and the reverence to God shall be ours, while whatever is unworthy in conduct shall be walled out. With these for protecting walls shall we not be able to keep knowledge and art, goodness and religion within?

For whom are we creating this structure? For our young women, who come to us bringing their youth, their energy, their aspirations, their honest purposes to make themselves useful in their homes and to their communities; young women who appreciate that 'to whom much shall be given, from them much shall be required,' and who soon will realize that never in the years of our history were the responsibilities of women so great as they are now."

Among the distinguished guests of the day was Dean Lois Kimball Matthews of the University of Wisconsin at Madison, who made the address of the afternoon, discussing 'The Ideals of a Woman's College.' Dean Matthews said:

It is rarely that one has an opportunity to begin at the foundation and rear a superstructure upon ideals. Such a rare privilege is that of the Women's College of Delaware, whose dedication and the installation of whose dean has called us together today. In considering what shall be the future of this college we must define to ourselves with clearness and with exactness what shall be the ideals by which its policy shall be determined. The first question to ask ourselves is what of young women shall this college try to graduate? First, and foremost, she must be trained and disciplined on the intellectual side. She must recognize scholarship and foster its interests wherever she may find them. She must be trained to have high-minded standards, to have a fine, strong body, and to have the social point of view. She must be keenly aware of her obligation and relation to the social group in which she may find herself, she must be courteous, well-mannered and reverent, she must possess certain large virtues such as tolerance and patience. In other words, this College shall try to produce young women of intellectual and physical power, and strong fine character.

How shall these ideals be accomplished? By acquiring a faculty who shall be teachers and investigators; who shall preserve the arts, letters, and pure science; who shall build vocational work only on sound foundations of mental training and discipline. There must be a Department of Physical Education whose aim shall be the development of women for women's work, whether their work lie along the line of real or vicarious motherhood whether they have children of their own, or spend their lives caring for the children of other women. There must be recreation which shall be of high-minded sort; there must be student organizations which teach social responsibility. Above all, there must be suitable leaders, who shall work with earnestness and with patience to achieve those ideals. Such an one this college has selected for its dean. She is a scholar, an investigator, a teacher with large experience of life, wide social experience, and a desire to do this work.

With these ideals, with this faculty, with this dean, your college may look to the future with much patience and confidence. It may be humble in success, high-hearted in failure, lifted above the petty annoyances of every day, and day after day, because it will be sustained by a large vision.

Appropriate exercises marking the presentation of a flag by American Flag Council No. 28, Jr. Order American Mechanics, closed the afternoon. Rev. Alfred Brooks of Newark made an effective presentation reviewing the history of the flag and the part that woman has played in establishing its honor. He appealed to the girls to maintain the ideals of its early tradition. The flag was accepted by Hon. Chauncey Holcomb, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Church Publication From Delaware

The Peninsula Presbyterian, a monthly publication that is well-known, is now being published under the editorship of Morgan T. Gum, of Frankford, Del. The new editor has a highly competent editorial staff of clergymen and laymen to assist him. The Presbyterian Church on the Peninsula is such a strong religious institution that it is necessary to have a paper representing it that is of the strongest character. In the Peninsula Presbyterian this essential is met. It is being issued from the press of the Sussex Journal Publishing Company, Georgetown, Del., and the appearance of the October number signifies that its success is unquestioned.

Newark In Close Contest Loses State Championship—Delaware Runs High Score on Baltimore City College

In the final game of a five-game series for State amateur baseball championship, Baneroff, winners of the All-Wilmington League pennant, defeated Newark, Tri-county League champs, on Saturday, 4 to 3. It was a pitchers' battle between Crouch and Hogan, with the latter faring somewhat the better. Crouch's single in the sixth inning sent across Baneroff's two final runs. Frankie Duncan, Austin and Bonner were big factors in the series for the local boys, while Captain Morris, Bill Marsey and "Buck" Hoeh were the Newark mainstays.

Elkton is now after a game with Baneroff.

The football game on Frazer Field last Saturday between Baltimore City College and Delaware was marked by an unusual display of college spirit on the part of the students and splendid team work on the part of the football squad. The result of the enthusiasm that prevailed is registered in the final score, 49 to 0.

First Quarter—Delaware kicked off. Baltimore ran the ball back 25 yards. Delaware held. West made 25 yards on a fake kick. Delaware held for downs and gained possession of the ball on their 40-yard line.

On the first play Grey broke thru the line for a 40-yard run and on the next play Taylor carried the ball over for the first touchdown. Taylor kicked the goal from field.

"Ernie" Wilson kicked off to Towlen, who was dropped by Groff on the 30-yard line. Delaware held and City College was forced to kick. Weiskettel kicked to Fiance on Delaware's 30-yard line. Successive rushes by McDowell, Taylor and Fiance carried the ball to the 2-yard-line, where "Mike" took it over for the second touchdown. Taylor kicked the goal.

Baltimore kicked off. Taylor received the kick and ran to the 40-yard line before being tackled. Delaware made a fast down on a forward pass. Fiance to Groff. Cann made another first down on a long end run. On the next play Delaware fumbled but Crothers recovered the ball. Wilson made a first down on an off tackle run. Delaware 14, Baltimore 0.

Second Quarter—Second quarter started with the ball in Delaware's possession on Baltimore's 18-yard line. On the first play Taylor tore thru the line for 15 yards. Grey carried it over. Taylor missed the goal.

E. Wilson kicked off to Swink, who was brought to earth by Groff on the 15-yard line. City College could make no headway thru Delaware's line and was forced to kick. Weiskettel punted to Taylor, who returned the ball 20 yards, before being stopped. Wilson made 10 yards thru the line and Fiance skirted right end for his second touchdown. Taylor missed the goal.

Wilson kicked off to Simpson. Groff dropped him in his tracks. Newton blocked a kick, but Baltimore recovered the ball.

Weiskettel punted to Fiance in mid-field. Wilson and Cann carried the ball to the 20-yard line. Groff and Smart then pulled off a pretty trick forward pass for a touchdown. Taylor kicked the goal.

Wilson kicked off to Swink, who was tumbled by Smart on the 40-yard line. Cann threw Swink for a loss and City College lost no time in getting rid of the ball. Weiskettel sent up another long spiral, but the doughty "Mike" took care of it. Delaware then started another march down the field and had the ball on Baltimore's 5-yard line when the whistle ended the first half.

Third Quarter—Delaware again kicked off. Weiskettel returned the kick-off to Fiance. Here the Baltimore team held Delaware for 4 downs, the only time during the game. Groff threw Weiskettel for a loss. Weiskettel again punted. This time Taylor brought the ball back nearly to midfield. On the next play Taylor fumbled and Baltimore recovered the ball. Delaware broke up two attempted forwards and City College was again forced to kick. Weiskettel punted over Delaware's goal line. Delaware ball on 20-yard line. Delaware started another march down the field and Coach McAvoy put the entire scrub team in the game. The Scrubs tried a forward pass, but Baltimore intercepted it. Weiskettel punted to O'Daniel, putting the ball in Delaware's territory. The Scrubs lost the ball on downs. C. Smith then proved himself the star of the Scrubs by intercepting a forward pass and running through the visitors for 70 yards and a touchdown. O'Daniel missed the goal.

The Scrubs kicked off on the 40-yard line. Delaware, 39; Baltimore, 0.

Fourth Quarter—The Varsity went back in the game. Weiskettel kicked to Fiance, who was thrown by Cronin. Crawford and Fiance made 40 yards on two end runs. Fiance made an inside kick and Taylor recovered the pigskin and carried the ball over the line for Delaware's last touchdown. Taylor kicked the goal. Delaware kicked off to Simpson. Taylor dropped him on the 20-yard line. Weiskettel again punted to Fiance, who again showed his skill in handling spirals. Delaware was unable to gain through the line and resorted to forward passes, which method was also unsuccessful. Fiance then dropped back and placed the ball between the uprights for a goal from the field.

Delaware kicked off and soon had the ball again on the 35-yard line. Cann, Crawford and Taylor each made first downs. Then Baltimore took a brace, Delaware again had to resort to forward passes. Groff made one of the prettiest passes of the game to Smart, who was dropped on the one-yard line. The whistle prevented further scoring. Delaware, 49; Baltimore, 0.

A CHANCE FOR DELAWARE BOYS

Pig Raising Contests Under College Management

Unaccountable as it may seem, New Castle County has been taking backward steps in the production of swine. We have not the class of hogs in this county that we had ten years ago, and in spite of high prices that are being paid for pork, the number of swine raised is gradually decreasing. Even those farmers who in former years, salted down two or three barrels of pork for home use, now go to the local meat market or grocery store and buy at an exorbitant price the meat that they could have raised at home—a large portion of it on food that must otherwise go to waste.

In order to help overcome this condition, the Extension Department of Delaware College, contemplates the establishment of boys' pig clubs throughout the county. The boys buy their own pigs, or get their fathers to give them to them, refunding the purchase price when the grown hog or her offspring is sold. The boys will be given scientific and practical suggestions in feeding their pigs, both as regards grain rations and successive pasture crops. The first and second prize winners of each club will receive a pure-bred (weanling) sow-pig of a popular breed. All boys in New Castle county between the ages of 10 and 17 years are eligible. County Agricultural Agent, L. H. Cooch, Cooch's Bridge, will be glad to hear at once from any boy who wishes to belong to a pig club.

Bake At Jackson School House

Jackson Union S. S. and C. E. Society will hold a bake in Jackson Hall near Newtown on Friday and Saturday evenings, October 16 and 17. Ice cream, cakes, bread, pies, home-made candy and fancy articles will be sold. Come and help the cause along.

Elkton Starts New Armory

The contract for the erection of the new armory for Company E, First Regt., M. N. G., at Elkton, has been awarded to Levi Patterson, of Perryville. He made the lowest bid, $26,450, but as the cost of construction has been set at $22,935 the plans will be modified. The building will stand on the old Cecil County Fair Grounds, at the corner of Bow street and Railroad avenue. The walls will be of Port Deposit Granite with a front of 70 feet and a depth of 130 feet. The front portion or head house will be two story, and the drill hall will be 60x130 feet. On the first floor will be located the officers' rooms, coat room, company parlors and drill hall. The second floor of the head house will contain the quartermaster's room, locker room, gun room, reading room, and non-commissioned officers' room. In the basement under the entire building, will be the mess room, kitchen, shower baths, laundry, dressing room, heating plant, rifle range and bowling alleys. With its high front the building will make an imposing appearance.
