HENS CLAW MULES 20-12

Two touchdowns in last Saturday's fracas pulled Paul "Barrel" Hart into a deadlock with Gerald "Doc" Doherty for the University of Delaware football team's scoring lead. Hart and Doherty have each tallied seven touchdowns. They are followed by Harold "Buck" Thompson and Mariano "Nine" Malloni, each of whom have scored 10 points.

The Hens closed the season with a total of 337 points while opponents could only account for 38. This aggregation of counters gives the Murraymen an average of 37.4 points per game.

*Delaware has scored two safeties.

The play selection committee of the B-52 Players under the chairmanship of Dorothy Catts, met recently to consider the program for the rest of the year. They are hoping to offer a new play for the next production and have been reading plays submitted by new playwrights from all over the country. Special consideration is being given a promising work entitled "Storm," which is about the life of Mary Todd Lincoln. Members of the committee are Zadoc Poole, Layton Mabrey, Sybil Levenson, Elizabeth Hutchinson, and James Quinn.

Dr. Vincent E. Parker, head of the University of Delaware Physics Department, announced Thursday that he and Mr. Charles Cooper, instructor of Physics, would visit Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, from Tuesday, November 26, to Saturday, November 30. While there, they will interview members of the Cornell Physics Department and study their methods of teaching.

Basketball Boxing, Other Sports to Be Organized

Touch-Football, the first intramural activity of the term, ended last week with the mighty "Badgers" in the lead.

In order to get credit for a game played, the team was required to turn in a roster of players and the score after each game. If the roster was not turned in the team received no credit for the game. Quite a few of the teams lost credit because of this. The points were: 25 points for a win, 15 points for a tie, 10 points for a loss, and 0 if no roster was turned in.

The teams played a round-robin making 8 games each. The Badgers were first with 175 points; Theta Chi, 150 points; Kappa Alpha, 135 points. The Badgers won 7 games and didn't turn in their eighth roster. The Theta Chi's won 6 games, tied 1 game, and lost 1 game. The Kappa Alpha won 3 games, lost 4 games, and missed 1 roster.

The Badgers displayed a host of grid talent including Phil Doherty, "Chick" De Flare, Joe Miller, Tom Scripps, Jack Shinn, George Singley, and Fran McAllister. The Theta Chi sported Scotty "Knees" Duncan, Tom Livizos, and Carl Lasker.

Each man was allowed to play in only 7 of the 8 games. The Kappa

Blue Hens Overwhelm Foes in Every Field But Passing

Statistics compiled by the University of Delaware football team, both individually and as a unit, are given below. The two leading ground gainers, with respect to average gain were, Billy Cole and Gerald Doherty, who accumulated the astounding average of 12.2 and 11.9 yards per try over the nine-game card.

The only department in which the Blue Hens were bettered was the passing game, and any discrepancy here can be off-set by the number of aerials intercepted by the Murraymen. A passing attack was the most popular method of offense among Hen foes.

Climaxing the most successful football season in the history of the University of Delaware, Coach William D. Murray's Blue Hen gridgers took the measure of their most stubborn opponents of the campaign last Saturday, downing Muhlenberg College 20-12. Before a record 15,000 fans, the Murraysmen displayed championship form in handing the Allentown, Pa., eleven their first setback of the 1946 season.

The victory gives Delaware the mythical Class B championship of at least the Eastern United States, and almost assures the Hens of a post-season bowl bid. Reports of "feelers" from the 'Gator Bowl, in Jacksonville, Fla.; the Cigar Bowl,

On Tuesday evening, November 12, the newly-organized Piano Club held its initial meeting in Old College. Miss Grace E. Berry, sponsor of the club, and Charles Rogers played Bach's "Sheep May Safely Graze," arranged for two pianos. Barbara Webster, violinist, presented "Arioso" by Bach, "Sonata in D" by Schubert, and "Rondino" by Kreisler.

The club, which is composed of students studying piano under Miss Berry, has as its aims the promoting of solo performances, the forwarding of ensemble playing, and the discussing of the major works in the pianist's repertoire. Meetings are planned bi-monthly on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p. m.

in Tampa, Fla.; the Orange Bowl, in Miami, Fla.; the Glass Bowl, in Toledo, Ohio; and the Tobacco Bowl, in Kentucky have been released, but the Athletic Department has already announced that the Tobacco and Glass Bowls, both of which will be played on December 7, are out because they would interfere with the studies of members of the squad. The Athletic Council has not yet announced whether they would accept a post-season bid even if it were received.

It was sheer power which downed the hard-fighting Mules, as the stubborn Red and Gray defenses bottled up almost completely the efforts of Hen ace scabback Gerald "Doc" Doherty as well as the Blue and Gold passing attack. While stubborn and valiant, the Muhlenberg forward rampart was far from a match for the Brunansky-tutored huskies between the two ten-yard markers, but it was a different story when the Mules found their backs to the wall. No less than three times did the charges of Coach Floyd "Benny" Schwartzwalder thwart Hen efforts to score within five yards of their destination.

The passing and running of ace tailback Harold "Bill" Bell was the brightest spot in the Muhlenberg picture. Completing 12 out of 27 attempted aeriels for a total of 128 yards, Bell definitely earned his place as one of the finest passing artists in the East. In addition to his talented right flipper, the one time West Virginia University luminary displayed a smooth and deceptive ball-toting ability.

It looked like a gloomy day for the shivering Delaware contingent early in the first period when a drive by the hard-hitting Mules carried them to the locals' two-yard line. With fourth down, the Allentown eleven called upon one of Bell's forwards to give them an early margin, but flankman Irving "Dizzy" Dean, target of most of the Parkersburg, W. Va., aces forwards, stepped out of the end-zone after eluding Hen defenses and before he had snared the oval.

Joe Coady's toe removed the Blue and Gold from immediate danger by means of a kick from deep in his end zone, against the strong wind, to the Delaware 37. After holding the Mules for four plays, the Murray juggernaut took to the offensive. Straight power mixed with scattered passes moved the pigskin down the field with regularity as SALUTE!!

By DICK KIDDOO

With Saturday's contest, the University of Delaware ended the most successful football season in the history of the school. All hats are off to coaches, team and all others making the brilliant Hen record possible.

National prestige has become ours at last, and while it is emphasized that Delaware has not become a haven for highly-subsidized athletes, the Blue Hens are on the road to the top. Despite their grid greatness, approximately 20% of those members of the squad in school last spring came off with scholastic honors. One out of each five Murraymen earned his place on the Dean's list last semester.

Three of the biggest reasons for the winning Blue and Gold eleven this fall were William D. Murray, William S. Martin and Joseph L. Brunansky. Coach Murray, head football mentor and University director of athletics, has long been recognized as a top-notch gridiron tutor, but with the 1946 campaign behind him, "Bill" has taken his place among the greatest football coaches in the nation. Although Mr. Murray's rise to fame has been nothing less than meteoric, his national recognition has far from turned the head of the quiet, unassuming southerner. Coach Murray came to Delaware only after chalking up a 36-game win streak with a Winston-Salem (N. C.) children's home ensemble. So we see that the Hen 30-game record is only a drop in the bucket to the illustrious mentor.

The remarkable abilities of the Hen backfield as well as their deep reserve strength is a credit to the labors of William S. "Shack" Martin, who followed Mr. Murray from Duke University. "Shack" returned from two years of service with the U. S. Navy last spring. Before his tour with the fleet, he had seen duty as backfield coach at Delaware for the undefeated 1941-2 campaigns. Famous for his southern-drawled "Keep yo' laigs movin'," Coach Martin has been the underlying factor in the success of the powerful Blue and Gold offense this season.

Rounding out this trio of Wallace Wade-schooled grid tutors, is line coach Joseph L. Brunansky. Coming to the Blue Hen school after vast collegiate, professional and service grid experience, Coach Brunansky has led the Hen forward wall through the undefeated '46 campaign. Blessed with an experienced front rampart, "Joe" devoted much time and effort to the development of reserve strength, and has done a master's job. Thanks to Coach Brunansky and his assistant, Marty Pierson, the Blue Hens will field a talented group of huskies for several seasons to come.

Marty Pierson, assistant line coach and junior varsity mentor, was himself a Murray tackle prior to his war service with the Navy. He returns this year to assist his former boss with the Hen forwards as well as the important task of schooling the jay vees. In the latter duty, it is Marty's responsibility to produce winning combinations for future years.

The training duties for the football team have been capably handled by Gus Seaburg, former Green Bay "Packer" conditioner. The prevention and treatment of battle injuries sustained by our grid warriors warrants a large feather in the familiar Seaburg baseball cap. Gus was ably assisted by Ray "Scotty" Duncan. The efficiency of managers Art Stewart, Bill Piper, Bob Hunter and George Schaen has been more than instrumental in easing the burdens falling upon the shoulders of the coaches as well as business managers Bob Siemen and Newell Duncan.

Captain Tony Stalloni, 225-pound tackle and a four-year varsity letter-winner, was also of invaluable service to Messrs. Murray, Martin and Brunansky. He displayed superb on-and-off the field leadership of the Blue Hens while serving as the first captain of a Delaware eleven since 1939. During the Murray regime, co-captains and even tri-captains have been the vogue. Tony, a twice-wounded Marine vet, Believe it or not, Billy Cole, ace scatback, got away from this potential tackler. However, his momentum was slowed up a sufficient amount for the Diplomat's No. 15 to bring the ex-Air Corps lieutenant to the ground. Cole and Tony Storti paced the Blue Hens to their conquest of the rugged Lancaster, Pa., eleven.

A valiant attempt by Randolph-Macon's forward wall succeeds in temporarily halting the sixth touchdown march of the Blue Hens as the Murraymen racked up their second win of the season. Harold "Buck" Thompson (22) and Danny Wood (18) are the only identifiable players in the pile-up.

Jim "Whitey" Ostendarp briefly halts Fred "Spiz" Sposato, stellar right halfback, before several Dragon gridders converge upon him for the tackle. Blocking by Buck Thompson (22), Gene Carrell (52), Carroll Hauptle (64), and Moose Marusa (51) made a substantial gain possible before the "Crow" finally came to rest.

is one of the four performers who have hung up their Delaware trophies for the last time. The others are tackle and place-kicker-extraordinary Bob Papy and wingback Art Millman and Danny Wood.

Due particular note in the Blue and Gold ball-toting quartet is the all-caller Jim "Buck" Buchanan. One of the most under-rated members of the eleven because his chores do not involve spectacular action, this ex-Marine's hard blocking and masterful field generalship has been a boon to Hen operations throughout the season. Another back whose fierce offensive paving and defensive play has often been overlooked by the crowd is the steady, easy-going Fred "Spiz" Sposato.

The favoritism always shown to the little man has made Gene "Doc" Doherty, Billy Cole, and Anthony Storti the fans' choice. The amazing broken-field runs of Cole and Doherty have furnished thrills by the score for onlookers while the aggressive, hard play of Tony Stalloni has made him a favorite. Paul Hart, Joe Coady and Mariano "Nine" Stalloni have provided more than adequate strength in the all-important fullback slot of the double-wing system.

The double wingback formation is one of the most unusual and deceptive systems employed in collegiate circles today. Its advantages may readily be seen in that there are still three possible ball carriers after the fullback has received the snap-back. The scheme requires fullback of unusual talent. Besides possessing the essential power, he must be the team's passer and mobile ball-handler. Coach Murray has been endowed with no less than five fullbacks who can properly operate from the double wing.

One of the most unique features of the 1946 Delaware football combine is its lack of any one individual standout. On the line, one must search feverishly to find an individual who is outstanding in even any one contest.

In flankmen Harold "Buck" Thompson, Delaware boasts one of some eleven-odd candidates for the All-America. His pass-catching has been nothing short of spectacular and his tremendous speed has accounted for the low average of punt returns by opponent safety men. Carroll Hauptle, who balances Thompson on the opposite wing, has proven to be one of the most improved ballplayers on the squad. With both of these stalwarts returning next fall, and with reserves Ernie Mettenet, Walt Hushebeck, Jack Miller, Bob Jones and Teddy Zink back, the Hen ends should be amply filled next season.

Flanking Captain Tony Stalloni at tackle has been rangy North Carolinian Bob Campbell who proved his mettle on numerous occasions by timely blocking of kicks and laying claims on portions of enemy backfields. With two regular tackles graduating this year, serves Franny Hill, Phil Small, Northwood and Phil Gentile should see plenty of action in the '47 campaign.

The Hens were well fortified against during the season with Walter "Moose" Marusa and Gene "Zek" Carrell serving as regulars. The ruggedness and speed displayed by this pair provided plenty of protection for Hen backs and made many afternoons unpleasant for foe ball carriers. With Jack Coulter, Jack Gallagher, Carl Stalloni and Bob Lind plus several promising jay vees, the guard position should be one of the deepest positions on the club which will seek number one next fall. The same story is true with the pivot position where Jack Messick, one of the best centers in the east, Bob Glisson and "Bulldog" Murray will hold forth.

All students lift a resounding toast to the members of the greatest gridiron aggregation to ever represent the University of Delaware on a football field, and wish them well as they go into hibernation for the next months!

The REVIEW staff wishes to thank Poffenberger Studio for the use of the pictures for the layout on the opposite page and for the pictures that they have taken of the team during the undefeated season. The layout was made up by the REVIEW Art Staff.

Acc-passer "Bill" Bell hits the spot again as the Mules drive deep into Blue and Gold territory.

Hens

Paul Hart, Art Millman, Danny Wood and Joe Coady reeled off consistent advances. A sequence of 16 plays carried the ball to the Mule one, from which point Hart drove through the line to score. Papy's attempted conversion was wide, and Delaware led, 6-0.

An exchange of punts in the second period began another Hen drive, this time paced by Bill Cole, Doherty, and Coady, the Delawareans found themselves on the Muhlenberg four-yard stripe. Once more Hart tried the Mule line, but found it solid. Tony Storti also was stopped. Reaching deep in his trick bag, Coach Murray sent big Bob Papy and Bill Otton, Hen conversion team, into the fray, supposedly to negotiate a field goal. Instead of the expected place-kick, however, Otton tossed a flat pass to end Harold "Buck" Thompson. However, wide-awake play by the Schwartzwalder defenses thwarted the attempt.

On the first play after taking the ball, Jack Crider, the East's leading scorer, bobbled and alert tackle Franny Hill recovered on the four, and Hart scored on the second of two line bucks. This time Papy converted.

A rejuvenated Mule combination took the field in the third quarter and proceeded to march down to the Blue and Gold six, where the Hens' bugaboo—penalties—paid off for the visitors, and the Red and Gray were given five yards after a local lineman was detected offside. Crider carried through the line for the first Muhlenberg tally.

After another Hen drive had been halted within the five, Bell, Ed Sikorski, and Crider combined to lead a drive from deep in their own territory which carried the Mules to the Blue and Gold eleven's 24, but Danny Wood reached into the ionosphere to grab one of Bell's aerials, and the hosts were again on the march.

This time it was Mariano "Nine" Stalloni who led the drive and finally climaxed it with a short buck for the score. The accurate toe of Bob Papy again provided the extra point, giving the Hens a 20-6 margin.

Still not beaten, the Mules again took to the air, and drove down to the Delaware four, from which point Bell flipped to Sikorski, one-time Emmaus (Pa.) High School great, who carried for the final Mule score. With two minutes to play, the Hens, this time led by Angie Cataldi, carried the kickoff return down to the visitors' nine, when time ran out.

In the Hen House

By SCOTTY MURDOCK

The pool at the Women's Gym has lost its peaceful countenance since Shirley Taylor and Jean Cameron have been working on their strokes. Cammy and Shirley are trying to cut down five seconds apiece on their racing speeds by competing with each other in flashy trips the length of the pool. Shirley, whose Alma Mater was Conrad High School in Wilmington, swims regularly with the Swim Club at the Wilmington "Y."

Working as a waterfront assistant at a Girl Scout camp last summer, Shirley spent long hours teaching and directing swimming and generally indulging in her favorite pastime which, due to her natural abilities, threatens to be a full-time activity. Her seemingly effortless style is something to be remembered. Propelled by her powerful kick, she scoots through the water at a fast pace. These two girls are definitely up-and-coming on the swimming scene.

The soccer turn-out has increased and the time set aside for the booters has turned into organized practice. Inter-class games will be played when there are a sufficient number of practices. More girls are urged to come over to the soccer field Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:00.

Voice Group Will Meet On Dec. 3

The students of Miss Lucille Miller of the University Music Department will meet in Old College on Tuesday, December 3, at 4:15 p. m. Mr. Weston Beale and Miss Pauline Ellingsworth will sing. The students will also discuss various phases of music, and will also listen to recordings of contemporary artists.

The following officers were elected at a preliminary meeting of the voice groups:

Treasurer: Weston Beale
Social Chairman: Roberta Carothers
Program Chairman: Marylou Harris.

Hen Matmen Start Regular Workouts

Roy Rylander to Assist Martin in Training Men

Daily sessions continue in the wrestling room at the Field House as the Hen matmen bring their period of informal practice to a close. The finale of the football season on Saturday saw Backfield Coach William S. (Shack) Martin stepping into the pilot's seat as mentor of the grappling gang, with a number of gridiron huskies also transferring from tackling to tangling. Acting Coach Roy Rylander, in addition to coaching the gymnastic squad, will continue to assist Coach Martin as regular drills roll into high gear next week.

Proper conditioning, that prime requisite for all winning teams in the field of sport, occupies a prominent place in the workouts. In addition to the actual contact practice bouts upon the mat, the grapplers engage in a thorough warm-up, escape and series work, and finish up with bridging, push-ups, set-ups, pull-ups, and fifty-yard sprints.

D. S. C. A. To Hold Christmas Party

The Delaware Student Christian Association will hold a Christmas Party next Tuesday night, December 3, in the Lounge of Old College.

In addition to refreshments, committee chairman, Ginny Smith, has planned a program of dancing and entertainment.

Festivities will begin at 7:30. All D. S. C. A. members are invited to attend.

American Legion To Meet Nov. 26

Student, Faculty Vets Invited to Be Present

The Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10, American Legion, of Newark, has extended a blanket invitation to veterans in the student body and faculty of the University of Delaware to attend a social meeting in the Newark Country Club on Tuesday evening, November 26, commencing at 8:15 o'clock.

It will be "Delaware University Night," with Coach Bill Murray showing movies of the University of Delaware's undefeated football team. If developed in time, Murray will show movies of Delaware's victory over Muhlenberg. A general invitation is being extended also to all graduates of the University who reside in the vicinity of Newark.

The local American Legion Post is now conducting a membership drive in an effort to pick up more than 200 new members. The membership of the Post now totals more than 180.

A large number of Delaware graduates and members of the faculty of the University are active in the Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10. Dr. Carl J. Rees, head of the Department of Mathematics, is a member of the local post and just this summer was elected state vice-commander, while Bill Richardson, Class of '41, is the newly elected vice-commander.

The local Legion Post was originally named in honor of Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel, brother of Major General "Iron Mike" O'Daniel, commander of the famous Third Infantry Division, and a graduate of the University of Delaware. General O'Daniel, who lost a son in World War II, is a member of the Newark Legion.

Ford McBerty, local commander, has stated all veterans from the University are cordially welcomed and that refreshments and a social evening will follow.

Yacht Club Will Elect Officers

Ideas for Raising Funds Suggested at Meeting

Approximately fifty prospective yachtsmen turned out for the meeting of the Yacht Club on Thursday, November 14, in the lounge of Old College. At this time a temporary organization was set up to function until December 5th, when there will be an election of permanent officers and a constitution drawn up.

This temporary organization is composed of a Commodore, Secretary, and Committee for Programs, Fleet Procurement, Post Facilities, Finance, and Publicity. The Finance Committee is the most active at the present time because it has the difficult task of raising initial funds. Under the able leadership of Lee Sparks, and Bill Allmond it is progressing far beyond expectations. Of the several ways of raising funds suggested, the committee, after careful consideration, decided to hold bridge parties and sell Christmas cards.

The Club, with expectations of having a fleet of six boats in the water by April, has tossed a nice job into the laps of the Procurement Committee. It is their responsibility to secure boats of a good quality for the minimum cost.

Once the Yacht Club has become formally organized, it will apply for membership in the Inter-Collegiate Yachting Association and compete in races with other members of the I. C. Y. A. Clubs in this vicinity. In addition to this competition for cups and awards there will be contests within the club to determine the crew to represent Delaware in the inter-collegiate races.

As a side line to this competition, Dr. Parker and Mr. Kaffman, faculty advisors for the Club, suggested that it might be possible to borrow a sloop for weekend cruises on the Chesapeake Bay or the Atlantic.

Dear Editor:

As a reporter on the Review, I have been my understanding that reporting consists of recounting accurately all of a given story. In last week's edition, you (individually or collectively) censored the positions of my report on the Dr. Walsh lecture which contained references to some of his statements which, to put it mildly, lacked validity. For example: "Dr. Walsh expressed the opinion that Soviet Russia's only opponent is the United States"; "Dr. Walsh made the enlightening observation that the United States possessed no minority problems"; "In concluding Dr. Walsh 'had a feeling' that we may soon be facing the German enemy in the uniform of another country," etc.

Since the Review is a campus newspaper and not a tool of Hearst et al, the editors should be reminded of their responsibility to the readers. That responsibility includes complete presentation of Dr. Walsh's statements, which were obvious propaganda designed to arouse war hysteria.

JOHN R. SCHMIDHAUSER

Editor's Note:

The editors cut Mr. Schmidhauser's story so that it would be keeping with the policy of the paper, and not because of any ambition to follow in the footsteps of the Hearst syndicate. The new story, as first presented, contained certain sections which were an infringement on the editorial policy of the Review. They were also highly sarcastic in nature and definitely not in keeping with the mechanisms of a well-written personalized news story. It is not the purpose of a news story to editorialize or cast aspersions upon the speakers or guests of the University, and, therefore these sections were deleted from the account. Should Mr. Schmidhauser feel inclined to write in this manner in the future, the editors will gladly offer him the space to do so, on the editorial page.—R. N.

Drama Dribblings

The Christmas Program which is presented annually by the Department of Music and of Dramatic Arts and Speech in the week preceding Christmas, will be quite a departure from anything done here before. The dramatization will be that of the old medieval legend "The Lady's Slumber." The dramatization is by Peg Munoz, whose script was selected from those members of the Script Writing class.
