Alumni Council Choose R. D. Groo Chairman

Richard D. Groo, Director of Alumni Relations at Delaware for the past five and a half years, was recently elected chairman of District Two of the American Alumni Council. The American Alumni Council is a professional association in the educational field for alumni executives of universities, colleges and secondary schools in the U. S. and Canada. It furthers friendly relations among members, helps in the exchange of ideas on alumni and educational problems and stimulates the work of individual alumni associations.

During his two year term of office as chairman of the A.A.C., Dick Groo will preside over the meetings of the heads of all alumni associations in District Two. It is the largest of the 9 districts in the A.A.C. and is composed of 298 members from the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Washington, D. C., and Ontario, Canada. Dick will also encourage other alumni associations to join the A.A.C., help other associations with their problems, and make visits to other schools.

The Delaware Alumni Association consists of alumni and alumnae groups and has 9000 former students on its rolls. The next big function the association will sponsor will be the Bi-annual Alumnae Workshop for Alumnae Leaders on October 9 and Homecoming Weekend on October 23.

Winterthur Series To Feature Talks On Culture Spread

Lectures on the Winterthur program to be given this year at the university will deal with the subject of "American Culture and the Mediterranean."

There will be eight lectures in all, the first of which will be given by Louis Wright, Director of the Folger Library in Washington, D. C. The title of his lecture will be "Classical Influences in Colonial America."

The lectures will all be presented in Wolf Hall Auditorium and the remaining seven will be given by Kenneth Murdock of Harvard, Helmut Von Erffa of Rutgers, E. P. Richardson of the Detroit Institute of Art, Stanley Williams of Yale, Richard Howland of Johns Hopkins, H. R. Hitchcock of Smith, and Carl Bridenbaugh of the University of California. The dates for these are October 27, November 3 and April 27. Students will be admitted by presenting their I. D. cards.

The speaker will also address one class of undergraduates in a course related to his particular field.

Military Department To Entertain Major General George Smythe

The Military Department of the University of Delaware will be host to Major General George W. Smythe next week.

General Smythe, who is Second Army Deputy Commander, will visit the university Friday, October 15, in order to get a first hand picture of the Reserve Officer Training Corps here. He will visit classes in session at the same time assist in solving any problem that may exist.

Tassel Elects Officers, Fiery Named President

The first meeting of Tassel, senior women's honor society, was held on Tuesday, September 28. Tassel officers this year are: Cynthia Fiery, president; Nancy Peck, secretary; Ann Short, treasurer; Mickie Blaine, historian; Ginny Larson and Carolyn Weimer, members.

At this first meeting, the girls reviewed the constitution and programs outlined by the senior women's honor societies to acquaint themselves with the functions and duties of Tassel.

Visiting Professor To Open Maritime History Program

The appointment of a visiting professor of maritime history to the faculty of the University of Delaware has been announced by President John A. Perkins.

Dr. David B. Tyler, now on leave from Wagner College, will carry on a twofold program of teaching and research during a two year period beginning this month. His research work will center on the Delaware River Valley while his teaching will cover broad areas of maritime history.

A native of Brooklyn, Dr. Tyler holds degrees from Williams College, Oxford University and Columbia. He has taught at Hobart College, Brooklyn College, and since 1939, at Wagner College.

During World War II service, 1943-1945, Dr. Tyler held the rank of Lt. Commander, USNR. He served as assistant historian for the United States Maritime Commission from 1945-47. The author of numerous articles for historical journals and magazines, Dr. Tyler also has written one book, "Steam Conquers the Atlantic," and co-authored another, "Ships for Victory."

RCA Gives Research Program To UD Psychology Department

By JEAN De VRIES

Way up on the fourth floor of Wolf Hall there is a room within a room. It looks like a room in the fun house of some amusement park, but actually the recesses in the walls, the big black "water wheels" and the little black "eyes" are equipment for a research program that the Radio Corporation of America has awarded again this year to the psychology department of this university.

The little black eyes are ten-inch speakers, 43 of them, placed all about the walls and ceiling of the room. The water wheels are two fifteen-inch speakers. Noises are broadcast over them—the noise of a jet, or an airplane propeller or a machine shop.

The program is concerned with peoples' ability to hear and understand speech under these various conditions of noise and quiet and evaluate the electronic equipment used for speech transmission in them. Its purpose is to provide basic information concerning the factors which contribute to understanding speech, and to develop reliable techniques for evaluating the difficulty of speech reception under various conditions.

Chief investigator of this project is Dr. F. Loren Smith, associate professor of psychology. Dr. Halsey M. MacPhee, professor and chairman of the department of psychology, is associated with the project as administrative and technical consultant. They will be assisted by scientists and engineers

Alumnae Leaders To Hold Bi-Annual Meeting Oct. 9

Alumnae leaders will hold their bi-annual meeting on Saturday, October 9, at Warner Hall. Mary J. deHan '32, new president of the Alumnae Association, will be introduced to the women, and they will discuss future work.

Members of the faculty and administrative staff will join the alumnae for a coffee hour. After the coffee hour the women will hold a joint meeting, and Miss Louise Bolger, executive secretary of the Chestnut Hill College Alumnae Association, Philadelphia, will be the main speaker.

Different committee meetings will follow the main speaker. Representatives from the classes which are planning reunions this May will meet for discussion with Alice Pepper Gallagher, '36, vice president of the Alumnae Association and Reunion chairman. Mrs. Robert B. Rock, class representative of Smith College, will be the discussion leader for the Class Representative and Fund Committee. Dr. William G. Fletcher, Director of Admission at Delaware, and Eleanor Samuel Cashell, '38, will be discussion leaders for the Chapter Officers and Recruitment Committee; Dorothy E. Markert, '37, will lead the discussion in the Scholarship Committee.

George Madden's Band To Play For Annual Homecoming Dance On Saturday Night, October 23

The Harvest Hop, the annual homecoming dance, will take place Saturday night, October 23, in Carpenter Field House, according to SGA social chairman Brad Barnes.

The dance, which will share the spotlight of the weekend with the Connecticut-Delaware football contest, will feature the music of George Madden and his orchestra.

This will be the first dance of the season to be sponsored by the S.G.A. According to social chairman Barnes, "Only through the support of the student body can our dances be a success." Brad said, "Since this is a preview of our coming social season, only the students' interest and attendance will be a step in the right direction toward enlarging our university social schedule."

Tickets for the dance will go on sale in the basement of the library, various dormitories and the fraternity houses in the near future. The tickets will sell for $2.25 a couple.

Thomas B. Pegg of the Department of Dramatic Arts and Speech is directing and Herman D. Middleton, also of the drama department, is technical director and set designer. Jean DeVries is assistant director.

"Anne of the Thousand Days" is a modern classic by one of America's most accomplished dramatists. Credited with being the man who brought verse back into the theatre, Anderson's writings have won him two Drama Critics Circle Awards and one Pulitzer Prize.

The play will be presented at 8:15 each night in Mitchell Hall. Tickets, free to all undergraduates with the presentation of ID cards, will be available in Mitchell Hall every afternoon and evening beginning Wednesday. General season tickets for the three E-52 productions will be available for $2.25. Season tickets at $2.00 will be available to extension students, to graduate students and their wives and to wives of undergraduates. The $2.00 season ticket will also admit graduate students, their wives and the wives of undergraduates to UDG productions.

The events that follow lead to bloodshed over all the kingdom as Henry, already the husband of Queen Catherine, breaks from the Vatican to set himself as the head of the English church. Wolf Auditorium Sports New Seats Better Acoustics

The renovation on Wolf Hall auditorium which had been planned for several years was finally completed this summer. Now students need not worry about hard seats and hearing and seeing difficulties.

Primary purposes for the renovation were for better acoustics, comfortable seats with tablet arms, and proper lighting. Acoustical plaster was put on the ceiling and on a portion of the back wall. There are 346 body form seats with red mohair upholstery, but only 162 have the tablet arm. The entire lighting in the auditorium was changed to insure proper illumination.

The auditorium is painted green and has green carpets on the aisles. The new stage has dark green linoleum on the floor. Velour curtains will be hung for the front curtain on the stage and at the windows. The lining of these curtains will be flameproof. The auditorium will be able to relieve some of the many activities which are usually scheduled for Mitchell Hall.

Dr. Glenn Skinner, Teacher Research Scientist And Author

A well-known member of the university teaching staff is Dr. Glenn S. Skinner, professor of chemistry. Born in Kansas, Dr. Skinner obtained his Bachelor's Degree at Kansas State Teacher's College. In 1917 he received his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois. He came to the University of Delaware in 1928 and has been here ever since.

Dr. Skinner's field is organic chemistry. In connection with his teaching he does research, placing an emphasis on certain cyclic compounds. Some of these compounds of pharmacological interest are being studied in more detail. Since 1930 Dr. Skinner has used his own organic text which he has revised from time to time. He is also the author or co-author of more than thirty research papers.

While living here in Newark, Dr. Skinner has found time to leave his laboratory, and he is active in such organizations as the Boy Scouts, the Lions Club and the American Legion. When asked what his hobby was, however, the professor replied that his work was his hobby. Through active research and interest in his field, Dr. Skinner has added much to the field of science at our university.

ROTC Department To Remove Ranks To Training House

Football formations are to be replaced by military formations as a result of the innovation of the old Training House, adjacent to Frazer Field, at the University of Delaware. Where once were housed the football stars of the university, will now be the locale for the Reserve Officer's Training Corps.

Dr. John A. Perkins, President of the University of Delaware, last week presented the keys to the ROTC building to Colonel R. W. Hiddleston, professor of military science and tactics at the university.

Formerly located on the third floor of Old College, the military department will now be located in the remodeled Training House. The new quarters contains three excellent classrooms, administrative offices, supply offices, arms rooms, clothing supply stations and a conference room, which will be used by the Scabbard and Blade Honorary Military Society and the Delaware Rifles Drill Team.

In addition to the newly acquired location, the military department still utilizes the gun shed, which houses a classroom and a storage area for military vehicles.

To complete the ROTC requirements at the university, efforts are being made to convert the old military laboratory, a sheet metal and brick structure, into a small bore rifle range.

UD Given $21,000 In 5-Month Period

Over a period of five months a total of 2,028 alumni, faculty, and friends donated $20,865.70 to the Development Fund of the University.

This fund is collected by the Alumni Office, and appropriated to current needs of the university by President Perkins. In return the university provides the running expenses for the Alumni Office.

The classes of 1925 and 1929 led alumni in the amount of money donated with $348 and $344, respectively. Leading alumni donors were the classes of 1921 and 1907 with $621 and $487.

Among other things, this fund has helped pay for the recreation center on the school farm.

McCue, Livingston Serve As New House Directors In South Campus Dorms

This year brings two new house directors to South Campus in the women's dormitories. They are Mrs. Essie McCue, who is in charge of Topsy, Turvey and Boletus; and Mrs. Joan Livingston, house director of New Castle Hall.

Mrs. McCue, a native of Newark, is acquainted with the University of Delaware through her husband, a former dean of agriculture here. She assisted as a house director in one of the now demolished barracks for six weeks last year. She comments that having the job as house director of "one dorm under three roofs" makes her job the most difficult of its kind on campus. She enjoys it, however, and is assisted by two graduate students. Miss Ann Pyle, who was graduated last June from the University of Delaware, is in Boletus, and Miss Jean Peus, from Ursinus, is in Turvey.

Mrs. Livingston, originally from White Plains, New York, has been living in this vicinity for about six years. She has been a house mother in the Nurses' Residence at the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington and the coordinator of the Volunteer Services at the Delaware State Hospital. She has four daughters and enjoys working with young people. Mrs. Livingston commented that she was amazed by the number of tall male students on the campus.

Engineers Drawing Class Opens Extension Section

Professor Frank Zozzora of the University of Delaware's School of Engineering announced today that the extension class in Engineering Drawing which had been closed to additional students on Wednesdays at the Wilmington High School is now open, and that an additional section also will be available on Tuesday evenings.

Interested persons may register at the Wilmington High School office of University Extension, Room 108, 7:00-8:30 p. m., Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, or at the University Registrar's office, Saturday morning, September 25, and next week during regular office hours.

Hocutts Entertain SGA At Buffet, Sept. 27

Anyone interested in organizing a decoration committee for the Harvest Hop please leave notices in care of P. O. Box #51. This is open to anyone in the four classes; all participation towards making this a successful event will be appreciated.

University Soon To Issue All-Important ID Cards

Identification cards will be issued to all students sometime in the near future. On these cards will be found one's picture, physical description, classification and signature.

These I.D. cards must be carried by students at all times. They will serve as meal tickets for entrance to the dining halls and for identification as a U. of D. student for admittance to the football stadium along with the football ticket. They also will permit one to enter all home-game athletic events and many other student activities. When books are taken out of the library these cards must be shown to the librarian. If a student withdraws from the university, this card must be returned to the Business Office. If it is lost, he must pay $2.00 for a new one.

University Band Highlights Reversion In Marching Style

A reversion from the college trend of recent years toward band pageantry will be noted by Blue Hen spectators as the University of Delaware marching band moves on the field for Delaware football games this fall.

J. Robert King, director of the University of Delaware music group, has announced that this year's performance will feature smart military-style precision drill, replacing the musical pageantry of the last several years.

The impossibility of continued originality plus the lower calibre of music necessitated by pageantry are the principal weaknesses in the pageant system pinpointed by Mr. King.

Bands, entering the college football scene approximately twenty-five years ago, first played only in the stands; later the musical groups transpired into marching teams, often forming letters before spectators. This progressed to the present where precedent necessitates an elaborate band show, complete with narrator, theme and popular music.

Waning effectiveness of the pageant—tiring from repetitious formations, an continued usage of light tunes—"Polly Put the Kettle On," "Little Brown Jug" and others—has caused director King to adopt the thesis that "A band is a musical organization first and a marching organization second."

"A return to precision drill and the wonderful marching music of Sousa, Goldman, Fillmore, etc.," states Mr. King, "brings a fine sense of balance between sound and sight."

"All the answers aren't in the book"

W. D. Garland, E.E. '52, Univ. of California, is working for the Pacific Telephone Company. We thought you'd be interested in what Don told us about his first assignment.

(Reading time: 45 seconds)

Here Don Garland makes noise distribution measurements with a Level Distribution Recorder

"My job is to help solve problems of noise and other interference on telephone lines due to power interference. Inductive co-ordination is the technical term for the work."

"First thing the Chief Engineer explained to me was that 'all the answers aren't in the book.' He was right. Most of the problems have required a combination of electrical engineering, a knowledge of costs and generous amount of ingenuity. I like it that way. It's given me an immediate opportunity to put into practice the theory I learned at school."

"In addition to this 'on-the-job' experience, I have attended several special training courses conducted by the company. Now I'm breaking in a new man, just like when I started."

Don Garland's work is typical of many engineering assignments in the Bell Telephone Companies. There are similar opportunities for college graduates with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. If you'd like to get more details, see your Placement Officer. He will be glad to help you.

Women Commuters Club To Participate In Many Campus Functions In '54

The Commuters Club, an organization of women students who commute, operates for fellowship, social purposes and to give support to the school. Its importance lies in the fact that it is the only organization that brings commuters together in a functional group on the campus.

This year the members of the club plan to join into campus affairs more than ever before. A new activity on their agenda will be sports. They plan to enter the girls' sports program.

They will also participate in Women's Playbill. They hope to give a dance and also have tentative plans to hold seasonal parties and possible picnics and covered dish suppers.

The commuters hold their meetings on the first Monday of every month in the Commuters Lounge in the basement of Robinson Hall at noon time.

Officers of this organization are: Margaret Custis, president; Carol Kelly, vice president; Mary Dougherty, secretary; Shirley Fisch, treasurer; and Joanne LaFontaine, representative to Women's Executive Council.

Bohning Announces Enrollment Of 4,032 In University Division

William H. Bohning, registrar of the University of Delaware has revealed enrollment figures for the first semester of the 1954-55 school year. These figures are expected to gain slightly before final tabulations are completed.

4,032 students are now enrolled in three instructional divisions of the university. 1,945 are undergraduates; 1,262 are extension students; and 825 are taking graduate work.

The undergraduate group is composed of 625 freshmen, 532 sophomores, 422 juniors, 330 seniors and 36 special students. The largest single group, 848, is enrolled in the School of Arts and Science, while 483 undergraduates list engineering as their major field of study.

146 of the graduate degree candidates are considered full time students, taking nine or more credit hours per semester. The remaining 679 are enrolled on a part-time basis.

The extension students are registered at instruction centers in Wilmington, Newark, Dover, Seaford, Bainbridge and Aberdeen, with the largest enrollments at Wilmington and Newark, respectively.

A recent prediction by the United States Office of Education for the current academic year lists an expected increase of 89,000 in total college and university enrollments, 3.2 per cent above the 2,444,000 of 1953-54. Delaware's increase from the 1,837 of last year to 1,945 in the current semester represents an increase of 5.5 per cent and is indicative of the rapid expansion which can be expected at the university in the next decade.

What makes a Lucky taste better?

to taste better!

Doubtless, you've guessed that the Doodle at the right is: Careless two-gun cowboy enjoying better-tasting Lucky while waiting in ambush. Lots of other two-gun cowboys—and many millions of no-gun folks—agree that Luckies taste better. Students, for example, prefer Luckies to all other brands, according to the latest, biggest coast-to-coast college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason is that Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike is the cigarette of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

The Senate Acts

Better Late Than Never

Working at present under the disadvantage of an eight-day deadline, we are tempted to restrict ourselves to "safe" editorials, so that events occurring over that long interval may not render our comments on some controversy invalid or ridiculous before they find their way into print. However, we will take a chance on the McCarthy censure proceedings, since the Senate will not consider the censure motion until November 8.

The Watkins committee has recommended that the Senate censure Senator McCarthy on three of the five major categories into which they had divided the numerous charges against him: contempt of the Senate, abuse of Major General Ralph Zwicker and abuse of some of his colleagues in the Senate. The committee did not recommend censure for the remaining two categories, but it was severely critical of the Wisconsin Senator on those counts, too.

Furthermore, the committee pointed out that many of the charges had not been considered because of insufficient time to collect evidence on them. This meant that the committee did not clear McCarthy of any charge, although his reference to Senator Flanders as "senile" was not deemed censurable because of provocation.

The Watkins committee, in effect, made a fourth recommendation of censure by the judicial and dignified manner in which it pursued its investigation. The contrast to what has become known as "McCarthyism" was plain and pointed.

There are many other charges for which the Senator might have been indicted, but those stated, perhaps, bear most directly on the Senate itself. The American public has the task of considering the remaining complaints. It is encouraging, however, that the Senate has finally accepted the responsibility of adjudging at least a part of the controversy surrounding McCarthy. It's too bad they took so long about it.

Taken For Granted

By JACK GRANT

RESOLVED: That the United States should extend recognition to the government of Communist China. This is the current collegiate debating topic which will be the cause for many heated arguments and lengthy discussions throughout most of our colleges and universities. It was the topic discussed at the first meeting of the debating club here at the University of Delaware last Thursday afternoon. The Director of Forensics, Dr. Ray E. Keesey, is preparing for the second season of debating with all of last year's debaters and many new members.

Let's take a look at one side of the question, the negative. In the October 1 issue of U. S. News and World Report, John Leighton Stuart speaks out against the recognition of Red China. Stuart was U. S. Ambassador to China during the period of Chiang Kai-shek's rapid decline and the rise of Communist power. He has this to say about the recognition of Red China: "The United States cannot afford to take any action which would result in the strengthening of the Communist world; and it cannot afford to take any action which would diminish the strength of the free world. Recognition by the U. S. of China's Communist Government would, on the one hand, be very helpful to the Communist world and, on the other hand, be very damaging to the free world. It would remove from the pathway of the Communists the greatest of the obstacles to the consolidation of their position in China. It would lead to liquidation of China's National Government and of Chinese resistance to Communism. It would make for an early transfer of China's representation in the United Nations from the National Government — which speaks and votes on the side of the free world — to the Communist Government, which would speak and vote on the side of the Communist world. Thus subtracting from the voting strength of the free world, and adding to the strength of the Communist bloc, it would greatly augment the Communist influence in the United States and other free nations. It would dishearten and demoralize those of the peoples of Asia who are resisting the Com-come queen and her child made her apparent.

The rest of the story is history, and Anne goes to the chopping block on a trumped-up charge of adultery. The only fault that Henry found in her life was that she bore him no son, and the desire for a male heir was the determining factor of their marriage. Even though she never gave birth to a son, her daughter was later to become the famous Queen Elizabeth.

Critics, who rave about the play on its opening night, have called it "a work to be cherished," a "richly rewarding experience," and "a thoroughly satisfying sample of costume drama." Only praise can be found in the writings of the many New York drama critics who reviewed "Anne."

Letters To The Editor

(All letters to the editor must be signed. Names will be withheld on request, but unsigned letters will not be accepted).

Dear Sir:

I would like to briefly acknowledge here on behalf of the University of Delaware as an alumnus-to-be, the outstanding athletic career of another soon-to-be alumnus who is no longer eligible for college competition. During his senior year ('53-'54) he captained two sports in one of which he had been the unquestionably best performer since his matriculation and could have assumed its leadership in his freshman year, were it not for the custom of seniors getting captaincies. At no time, I believe, has he been accorded his due recognition as one of the finer athletes in Delaware's history as, rightfully so, was one of his fraternity brothers, William Reybold. I am talking of course, about Frank White. While here, Frank may have had his equals or betters in basketball (although not in his last year) but he was, probably far and away, the best tennis player the university ever had, and in fact, despite the hesitance of some old-timers in this state to accord him it, I believe Frank unequivocally holds the honor of the finest tennis player the state has produced, and that if his game is lacking for big-time tennis it is devotion and not form, practice and not championship caliber that is lacking. I understand that Frank intends to play only tennis this winter and drop serious interest in basketball. If so and if he can find decent competition to help him sharpen his game, I believe, even at this late date, that Frank can attain national importance in tennis. Frank has a great deal of humility and reticence, and I suppose he lacks confidence against the better amateurs, but ignorant as I am about big-time tennis caliber, I think I can recognize at least rudiments of 'big game' in Frank's style. As an index of the quality of one's tennis for national ranking in the first 100, one must realize that membership alone in a major league ball club is considered relative excellence, although there are 400 or so major league players. On the other hand, while many more adults play tennis than baseball, there are only a handful of berths, so high national ranking requires a dedication and excellence of no mean degree. From an admirer of his championship qualities, luck to Mr. White and more power to him.

FRATERNALLY SPEAKING

Sigma Nu

The school year is now in full swing and studies are piling up. The brothers of Sigma Nu are hitting the books with their eye on retaining top honors in scholarship among the nine social fraternities.

A bouquet of adhesive tape and liniment to Delaware's football team for the way they romped over West Chester. Keep it up, gang, we're all behind you.

The brothers and their dates gathered at the house for the coffee hour which follows each home football game. Many alumni were present including Bob Waples, Vern Lemex, Don Willenborg, Hugh Martin, Bill Nickol, Jim Schafbel, George Ester, Bryan Field, Frank Baylis, Jack Runkle, Kenny Edwards, Bob Green, and Carl Wolf. Many of these alumni will soon enter the Armed Forces as Second Lieutenants.

A bouquet of white roses to Tom Duff who is responsible for the football decorations seen each weekend on the front of the house.

Rumor has it that some of the brothers have been visiting "a small town in France" during the past weekends. How about that, Bud Kimmel, Ron Haines, Bill Lotter and "Six-Button" Ben McLaughlin?

Pi Kappa Alpha

As the dust settled at 247 W. Main Street on the 20th, there were many glad hellos. A moment's silence for those departed from the ranks.

Pledge Obi Goff and Brothers Vince Landi, Butch Thompson and Chuck Wilson have just returned from the Pi Kappa Alpha National Convention at Memphis, Tennessee. They propped their bleary eyes open and praised the fact that Obi's oil burner made it.

Field secretary Dave Collins, from Presbyterian College in South Carolina, visited us this week.

Congratulations to the football team on their slaughter of the West Chester Rams. Brother Tom Redfield looked very good on that touchdown pass. Brother Steve Butcher gave the Teachers some bruises to take back to West Chester.

Brother Windy Graham is to marry Miss Audrey Wilson on October 20th. Best of luck to Brother Don MacFadden on his marriage to Miss Myrtle Cron.

Kappa Alpha

K.A. officially opened its social season last weekend with a house party Saturday night and an open house for the freshmen and transfer girls Sunday afternoon. Among the apple-cider drinkers who danced all evening to Bill Lebergern's music were Bill Keene and Jean Hayes, Dick Saunders and Sue Murray, Ray De Vries and Tish Cathell, Ed Braniecki and Lynne Wilkens, Don Goodridge and Nancy Alvarado and Bill Wood and Joan Parker.

Under Coach "Ma" Metz the football team is ready for another season and have hopes of winning that one important game. Holdovers from last year include "Clete" Andrews, "Bevo" Bueche, "Minnie" Hughes, Bob Oggenfuss, Denny McManus, Dave George and Jack Simpson. New prospects out this term are George Bachelor, Walt Garber, John Popiano, Steve Voorhees, Bill McKay, Chuck Willis, Jack Presnell and John Pizer.

Renovations are still underway in the Kastle. Electrician John Farley put up a new T.V. antenna in time for the World Series. He also installed a loud speaker system in the basement. Competition is arising among the brothers as to who will have the best looking room.

We want to congratulate the following brothers who were pinned over the summer: Bill Hamaker to Nancy Angulo, Fred Freibott to Pat Lyons, Dave George to Emma Lou Grey and Jerry Buckson to Ruth Draper. Also best wishes to Paul Lloyd who is now engaged to Joan Davis.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

After the last remnants of this past summer's alterations were swept away, the Sig Eps got down to the more serious business of planning parties. Having had a very successful open house for freshmen women, the men of the Big Red were ready for a repeat performance. After much debate, however, they settled for a Saturday night house party. On hand to provide music will be Clyde Bessick and his boys. If his last appearance is any indication, further reinforcements will be needed for the Panther Room ceiling.

As the men slowly settle for the more serious activities of the semester, a studious calm gently alights in the Sig Ep house. It is rudely shattered by the call for football practice. The men of the Big Red are on the move. Beware, all.

We wish to extend congratulations to our new pledge Jack Sloan of Mosher Hall.

Alpha Tau Omega

In spite of the still summer-like weather, most of the Alpha Taus have settled again to some hard studying.

Over the summer several of our brothers became pinned. Brothers Stew Holveck pinned Miss Anne Gast, Brother Ellis pinned June Andres and Brother Pugh pinned Miss Pat Collins. Also our best wishes to those who progressed further; Brother Camp was married to the former Miss Betty Brown, Brother Dyke Pollitt was married to Miss Marcena O'Brien and Brother Huggard exchanged marriage vows with Miss Pat Hudock. And still further, Brother Phillips is the proud father of a baby boy. Brother "Sandy" Woodruff also "progressed."

Last Friday Epsilon Rho held its annual open house for the freshmen women. It is hoped that the girls enjoyed being here as much as we did having them. Hat's off to the most charming freshmen women ever. Saturday we held our first house party of the school year, with many of our alumni putting in appearances.

Along with the brothers in the house who are still swapping ROTC summer camp stories, we find another group swapping stories about the Gypsy Room. They are the seven brothers who attended the ATO Congress held in Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 1-4.

Last weekend a safari set out for the Lehigh game to cheer on the Delaware eleven. The hosts at our Lehigh chapter really showed us a great time.

munist advance, and, causing them and others to doubt the reliability of United States support, it would diminish the capacity and weaken the will of many nations to persevere in that resistance."

Well, there's one side of the question at a glance. Naturally, there is another school of thought which will not accept any of the above arguments, and believe me there are many, many strong arguments on the other side of the fence.

What do you think? Do you favor extending recognition to Red China? One way or the other, every university student should try to develop an opinion on this timely question. We think that one of the best ways to do this would be to look into the debating club.

1927 — pioneer airliner, Boeing 40A, 144 m.p.h.

1954 — America's first jet transport, the Boeing Stratoliner, 550 m.p.h.

Two trail-blazing transports... both Boeings

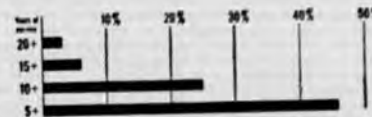

America's pioneer transcontinental airline passenger plane, the 40A of 1927, was a Boeing. Today, America's first jet transport is another Boeing, the 707. This quarter-century of commercial design leadership is paralleled by military design leadership ranging from the old B-9 bomber to the fighter-fast Boeing B-47 and B-52 jet bombers of today.

For 38 years Boeing engineers have blazed exciting new trails in design, research and production. They're blazing them today in jet aircraft, guided missiles, and research in supersonic flight and the application of nuclear power to aircraft.

If such new-horizon engineering appeals to you, Boeing offers a rewarding career, whether you are in civil, mechanical, electrical or aeronautical engineering, or a related field. Boeing is expanding steadily, and employs more engineers today than even at the peak of World War II. Boeing also promotes from within, and holds regular merit reviews to give you individual recognition.

At Boeing you'll find an unusual range of opportunity, from applied research to production design, from work with new materials and techniques to contacts with a cross-section of industry through the company's vast subcontracting program. Boeing employs draftsmen and engineering aides to handle much routine work, thus freeing engineers for more stimulating assignments.

Boeing engineers enjoy stable careers —46% having been with Boeing for 5 years or more; 25% for 10, and 6% for 15. Many engineers have been here 25 years, and 7 have been with Boeing for 30.

Boeing helps engineers continue their graduate studies, and reimburses them for tuition expenses.

Soccer Candidates Report For Drill; Eight Men Return

Twenty soccer candidates, one of the University of Delaware's smallest soccer squads in several years, have reported for fall practice, announced soccer coach Whitey Burnham today. Eight returning lettermen were included in the group.

Coach Burnham, admitting that he was faced with a potential player shortage, stated that this season's small team contained a number of high quality players and that the limited size, allowing greater concentration on the individual, will facilitate training sessions.

The usual fall soccer turnout numbers 30 to 40 men, tapering down to approximately 20 by the close of the season. The reduced number of the 1954 team will require that a higher percentage of the team be maintained and that freshman candidates be utilized in inter-squad scrimmages.

The disappearance of inter-scholastic soccer from the Delaware sports scene is the primary reason given by Coach Burnham for the limited participation in the sport at the state university. Delaware high school soccer was likened by the U. of D. instructor to a vacuum, since varsity competition among local high schools has disappeared, while active soccer programs are in force in bordering states. The absence of pre-college soccer experience among Delawareans makes it difficult to stimulate interest in soccer and field a polished, well-trained team.

Dean Steele, Ken Whittington, Dan Walton, Bill Regester, Thomas Brown and Nick Paxson, as well as co-captains John McLaughlin and Willard Thompson, are the returning soccer lettermen.

McLaughlin received recognition last season as honorable mention All America, 1st team Middle Atlantic, and honorable mention All Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, while Thompson also received honorable mention All-Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware. Paxson, a returning veteran, was named All-Middle Atlantic in 1951.

UD Modern Dance Club Holds Freshman Tryouts

The Modern Dance Club is planning to begin its fall activities early this year. Tryouts for all freshmen were held in the Womens' Gym on October 4. Additional tryouts will be held on October 11 for all others interested.

Louise Ferdon, president of the club, invites all girls, freshmen included, to tryout at this time. Upperclasswomen who received special invitations should come to the second tryout next Monday.

This year's schedule of events will include performances at the annual Spring Concert, University of Penn Cultural Olympics Program and demonstrations at various schools throughout the state.

NCAA Rule Changes Will Not Hinder Blue Hens This Season Says Nelson

University of Delaware head football coach David M. Nelson stated that the 1954 Blue Hen team would have no difficulty in following the NCAA rule changes for the current football season. Rule alterations, minor for the most part, place added emphasis on existing rules, especially those prohibiting the feigning of injuries and false starts.

One innovation from which Nelson expects no penalties is ruling 53 which, while awarding a touchdown to the team whose ball-carrier has been tackled by a substitute from the bench, now disqualifies the offender from further participation in the game. A second revision of the NCAA rules more clearly defines legal and illegal kicks.

Blue Hen Of The Week

As this paper goes to press, Jimmy Flynn is so far the team's leading ground gainer in rushing, with 119 yards gained in the West Chester game. At present he is also the leading scorer. He scored the first touchdown against the Rams and kicked the three extra points. Flynn outdistanced the Rams when he ran 95 yards for another touchdown, but unfortunately he was called back because of a Delaware penalty.

Flynn, a senior halfback, is one of Delaware's extraordinary athletes. He is only 5'6" tall and is the shortest man on the team, but he has speed. As one of his fans put it, "he is like a streak of lightning." He has earned at Delaware three letters in football and three in track. Previously he played football for three years at Central Catholic High in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He has played right halfback all his life.

Flynn, a physical education major with plans for being a coach after graduation, is president of Scabbard and Blade, a member of the Newman Club, head of the Campus Chest Drive and is a Sigma Nu man. Even when playing football last fall, he made the Dean's List. When he is not playing football or studying, he finds great enjoyment in playing tennis and golf.

Last year, Flynn was the team's second leading ground gainer in rushing with 350 yards in 58 attempts, for a 5.8 average per try. Also, he was the third leading scorer. Flynn was one of the "Unsung Heroes" for he scored two of the three touchdowns in the victory over Gettysburg.

Flynn's teammates think "he is a great guy with a wonderful sense of humor. He is energetic, and yet he never seems to get tired."

Watch Jimmy Flynn in action on the gridiron this season. He will surely help the team to a successful year.

JIM FLYNN, Delaware halfback and this week's Blue Hen of the Week.

Here we go again. Trying to bring you all the news of W. A. A. activities. A new year and new things to do.

Maybe some of the freshmen are wondering just what W. A. A. means, what the activities are, and last but not least, who are members. We remember asking the very same questions when we were freshmen. First, W. A. A. means Women's Athletic Association. The officers of W. A. A. and the faculty of the Women's P. E. department have set up tournaments in the sports and games that you would like most to play. Some of these activities are hockey, tennis, volleyball, ping-pong, bowling, swimming, basketball and softball. There's something for everyone. Who are members? Why that's very simple. Every woman student at this school is a member. It's your W. A. A. As the old saying goes, it's of the people, by the people and for the people.

The first activities of the season are hockey and tennis. This year Eileen Dalton is hockey manager and Marty Baldwin is tennis manager. Both of these activities are getting under way, so if you want to play watch for notices in the gym or contact Eileen and Marty. The hockey tournament this year is going to be new and different. In previous years it has been based on class teams. Eileen is trying out a color team system. It sounds like the greatest!

The faculty of the department has asked us to report the recreational swimming hours to you. They are daily from 4 to 5 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. At these

The Delaware football team will attempt to stretch their unbeaten string to eight games this Saturday as they tackle the Temple Owls at Delaware Stadium after defeating Middle Six Conference rival Lehigh last Saturday 21-0 on the latter's home field.

The Blue Hens have now beaten Lehigh four times in a row, this being the biggest margin that they have ever accomplished over their Bethlehem, Pa., rivals in the past four seasons. Delaware started their scoring attack in the first quarter. Andy Wagner carried the ball for a first down to the Lehigh 34-yard line. On the next play, Don Miller, Prospect Park's gift to Delaware, threw a 24-yard pass to Tom Redfield for the first touchdown of the game. Jimmy Flynn converted and Delaware led 7-0.

In the second quarter Lehigh was forced to kick from their 28-yard line, with six minutes remaining in the second quarter. Don Miller returned the Lehigh punt for 74 yards and a Delaware touchdown. Jimmy Flynn again converted to put Delaware on the winning end of a 14-0 score. This climaxed the scoring in the first half. Both teams failed to score in the third quarter.

In the opening minutes of the final quarter Delaware scored its third touchdown. Don Miller scored from the Lehigh five-yard line to give the Blue Hens a 21-0 margin.

Lehigh was unable to stop the Delaware ground attacks. Delaware threatened to score in the final minutes of the game, but an intercepted pass behind the goal line stopped the threat.

Lehigh found themselves on the short end of 21-0 score as the final quarter ended. Two sophomores, Bob Moneymaker and Bill Michaels, played excellent ball and should see plenty of action this Saturday against Temple, but the outstanding player of the day for the Hens was Don Miller.

So far the Blue Hens haven't had any serious injuries to hamper the winning combination. The Delaware Blue Hens are looking forward to making this Saturday's game with Temple their third consecutive victory of the 1954 season. This meeting will be the first time Delaware has played Temple since 1950.

The man to watch this Saturday is Tex Robinson, the Temple flash. With other veterans returning this game should prove the strength of the 1954 Blue Hens.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

By DAVE TOMPKINS

An editorial in the current issue of Sport Magazine deals with the controversial subject of whether to emphasize or de-emphasize college football. The article, entitled "Salute to the Little Fellows," discusses the problem which the small colleges face when they try to compete with the big powers of the nation.

The magazine contends that small colleges can make football pay and have a good time playing the game, provided they de-emphasize the importance of the sport. The editors' philosophy can be summarized by the following two paragraphs taken from the article:

"Small colleges—and there are hundreds of them—provide as many thrills to as many fans as do the relatively few big-time teams that dominate the national scene. And these little fellows are just as important to football as the top-ranking conference leaders or the choices for the major bowl games on New Year's Day.

"Probably they are more important, because they come a lot closer to reflecting the spirit in which the game was originated in this country. Football was once designed to be played by students simply for the exercise and fun they got out of it, remember?"

The editorial continues by pointing out that many colleges have evidently forgotten this fact. For instance, Washington and Lee, a college that has been playing football since 1890, has dropped the sport this season because it can no longer bear the cost of fielding a subsidized team to compete with the big powers in the area. Other colleges that have followed this "no pay, no play" attitude within the last three years are Georgetown, Santa Clara, U. of San Francisco and St. Mary's, to mention only a few.

Some colleges, however, have successfully decommercialized football and have "turned the game back to the students." A perfect example of this is the University of Nevada. Formerly a big western power, Nevada last year returned to the sport, after a year's lay-off, playing on a very modest scale. According to Sport Magazine, Nevada has had a lot of fun playing to crowds averaging 4,000. The enrollment at Nevada is only 1,200.

Delaware, in recent years is growing in enrollment and has climbed in football ratings, with prospects of more advances to come. I certainly hope that the semi-big-time football which Delaware now enjoys, is here to stay and that Delaware will never be faced with the problem that has faced other small colleges. What ever happens, I agree with the editors of Sport Magazine who believe that "playing the game on a modest, amateur scale is much better than not playing the game at all."

New Intramural Season Begins; Flashback To '53 Competitions

With the approach of this year's intramural program, let's look back at last year's final standings of both individuals and teams. Joe Wortz (KA) won the individual point championship with 145 points. Pete Brosius (SN) with 141 placed second and Ray Hoopes (SPE) placed third with a total of 129.

Intramural team competition was at best last year. In football, Kappa Alpha's exceptionally strong team won ten and dropped only one to win. Top honors in swimming went to Theta Chi's team. Volleyball was captured by Kappa Alpha with a perfect score of 9.0. The sluggers from ATO battled through the softball season with a final tally of 12 wins against no losses. The runners of Sigma Phi Epsilon pulled far out in front to win the track competition. Tennis honors went to Kappa Alpha.

In the intramural individual sport competition, Bill Collings of Kappa Alpha won finals of the badminton games. Sigma Nu's Fred Brown won top rating in the cross country run. Handball and table tennis were won by Dave Lechrone (KA) and Don Lewis (SN) respectively.

Brad Barnes and John Eagle tied in foul shooting, both dropping 30 out of 35 in the basket.

Boxing and wrestling were the crowd drawers last year. The following were the results:

Stadium Traffic Problem To Improve Says Sieman

A thorough analysis of the traffic situation surrounding Delaware Stadium by assistant director of athletics Robert F. Sieman should lend encouragement to University of Delaware football fans.

Members of the university athletic department and members of the Newark and State police, meeting with William Miller, director of the traffic control division of the state highway department, have instituted changes which will greatly facilitate the flow of traffic to and from home games of the Delaware Blue Hens.

Spacious parking areas in front of the Delaware Stadium will be opened to football fans this year for the first time. The number of entrances to the parking area has been limited since traffic is considerably more rapid when uninhibited by an influx of automobiles from side lanes.

Current plans also include the placement of policemen in Newark at the intersection of W. Park Place and S. College Avenue, Main Street and S. College Avenue, Main Street and Chapel Street, and at the Glasgow road and the Ogle-town-Brookside Road. The latter thoroughfare, closed to traffic last fall, should accommodate many of the Delaware fans.

Assistant director Sieman advises followers of Blue Hens contests to avoid traveling through the city of Newark whenever possible. The Chestnut Hill extension, passing through Brookside, offers a more direct route, he added.

Holders of season tickets to Delaware home football games will have access to a parking area near the stadium's entrance.

The room where the experiments

The purpose of this is to keep sound in the room, rather than keep it out, since the testing concerns situations when
