NEWARK TRUST CO. OPENS NEW BANKING HOUSE

Public Pleased with Fireproof Structure—Local Contractor Receives Congratulations

It is seldom that the official opening of a business institution takes the form of a social event. Yet just this is what occurred in Newark last Friday evening when the Newark Trust and Safe Deposit Company threw open the doors of the new Banking House for public inspection. The whole spirit of the occasion was one of good cheer. Compliments were the dominating theme of the hour. The Directors were proud in the presentation of such a building to the community's assets. The visitors in their pride, expressed surprise and were loud in their praise and their appreciation was genuine.

Although there was a continuous downpour of rain, several hundred people accepted the invitation to inspect the building before the opening on Monday morning of this week.

The Directors and officers, assisted by their wives, acted as reception committee. Everybody was welcomed, given a guide who showed the vaults and striking features of the structure, after which the guest was escorted to the basement where the ladies served a most delightful luncheon.

The main floor on the opening night was particularly pleasing. Brilliant lights were effectively softened showing effectively the finishing of marble and mahogany. The simple decorations of flags and palms presented a scene that reminded one of Chestnut street rather than a country town.

Printed Welcome cards, expressing pertinent facts concerning the growth of the Bank were effectively displayed. At the entrance two suggestive signs appeared reading: "Our friends bring us business," and "Business brings us friends."

Souvenirs and Cards on Facts in Security were given the guests, telling of the vaults and their construction.

The building is of especial interest since it is the only absolutely fireproof building in rural New Castle county, and was built by a Newark man, L. B. Jacobs. The structure is of concrete and steel, the only combustible material in any part being the mahogany used in the interior cabinet work. The basement walls are of waterproofed concrete, with the walls of the first story thoroughly reinforced with steel. The basement floor has a granolithic finish on a concrete base; the main floor a terrazzo finish on reinforced floor slates and beams. The roof is of reinforced concrete eight inches thick, covered with a Barrett Specification Slag roof. The cornice, pilaster caps and bases, window sills, lintels and door trim are of white glazed terra cotta. The window frames and sashes, door frames and doors are of steel finished to represent mahogany on the inside of the building and old bronze on the outside. All the glass in the windows and doors is extra thick plate glass, while on the side of the building that might possibly be exposed to fire, the glass is re-inforced with steel wire.

The inside of the building is wainscoted with Vermont marble from Senator Proctor's large quarries at Proctor, Vermont.

The desks and cabinet work above, comprising the only wood in the building, are made of Honduras mahogany.

The building is equipped with three vaults: A fire and burglar proof main vault, a fireproof book vault on the main floor, and a large fireproof storage vault in the basement. The walls, floors and ceiling of all the vaults are built of concrete fourteen inches thick with 3-4 inch steel rods spaced two inches apart in all directions. The burglar proof vault is lined with two inch thick drill-proof steel and has drill-proof chrome steel doors, eight inches thick. In this vault are the steel safe-deposit boxes.

There was used in the construction of the building 250 tons of crushed stone; 150 tons of sand; 350 barrels of Nazareth Portland cement; 23,000 pounds of steel reinforcement.

It is indeed no exaggeration to say that this new Banking House stands in every way both from point of service and point of beauty, the equal of any in the state. And that Newark appreciates this fact is shown by the generous praise of all who were present on Friday night.

Farmers' Trust Elects Real Estate Officer

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Farmers' Trust Company, Joseph Hossinger (a Director) was named as Real Estate officer. Mr. Hossinger will be in full charge of this department.

This is one of the new features gained in the recent re-incorporation changing from a National Bank to a Trust Company.

Transfers of real estate and attending business will be given the same attention as any of the other departments of the bank.

WEDDING

Miss Shirley E. Shellender of Newark, and Harry L. Stewart of Philadelphia, will be quietly married this evening at the parsonage, Union M. E. Church, Wilmington, by the Rev. W. F. Corkran. The bride and groom will be accompanied by Miss Elsie Davis of Newark and Mr. Charlie Riley of Philadelphia. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will leave for a wedding trip, including Boston and vicinity. Upon their return they will go to their own home in Frankford, Pa.

Souvenirs Taken By Local Man

Several curios from the Grecian-Turkish frontier, brought to this country by Theodor Panaretos of Elton, who was in the Greek navy are on display in the window of the Newark Post. Mr. Panaretos has loaned the collection, which includes also many interesting photographs, for only a few days. All interested are welcome to examine same.

High School Alumni Ready For Work

The officers of the Newark High School Alumni Association met on Tuesday afternoon and appointed three members, who with the five mentioned will constitute an Advisory Board for the new organization.

The Board is as follows: Warren A. Singles, R. F. Friedel, Misses Agnes Medill, Elsie Wright, Etta Wilson, Bessie Whittingham, Dora Law and Mrs. H. N. Reed.

A special meeting of the entire Alumni Association will be called by the President for Monday, November tenth, at the High School.

The Secretary will mail, within a few days circular letters and copies of the Bylaws, to all those eligible to membership.

Team Returns From Chicago

The Delaware boys who attended the Stock Judging contest at the National Dairy Show, Chicago, last week, returned on Tuesday. The boys in the final score, came in for eleventh place, in a race with sixteen colleges, the majority of which are very much larger than Delaware. In judging the one breed of Guernsey cattle, the local boys won second place.

NEWARK CANNERY CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Yield Much Larger Than Last Year—Young Richards Produces Record Crop

Seventy-one farmers with 245 acres have produced 950 tons of tomatoes this season for the Newark Cannery. In return, they have received $8550. The Newark Cannery, owned and operated by Harry Gilbert, closed the season's pack last week with from 19,000 to 20,000 cases or 480,000 cans. This is between 8000 and 9000 more cases than was put up last season.

The above represents the figures given by Mr. Frank Williams, resident manager, to a representative of The Post on Monday of this week.

While this pack of the local cannery does not reach the proportions of some of the sections in the lower counties, it is generally agreed that the quality is of the best. The soil in this section is peculiarly adapted to the growing of this crop. We can produce a farmer fruit than the sandy soils of the lower part of the state, thus making the finished product of superior quality. Mr. Gilbert is very particular in the selection of his seed, using only the best canning varieties and those best suited to conditions here. Greater Baltimore and B. B. varieties have given excellent satisfaction and the result for the development of this crop here is most encouraging.

Mr. Williams strongly urges the planting of seed in hot beds and cold frames, in order to get a sturdy growth early in the season. This with some investigations regarding fertilizers, preparation of soil and tillage, it is believed will increase the general average all to the farmer's advantage and profit.

It is interesting to note that the cannery here is modern in every respect and the canning here being for a select trade. Both the State Inspector and the United States Pure Food Commission gave the local factory a clean Bill of Health. Part of the pack has already been shipped to fill early orders. The remainder is being held for the call of the market.

The yield of 4 1-2 tons per acre is below the money making standard according to investigations concerning costs in producing a crop. The farmer's have some things yet to learn when it is found that

Bring The Prize To Delaware

The State Board of Agriculture thinks that Delaware should have the $50 prize offered by New York Fruit Growers for the three best boxes of apples exhibited at the meeting in Rochester on January 7-9, and will pay $25 of the expenses of any Delaware man who will make a try for this prize.

PUBLIC MEETING AT HIGH SCHOOL THIS EVENING

Newark's Opportunity For Chautauqua—Representatives To Explain Generous Proposition

Representatives of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association spent yesterday and today in town, talking with public-spirited citizens relative to the feasibility of including Newark in a list of twenty-two towns, where Lyceum Festivals will be held for three successive days, sometime between the dates of November seventeenth and December thirteenth.

The Chautauqua movement had received little attention in the eastern states, until about two years ago, when Prof. Paul M. Pearson of Swarthmore, who had been so often called into service in the western Chautauqua field, conceived the idea of bringing the benefits of this great educational organization to his home people.

Through his efforts others prominent in philanthropy were interested, and a corporation to further the idea was formed. The stockholders who subscribed funds for the venture were public-spirited men, whose plan included no idea of personal gain. The returns for the first few years are to be invested in strengthening this movement toward the establishment of an American forum where our national problems may be threshed out before the American public. The stockholders have further agreed at no time will profits exceeding four per cent be accepted. Any surplus will be used for the continuance and betterment of the original plan.

For two years summer Chautauquas, lasting one week, have been conducted in towns within a radius of one hundred miles from head quarters. The programs have been given in one hundred two towns, in

MANY HEAR NEW ORGAN AT RECITAL

Workers Receive Many Congratulations

The band of workers of the M. E. Church, Newark, who had been striving so ardently for the last three months, were repaid for their efforts on Saturday evening, when the rich, full tones of their new organ rang out through the church. In spite of unfavorable weather, an appreciative audience assembled to enjoy the musical program rendered by Will M. S. Brown, the builder of Wilmington, assisted by Miss E. Robb, soloist, of the same city.

The new organ has been built in the front of the church in the rear of the pulpit. The plain case of quartered oak is enriched by the gold finish of the pipes, which blend with the tones of the wood, into a beautiful and harmonious effect.

The program prepared by Mr. Brown included numbers which displayed the range and varied tones of the new instrument, and called forth pleased expressions from every side. Miss Robb's selections, sung in a rich contralto, were thoroughly appreciated. The program follows.

BURNED TO DEATH

Friends In Newark Hear Sad News

News was received here today from Coatesville, Pa., to the effect that Maggie Curley, about 12 years old and formerly of Newark was burned to death several days ago. She was carrying a lighted oil lamp and fell down stairs and was so badly burned that she died within a few hours. Her father, Clement Curley, worked in the American Fibre Company plant and lived at Deardale but moved to Coatesville several months ago. His wife died in Newark about a year ago, leaving four children of which Maggie was the eldest.

Herman Sypherd, Delaware College, Class '95, now a prominent attorney-at-law in Atlantic City, was the guest of his brother, Dr. W. O. Sypherd on Tuesday.

VARIOUS ACTIVITIES OF CLUB WOMEN

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS AT SMYRNA

The first executive board meeting of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs was held Thursday at Smyrna when practically all the clubs in the state were represented. The business sessions were held at the Twentieth Century Club, and at noon the delegates were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Samuel L. Reynolds, the new president.

They were welcomed at the station by Mrs. Harry Tschudy and Miss Agnes Carrow and taken to the club house in automobiles. The president made a very gracious welcome. An invitation from the various State Equal Suffrage Associations to send a fraternal delegate to their state conventions on November 6 was not accepted, because it is not customary to send delegates to other women's organizations and because as all club women are not in sympathy with women's suffrage, the executive board could not take the initiative.

A request was received from Pennsylvania and New Jersey to join with them in an invitation to entertain the General Federation at Atlantic City in 1916. Decision was reserved until more definite information would be forthcoming. The president was directed to appoint at her leisure five delegates to the National Conservation Congress which meets in Washington, November 18, 1920, an invitation having been received from that body. The treasurer, Mrs. Madison Willen reported about $108, and various committees were allowed appropriations.

The chairman of the reciprocity committee, Miss Mary Hutchin, spoke of the needs all over the state for better schools for negro people. In the matter of housing, many of the negro schools are very badly off. The general subject of better housing for negro people needs attention, as some of the negroes live in hovels where animals would hardly be stabled. Mrs. Harry Hayward, for the educational committee, and Mrs. O. V. Wootten, both spoke of the necessity for more manual training in all the Delaware schools. Milford, Dover and Wilmington all reported manual training in their schools. The arts and crafts as well as the educational committee pledged itself to this work.

Mrs. A. D. Warner brought plans of the affiliated college and spoke upon them. This naturally created great interest. Miss Mary Malone, state factory inspector for the ten-hour law for women, was introduced by Miss Mary Hutchin. She spoke briefly on the provisions of the new ten-hour law for women, urging co-operation of all the club women of the state. The library committee reported that much is being done by the state library commission and conditions are promising. The social service committee reported that Delaware City will have the next better babies contest early in November and that other clubs are writing for information.

The better baby show of the Delaware state fair was reported to have been great success and to have brought forward a number of beautiful children to the credit of Delaware. The chairman urged that in the towns having contests not only the finest children but those babies below average should be brought to the contest that they might be helped to come up to the average.

The federation appointed a committee to deal with the incident at the state fair for which Miss Bissell was dismissed from the grounds for having closed the midway attraction of the oriental dancers. The chairman of the health committee, Mrs. Frank R. Jones was not present and no report was made. The guests were conveyed to the station in automobiles.

Those attending the meeting in addition to the president were: second vice-president Mrs. A. T. Neale, Newark, third vice-president Mrs. J. Lynn Pratt, Milford; Recording Secretary Mrs. Charles A. Hastings, Laurel; federation secretary Mrs. John G. Robinson, Wilmington; treasurer, Mrs. Madison Willen, Seaford; auditor, Mrs. Cecil C. Fulton, Dover; corresponding secretary, Miss Anna Hough; directors: Miss Louise Trout, Bridgeville; Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, Felton; Mrs. Howard Stewart, Georgetown; Mrs. Elizabeth Reifsnyder, Harrington; Mrs. George Waples, Milton; Mrs. Martin Lane, Wilmington; Miss Eliza C. Greene, Middletown; Committee Chairman Conversation, Mrs. J. R. Lindale, Wyoming; Education, Mrs. Harry Hayward, Newark; Household Economics, Mrs. Harry Tschudy, Smyrna; Reciprocity, Mrs. Mary Hutchin, Middletown; Legislation Mrs. Beniah Watson, Dover; Library, Mrs. Georg W. Marshall, Milford; Social Service, Miss Emily P. Bissell, Wilmington.

Penn Club Plan Reception Of Governor

A reception will be tendered the Governor of Delaware, Hon. Chas. R. Miller, on November 8 by the Penn Club of Philadelphia, in the membership of which many of the oldest Delaware families are represented.

Governor Miller will be accompanied by his staff and Edward Randolph Wood, president of the Penn Club, has suggested that it would be agreeable to have these officers come in full uniform.

The three counties of Delaware, New Castle, Kent and Sussex, were originally part of the Province of Pennsylvania and it is expected that the reception of Governor Miller will serve to bring together many kinsmen whose ancestry dates back to the Colonies and beyond.

A notable company always attends the receptions of the Penn Club which has entertained many of the most distinguished men in all walks of American life.

Bake For Benefit Of Church

Mrs. John McCauley and her primary class of girls of Flint Hill M. E. Sunday School will hold a bake at the residence of J. Leonard Lewis, Stricker'sville, Pa. Saturday evening, November 1st. Bread rolls, cake, pies, home made candy, ice cream, oysters served in two styles, for sale. Proceeds for benefit of repair fund. Come and help a good cause.

Sunday Magazine With Philadelphia Record

Beginning with its issue of Sunday, November 2nd, and continuing regularly thereafter, The Philadelphia Record will publish a splendid weekly magazine in connection with its Sunday paper. The magazine will consist of twenty pages. It will have a handsome colored cover and will contain short and continued stories by the best modern writers. This magazine will be high-class and dignified and entirely consistent with the character of the Sunday Record and it should appeal to all lovers of good reading matter. Among its contributors will be: Richard Harding Davis, Gouverneur Morris, Mary Roberts Rhinehart, James Oliver Cinwood, Ellis Parker Butler, Rex Beach, Elihu Glynn, George Patalla, Gelett Burgess, Wallace Irwin, and many others. It will be illustrated by the world's best artists—Jas. Montgomery Flagg, Henry Holt, C. Coles Phillips, Howard Chandler Christy, Penrhyn Stanlaws, Hamilton King and others equally famous.

Even with such a splendid addition to this already excellent newspaper, the price of the Sunday Record will remain the same, three cents.

Democrats Hold Meeting

The Democrats of White Clay Creek Hundred, at a meeting held at the Deer Park Hotel last Thursday, re-elected John Pearce Cann a member of the Democratic County Committee. The matter of selecting the hundred committee was discussed, but it was decided to postpone action until this evening when a second meeting will be held. It is likely the hundred committee will be composed of five members from each of the three districts.

Wilmington's New Theatre

Following closely upon the acquisition of a modern, first-class hotel, Wilmington again rejoices over the completion of one of the most up-to-date theatres in the country. The new Playhouse, located in the DuPont Building, Tenth and Market streets, possesses many striking features which place it apart from the theatre in the average American city.

The plans were drawn by Chas. A. Rich, the eminent New York theatre architect, but their execution lay entirely in the hands of J. A. Bader and Co. of Wilmington.

The interior decorations by William Eckhardt of New York and Chicago, are unusually beautiful. But perhaps the most striking thing in the general appearance is the fact that the first floor is not marred by supports for the balcony. To insure the absolute safety of the balcony, it was tested by the builders by being loaded with 120,000 pounds of cement, equal to the weight of twice as many people as can be put into it.

Another interesting feature in the construction of the building is the big girder, the largest concrete girder in a theatre anywhere and the third largest in the world. It weighed 120 tons and the concrete was poured in at the rate of over 12,000 pounds an hour.

Mr. Bader, the builder, is receiving congratulations from all sides upon his success in carrying out the plans of the architect and in completing the work in less than contract time, in spite of unforeseen difficulties. The building proves that the local company is as well prepared as the largest metropolitan builders to handle promptly such a big undertaking.

New Real Estate Assessment

Wilmington's new real estate assessment will cost probably $40,000 but is expected to increase revenue largely and permit a big cut in the tax rate. A staff of experts with forty field men will perform the work of listing and valuing properties and Charles C. Kurtz, E. P. Moody and W. H. Gibbons, prominent real estate brokers, will supervise appraisements. Work was to start on Monday and will require several weeks for completion.

"It Pays To Read"

One of the most potent educational factors in the city of Wilmington is the Institute Free Library. Day in and day out for many years it has been performing a great educational function. Every year increases its usefulness. One of its mottoes is that "It Pays to Read." It is good one, provided, of course, the right books and papers are read—in other words, such as are found on the shelves and in the files of that library. In this connection we take pleasure in quoting the following written by "J. D. D." in The Newarker:

Few had the habit of reading before the printing press was invented; and yet there were great men before the day of the printing press!

If from this you conclude that you can become great without the reading habit as easily as with it, then you are in error.

Delays are Especially Dangerous Where Defective Plumbing is Concerned

In the interests of your own and your family's health you positively cannot afford to neglect the smallest defect in your sanitary equipment.

Apart from the question of comfort and convenience—and that is important to you—a sanitary equipment that is not entirely efficient is a continual menace. Whatever the fault, it should be remedied immediately.

If you are not quite sure about your plumbing system, let us examine it and report upon its condition; it will cost you nothing and may save money.

Should it be necessary, we will install a genuine "Standard" Guaranteed Fixture at a minimum cost, and guarantee the workmanship employed in installing it. Illustrated literature always on hand.

CHAUTAUQUA OPPORTUNITY

Notice is given in another column of a citizens meeting this evening at the Academy Building. The occasion is to meet representatives of the Chautauqua and discuss the possibilities of a series of Chautauqua lectures and entertainments during the late fall. This is a new idea for Newark. Although several of our citizens have tried to work up a sentiment for a Summer Course, it has been impossible due probably to other varied interests and attractions during our mid-year months.

To those unacquainted with the Chautauqua, it might be well to say in anticipation that it is not a Corporation for financial gain in any sense of the word. It is purely educational, carrying in a popular way, the spirit of the times, to the people. Inspired by and under the control of the leading educators and thinkers of the day, and operated merely on a self supporting basis, it has been able to attract the best of the American plateau.

Enough here to say, that an opportunity is presented to Newark. Let all who can interest themselves and attend the meeting at the Academy this evening.

To Place Iron Fence Around Cemetery

The contract for the new iron fence to replace the hedge around the Head of Christiana Cemetery, has been awarded to Mr. L. D. Davis of Wilmington. The money to cover the expense of this improvement has been largely collected from lot owners and those interested in the beautifying of this burying ground. The committee announces that any person who has not yet contributed and wishes to do so may forward same to Miss Elizabeth Hayes, Elkton, Md., R. D. No. 3.

Thesis On Christian Socialism

Mr. Howard T. Ennis, a former student of Delaware College and now Principal of Schools at Lewes, Del., has recently made arrangements to do graduate work in the college this year, looking towards the M. A. degree. He has chosen to do this work in the field of Economics and has selected as his thesis subject a critical analysis of that phase of the Socialistic movement known as Christian Socialism. It is hoped that this kind of work will so develop that the College will be justified in printing a regular series of Masters' theses.

Pleasant Social Evening

The ladies of St. Thomas' Guild gave a pleasant social evening in the Parish House last Friday evening. A pleasing program including several original games entertained the guests. Dainty refreshments were served.

Scout Benefit A Success

The benefit performance given by the Boy Scouts in the Opera House on Tuesday evening was largely attended. The Scouts received as their share of the money from the tickets sold, the neat sum of $25.60. The proceeds from the sale of homemade candy amount to eleven dollars, making a total profit of $36.60.

Shop Talk

Return order from New York City at our Shop this week, makes us feel that we are still in the running.

Hello, 93—are you the people that got out that little booklet on —? Got any more ideas like that not in use? Get me up something and come in and we'll talk it over. That's interesting but its the gist of another Wilmington call. And by the way, we handed the order or rather it was given us when they saw the idea we proposed.

Old Hampshire Bond—Ever use any? We have some on hand—Just filled a 10,000 order. And say, it's got the quality crackle, alright.

Newark's Share In Hospital Campaign

When the announcement was made at a recent gathering of workers for the $150,000 fund for the Homeopathic Hospital, that Newark would have a team in the field to help in the good cause there was much enthusiasm. Such assistance, coming as it did, unexpected, acted as an invigorating tonic on those present and all expressed their gratification and pleasure.

The captain of the team, Mrs. Reeves D. String, has surrounded herself with hustling co-workers who are expected to give a good account of themselves in soliciting subscriptions. Headed by Dr. W. H. Steel all are anxiously waiting for the word "Go." The remaining members of the team are Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, Mrs. J. A. McKelvey, Mrs. M. C. Kilgore, Mrs. J. L. Eastburn, Miss Elizabeth Grimes, Prof. M. Van G. Smith, Clarence Grant and Samuel Fulton.

For a quarter of a century the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington has been struggling to meet its financial needs, the work falling on women and men who have given years of service to this charitable cause. It is for the purpose of relieving them of the burden they have carried so long that the fund of $150,000 is to be raised. The interest from this sum will materially aid in meeting the financial obligations incurred in operating such an institution. In all these twenty-five years the Homeopathic Hospital has kept its doors open to the poor and needy and in many cases incurred expenses by bringing in specialists to administer to the physical wants of such patients.

The Homeopathic Hospital is 25 years old and it is proposed to present it with a birthday gift of $150,000. Who is going to give to this worthy project?

The real canvass for funds will begin on next Monday night and for ten days the battle will be waged, a peaceful struggle and one that will end in victory.

Newark is expected to be heard from all along the line of battle with the battle cry "Twenty-five years old and a birthday gift of $150,000."

The Farmers' Trust Company was asked this morning to act as a depository for the Fund here.

Second Crop Of Berries

Delaware's Part In Congress Hall Celebration

Delaware played a prominent part in the re-dedication exercises at which President Wilson was guest of honor, in Congress Hall, Philadelphia, on Saturday. Old Congress Hall was the meeting place of the nation's lawmakers from 1790 to 1800. It had been neglected for the last eighteen years.

Prior to the re-dedication exercises a parade was reviewed by the President from the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. The Artillery Band from Fort DuPont headed a detachment of Coast Artillery troops from Fort DuPont and Fort Mott, N. J. Professor Satranek, the director of the band was in charge. The playing was frequently applauded along the route.

The exercises proper were presided over by John Wanamaker, and the audience represented as brilliant a throng of statesmen, diplomats and leaders, city, state and national, as ever assembled in Philadelphia. There were in the throng that filled the little hall governors of the thirteen original states, members of both houses of Congress, ambassadors from foreign countries, the mayor, his cabinet and citizens foremost in civic thought and action. The exercises were unexampled in impressiveness and dignity.

Standing on the platform from which Washington, first of the presidents, delivered his farewell to the people, the latest of the nation's chief executives paid a tribute to the founders of the republic, and to those men, who, in the country's infancy, built the foundations upon which that republic now rests. While others were speaking the President sat in the chair which was used by John Hancock when he presided over the Continental Congress at the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Senator duPont represented Delaware in the Senatorial delega-

A Methodist Saint Of Newark

We do not know whether the subject of this sketch is still in this world, or already in her place among the saints triumphant.

Like all persons of heroic virtue, she knew nothing about it herself, and would have been astounded to read a eulogy of herself in a newspaper. Yet she lives in the minds of many as a candle that is set upon a candle-stick, giving light to all that are in the house. An example of the highest, as they are the rarest virtues, Charity and Justice.

She was an honour to her religion, her home, and her state. There is an old truism, "We must live with people to know them." This being the case we may ourselves speak advisedly, as we were for several years under the roof of Mrs. David W. Caskey, better known to her intimates as Mary Caskey.

One demands unreasonably, but naturally that a saint should be good looking, and this our Mary was. Her piquant face, her rounded little figure, her most sunshiny of all smiles quite came up to our notion of what was proper in so dear and good a soul. When rain fell in torrents, Mary Caskey bubbled with cheerfulness. When every body else in Newark was glum or rebellious, she wondered why. With fourteen in the family, and providentially relieved of negro "help" in the kitchen, she blithely sang, "There's a land that is fairer than gold."

She came from the Love Feast of her church with every apparent result of sacramental communion. Love for all mankind not only overflowed from her heart but took the form of the most sacrificial charity.

Upon one occasion a little band of Salvation Army exhorters visited Newark. There was work cut out for them there—plenty of it—and they knew it; but neither of the two hotels would give them shelter. There was in fact, no room at the inn, and the proprietors frankly said so. This prejudice would probably not hold in Newark today where are lights, radiance and civilization.

In drenching storm, when the streets splashed with mud they knelt on the pavement opposite Mary Caskey's home. They prayed aloud, and without apology for the people of Newark; that the just might become more just and receive the reward of their deeds; that the sinners might be converted and live. About ten o'clock word reached Mary that there was no Christian charity anywhere around that was vital enough to extend hospitality to these earnestly good people.

She conferred hurriedly with her family, and then the door of her tion from the thirteen original states; Congressman Brockson was in the delegation from the House of Representatives.

The day's program closed with a banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford attended by five hundred persons. A large number of Senators and Congressmen were present, together with ambassadors from France, England, and Spain.

Governor Miller, on responding to the toast, "The Thirteen Colonial States," said in part: "I appreciate the great honor of representing the little Commonwealth of Delaware which was the first of the original states to ratify that great document—the Constitution of the United States.

The fathers of the American Constitution were those who came here for the most part in seeking a settlement where they could practice a religious belief without molestation. There were some, however, who came here on material rather than by religious interest, but no matter for what cause they came or where they settled, all their motives were strengthened by a spirit of independence and that has increased as the settlement has developed.

Commercial importance was increased to the extent that the bulk of the nation was very large. The great document of Independence, which was strengthened by the speech of Patrick Henry, demanding "Freedom, Liberty and Independence for Virginia," and which was formed in this city of Philadelphia, has become such an important document, is very evident by the fact that the Constitution which was framed to suit thirteen states for 3,000,000 people, has stood the test more than a century and a quarter, and today is a fundamental law of forty-eight states of the nation, and an aggregate population of more than 100,000,000."

home was flung wide. Those without saw a fair face, haloed with light from a hanging lamp behind her.

"Come in, Brothers and Sisters, out of the storm," said she. "I can't give you all beds, but you are welcome to my living rooms down stairs."

The little band of some twenty soldiers passed in, quietly and respectfully. The women did not remove their bonnets, nor the men their shoes. All night they kept their vigil in prayer for Newark. Who knows if Mary Caskey were not the "one just man" who, peradventure being found "saved that city."

In the morning, there was breakfast. Mary had enlarged the table and with her own two hands served her guests. A good breakfast, too, as beffited Mary's custom. Plenty of steaming coffee, shad rolls, fruit and such cinnamon buns! We have never seen a hostess who so completely justified the description—"wreathed in smiles."

The company, reverent, humble, and very thankful, were a credit to her board. The voices were lowered, the "manners" above reproach. We have never attended a tea or reception in Newark of such excellent taste as this "affair" of Mary Caskey's. Twenty or more hands grasped hers at that elegant angle which comes nearest the heart. Twenty or more voices, also from the heart, invoked Heaven's blessing upon her.

"God bless you, my friends," said Mary in return, "and may your work for souls prosper."

We have heard of a new organ, of a stained glass window, of improvements many in the Methodist church of Newark, but that church can have no ornament, no witness of its faith so beautiful and so endearing as members after the pattern of Mary Caskey.

A RELIEF RECORD

Work Of Red Cross In Middle West Virtually Finished

In the October number of the Red Cross Magazine is made the statement that the relief work incident to the great flood in the Middle West is virtually closed. In Ohio and West Virginia, along the banks of the Ohio River, there occurred a severe outbreak of typhoid fever following the hot months of the summer and the Red Cross still maintains a representative in that neighborhood. The report shows that, in the days immediately following the flood more than 300,000 persons were compelled to depend upon relief supplies for food, and there were 64,161 families, consisting of 256,000 persons, driven from home and temporarily dependent upon relief agencies or friends for shelter. The flood destroyed 2,691 dwellings, while the number of houses repaired and put into habitable condition by the Red Cross exceeded 10,000. The total expenditures in cash by the Red Cross and various State and local committees amounted to not less than $3,500,000.

Considerable expenditures remain to be made, not alone to carry out plans already entered upon, but to supplement this winter, where the after effects of the flood have placed upon them a burden which they cannot bear alone.

Rural Carrier Examination

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on Saturday, November 22, 1913, at Wilmington, Newark and Porters, Delaware, for New Castle County, as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a vacancy in the position of rural carrier at Edgemore, Del., and other vacancies as they may occur on rural routes at post offices in the above named county, unless it is found to be in the interest of the service to fill the vacancy by reinstatement, transfer, or promotion. The usual entrance salary for rural carriers is from $600 to $1000 per annum.

Age limit, 18 to 55, on the date of the examination. The maximum age limit is waived in cases of persons honorably discharged from the United States military or naval service.

An applicant must have his actual domicile in the territory supplied by a post office in the county for which the examination is announced.

The examination is open to all

Should A State Pension Its Teachers

Apropos of the discussion on the pensioning of teachers, as touched upon at the local institute in Wilmington held recently, the following review of the bulletin just issued on the subject by the U. S. Bureau of Education is interesting. Are pensions in general wise? Should a state pension its workers? Should it pension its teachers any more than any other class of employees? These and like questions are discussed in the bulletin, whose immediate purpose is to prescribe the pension systems of Great Britain.

Teachers' pensions and pension systems, according to Dr. Sies, represent one phase of what has become a universal movement among civilized peoples—a movement to "dispose of the superannuated and disabled individual and to rob old age of its economic terrors." Pensions for school teachers, he points out have existed in Germany in one form or other for two or three centuries and in other European countries for the better part of a century or more. On the Continent the benefits of teachers' pensions have often been extended to include widows and orphans of teachers. In Scotland a comprehensive system has been developed based on scientific insurance principles, which Dr. Sies considers especially valuable for the United States.

Let us turn from outdoor entertainment to the interior of a theatre. The theatre is said to be a good place to learn history and human nature. Some plays as the passion play, Quo Vadis and some of Shakespeare's dramas are said to be as good as a sermon. The author of each stage production has some moral, which shines forth conspicuously, when acted before the public. The manner in which the play is interpreted depends on the class of people represented in the audience. In large cities the vile people shun the churches and crowd the theatres. John Wesley said: "The stage entertainments not only sap the foundation of all religion but tend to drinking and gambling, which are constant attendants at the theatre."

Just how far we may indulge in "Popular Amusements" does not depend on what critics may say, but on the dictates of each individual's own conscience.

Poultry Expert To Be At Institute

The Farmer's Institute officials of Delaware are extremely fortunate in having secured Mr. Frederick H. Stoneburn of Philadelphia, to speak at the Institutes during the coming season. Mr. Stoneburn was professor of poultry husbandry at the Agricultural Experiment Station of Connecticut for seven years, and has also served other states in like capacity, and has lectured at Farmers' Institutes in two-thirds of the states of the Union. He is a man of striking personality and with the possible exception of Professor James E. Rice or Cornell, is the greatest poultryman in the country. Professor Stoneburn had a very successful experience in raising poultry years before he began teaching and lecturing.

Applications should be properly executed and filed with the Commission at Washington. As examination papers are shipped direct from the Commission to the places of examination, it is necessary that applications be received in ample time to arrange for the examination desired at the place indicated by the applicant. The Commission will therefore arrange to examine any applicant whose application is received in time to permit the shipment of the necessary papers.

An eligible register for the position of rural letter carrier for each county will be maintained. A person must be examined in the county in which the post office that supplies his home is situated. As a result of such examination he may become eligible to appointment as rural carrier at any post office in such county. A rural letter carrier after one year's satisfactory service may be transferred to the position of clerk or carrier in a first or second class post office, to the position of railway mail clerk, or to other positions in the classified service, subject to such examination as may be required by the civil service rules.

The Uses And Abuses Of Amusement

(Theme written by pupil in Newark High School)

The subject of "Popular Amusements" is one of grave interest and wide diversion. What amusements, then, are allowable and to what extent may we indulge them? The true design in amusement is expressed in its very name. The aim is to lay aside the more serious portions of life for a brief time, so that we may be able to labor longer and harder. All stages of life, from the tottering child to the aged man, have seasons of recreation.

Baseball may be made a very pleasant amusement, wholly beneficial to health and morals. Years ago the young school boys, after organizing their team, would run and throw the ball at each other, laughing, shouting and falling in their eagerness to avoid being hit. No crowd of excited persons witnessed these games, nobody cared which side was victorious and all were happy. But since it has attained the dignity of being our "National game," baseball has become an elaborate affair. Professional players are required and they are trained as carefully as prize fighters. Their salary is ridiculously high. When the day set for the game arrives, they pitch and bat, grow red in the face and strain their muscles. Heads are almost broken by the bats and fingers by the balls of the excited players. The vices which cluster around the race track begin to encircle the spectators of a ball game. Thousands of dollars are lost through gambling and men become crazed with the desire to win. Thus baseball is turned from a playful, restful outdoor amusement to a mere exhibition, the aim of which is notoriety for the players and exhaustion instead of physical recreation.

Let us turn from outdoor entertainment to the interior of a theatre. The theatre is said to be a good place to learn history and human nature. Some plays as the passion play, Quo Vadis and some of Shakespeare's dramas are said to be as good as a sermon. The author of each stage production has some moral, which shines forth conspicuously, when acted before the public. The manner in which the play is interpreted depends on the class of people represented in the audience. In large cities the vile people shun the churches and crowd the theatres. John Wesley said: "The stage entertainments not only sap the foundation of all religion but tend to drinking and gambling, which are constant attendants at the theatre."

Whether pensions shall be supported in whole or in part by the state, or whether they shall be financed entirely by the teachers themselves, is a problem that has been solved differently in different countries. In Germany the state finances the entire plan, the teachers making no contributions whatsoever. In France the teachers are heavily assessed to keep the pension system going. In the United States the tendency is to ask small contributions from the teachers. As a permanent arrangement Dr. Sies favors the German plan, not because he thinks it any more generous to the teachers, but because he considers it better business for the state to finance and manage the system itself. He shows that in any event the burden is ultimately shifted to the teachers.

While admitting, therefore, that contributions may be necessary to start a substantial pension system, he believes they should be discontinued as soon as possible. In his opinion contributions from teachers as a permanent feature not only add nothing to the effectiveness of a pension plan, but they "introduce needless complexity, they are source of constant irritation and misunderstanding, and they are responsible for a vast amount of unnecessary bookkeeping and other clerical work." Dr. Sies concludes with a strong recommendation for non-contributory pension system for American teachers.

The American Spirit

Differ as we may, concerning the methods of progress, politics and difference of opinion must give way and do honor to the expression of the American Spirit, irrespective of creed or party.

President Wilson in his address at Swarthmore a few days ago, gave the ring of manhood as understood today. No happier expression has come from him since his entrance to the White House.

No word of ours in comment would do ought but mar the impression to be gained by reading his words:

"Sometimes we have been laughed at, by foreigners in particular, for boasting of the size of the American continent, the size of our own domain as a nation; for they have naturally suggested that we did not make it. But I claim that every race and every man is as big as the thing that he takes possession of and that the size of America is in some sense a standard of the size and capacity of the American people."

But the extent of the American conquest is not what gives America distinction in the annals of the world. It is the professed purpose of the conquest, which was to see to it that every foot of that land should be the home of the free, self-governed people, who should have no government whatever which did not rest upon the consent of the governed.

I would like to believe that all this hemisphere is devoted to the same sacred purpose and that no where any government endures which is stained by blood or supported by anything but the consent of the governed."

Accident Near Strickersville

Elwood Gregg of Strickersville had a slight accident last Friday evening, when a wheel on his wagon broke, on the main road, in front of the Red Men's Home. His sister and Miss Crossan were in the wagon and received a severe shock from which they did not recover for several days. Mrs. Porter was also in the wagon but was uninjured.

Pavlova AndRussian Dancers

Pavlova, who is again the sensation of America, will be at the Playhouse on Thursday, November 20th with a great company and a complete symphony orchestra.

Pavlova says that her art is her life nevertheless believes that dancing is the very hardest artistic career in the world. She is quoted as saying that if she didn't continually have something new to do she would be bored sick. Accordingly she brings to America for her second transcontinental tour eleven complete new productions in one and two acts. They are comedies and tragedies told in the dance.

Although Pavlova and the Russian dancers were a genuine sensation three seasons ago—America does not yet really know what the Russian ballet is. London does. Pavlova has been appearing at the Palace for four consecutive seasons besides appearances at Covent Garden. And she is now called by the Daily Mail "London's principal and peerless idol". England is the home of many great actors, but still the British critics say that in a dance drama Pavlova and her associates portray all emotions better than most actors who have the aid of the spoken word.

Pavlova's tour will enable America to see for the first time the work of the artists who have revolutionized the art of theatre decoration. Pavlova has raised dancing to a high art, and Leon Bakst and Boris Annisfeld have made a fine art out of scene painting and costume designing. Their work is futuristic as compared to the old style. But it is intelligible and delightful to lovers of color and line. The scenery and the costumes harmonize perfectly with the theme which the dancers work out.

Some English and Parisian enthusiasts, notably Huntley Carter, the well-known London critic, go so far as to say that with music, decoration, and the drama of the dance into a symphonic whole, the Russians have exerted the strongest influence on the stage since Shakespeare.

With Pavlova when she appears here will be the greatest company that has ever appeared outside the Imperial Russian opera house at St. Petersburg and Moscow. Three famous men dancers accompany her, M. Novikoff, premier danseur classique of the Imperial Opera House at Moscow, M. Zaïtchik, premier danseur de caractere at the same place, and M. Cecchetti, premier mime of the Imperial Opera House at Moscow. The last named dancer is an Italian, Russified. What the Czar thinks of him is shown by the fact that Cecchetti is head master of the Imperial Mariinsky Institute of the Danes at St. Petersburg, where boys and girls are trained for the ballet.

Mile. Stephina Plaskowieszka, premiere danseuse de caractere will be another star with Pavlova. Other leading danseuses will be Miles, Bultsova, Ligierova, Milanova, Cromova, Nevelskaya, Gorshkova, Fredowa, Kortnova, Zalmonova, Lindowska, and Hertska. Leading men dancers include M. M. Nitkin, Romanowski, Morkowski, Soha, Monahoff, and Kobelev. Besides these there will be a big corps from the Imperial Opera House of St. Petersburg and Moscow.

The Czar of Russia has paid high compliments to Pavlova's art during the past summer. The highest was to send the sculptor Seraphin Soudbinine to London while she was appearing at the Palace to model the danseuse for the Czar's private gallery.

Apple Day

Looking toward the revival of interest in apple culture Governors of Indiana and Massachusetts appointed Tuesday, October 21st as "Apple Day" and issued circular letters requesting that residents of the State eat at least one apple on that day. Several other states are preparing to establish the custom next November 18th.

Hospital Site

The Rev. Frederick W. Neve, Archdeacon of the Blue Ridge, Virginia, and Mrs. Neve returned to Virginia Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Neve's mother, Mrs. A. M. Cooch.
