Budget Problems Of City Outlined By Manager, Jr.

Balanced City Budget
Expected After "Hump"
In Capital Expenditure

When the city government gets over its present "hump" of capital expenses for sewer, water, and electrical extensions, it should be able to balance its budget, City Manager Orville F. Over said at last week's panel discussion sponsored by the Newark League of Women Voters.

Short-term borrowing is normal in city government because revenue from taxation is seasonal while expenses are mostly the same from month to month, he said, when asked about the desirability of getting the city on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

He said Newark could probably balance its budget without too much trouble if it did not take any capital expenditures out of current revenue. However, he has told city council members in normal municipal operations there is a need for bond issues only once every seven to 10 years and current revenue is expected to take care of certain capital purchases between issues.

Asked about an inventory of Newark's supplies, said one was being made, but there is a need for adequate inventory control which would be possible when adequate storage facilities are obtained.

The perennial question of mercantile licenses was discussed. Samuel Handorf, director of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, arose in the audience to say he believed local merchants would not oppose municipal license fees very seriously but would not favor a mercantile tax, especially since they already pay higher rates for electricity.

On The Firing Line At The PTA Fun Fair

One of the many popular features at the annual PTA Fun Fair held last Friday at the high school auditorium, was the harmless rifle range set up for local Davy Crockett. No cocksn caps are in evidence, but the younger brothers at home were probably sleeping in them when this picture was taken.

Rhodes Records City's Progress Over 500,000 Prescription Period

Back in 1910 Newark had a population of 1200 — served as the county seat — and gave promise of becoming the residential and business community that it is today.

"The best $30 available seat for manufacturers" is the way the town was described by one civic salesman of that day. This and other interesting facts concerning Newark just after the turn of the century are included on a yellow advertising Emerson Johnson, proprietor of Rhodes Drug Store.

Rhodes will celebrate the compounding of its 500,000th prescription sometime this month, with the person bringing in the prescription to receive a $30 savings bond. In connection with this event, Emerson Johnson has been rummaging around in old files, collecting historical facts about the store which date back to 1856.

This particular envelope—a combined shopping guide and chamber of commerce bulletin—includes a sales pitch on the virtues of the town and a number of advertisements by local merchants.

Concerning Newark, the unknown writer says, "Our business houses are substantial structures, they carry large stocks of goods." Listed as industries were two paper mills, hard and flexible fibre works, machine shop, cannery, creamery and printing establishment.

To lure additional industry the writer pointed out that "We offer 10 years exemption from taxation to manufacturers and consider projected enterprises on a liberal basis. "We have healthy water," he continued, "electric lights, the streets are wide and well shaded and an air of comfort pervades the town."

Advertisements appearing on back of the envelope were direct, ruggedly honest and bare of frills. P. J. Ewing called attention to "All Kinds of Horse Goods." J. Rankin Armstrong described himself as "Lanes and Gents Outfitters," while John L. Frick announced "Our Transfer Meets All Trains and Will Take You Any Place You Want To Go."

Wideman Elected DACP President At Group Meeting

Veteran Newark Warden

Newark's William Wideman, dean of state game wardens, with more than 20 years' service with the Delaware Game and Fish Commission, was elected president of the Delaware Association of Chiefs of Police at Monday night's dinner meeting at the Paddock Restaurant, just north of Smyrna.

Sgt. Fred J. Nichols, Wilmington Traffic division, Wilmington Police Bureau, retiring president, who presided at the meeting, received a past president's badge from the association.

Col. Harry S. Shew, superintendent of state police, announced that J. Henry Topkis, honorary member of the association, who is providing a rifle range for Camp Barnes, boys' camp sponsored by the association, is also presenting 11.22 caliber rifles.

The new rifle range, now being constructed, is to be named for Colonel Shew. It is expected to be ready when the first group of boys goes to the camp for two weeks in June. Approximately 400 boys from all parts of the state attend the camp each summer during the 10-week camping period.

Council Approves $38,378.62 In Bids For Pending Projects

Contracts To Be Awarded For New High School, Silverbrook, W. Park Sewers, Culvert At Sunset Road; League Of Women Voters Reports On City Finance Study

With a treasurer's reported deficit of $83,308.56 at the end of March, and pending passage of a bill before the State Senate in Dover extending the city's short term borrowing limitation from $100,000 to some $250,000 or one percent of the assessed value of city property, Acting Mayor Samuel L. Diehl, Jr., and the assembled councilmen were confronted with the problem of approving bids for currently necessary projects in the amount of $38,378.62 at the first regular meeting of the new Council Tuesday night.

With Councilman Wm. Coverdale dissenting in each case, four contracts were awarded to the low bidders, subject to city management audit and approval.

The contract for construction of the Wilson Tractor sewer interceptor to serve the new senior high school was awarded to Henry Eastburn & Son with a low bid of $29,188.80 and a completion date of Sept. 1, 1955.

Earl Downing, Inc., was awarded the contract for the Chestnut Hill sewer extension on a bid of $1,826.38 and a completion date of May 31, 1955, while the Eastburn firm was also awarded the contract for construction of a box culvert affording access on Sunset Road to the Greater Newark Development Co. property, with a bid of $2,789 and a completion date of next June 15.

The contract for construction of a storm sewer on West Park Place was awarded to Earl Downing, Inc., successful bidder on the Chestnut Hill sewer project, at an estimated cost of $4,644.44 with a completion date of June 15.

This decision was one that gave the City Council little trouble. The Board of Education had agreed to foot the bill.

Pastor - Columnist Milton Keene Plans Book Of "Think It Over"

"Think It Over," the inspirational column by the Rev. Milton Keene, Kingswood - of - Brooks Methodist Church pastor, which appears twice a week in the Wilmington Journal-Evening, will be published in book form on May 20.

A brief preface by Mr. Keene reads: "During the five years or more that 'Think It Over' has appeared, there have been requests from readers for a small book composed of a collection of the columns. This unpretentious little volume represents a response to these requests. Brief, like the column itself, the book uses the same format with which readers have become familiar. In fact, pages are lithographic reproductions of actual columns, just as they have appeared in the paper.

"So that the book might have something of a pattern, and that it might prove more useful as a kind of handbook for living, I have arranged the columns under the five headings which appear on the cover. If the reading of these pages, and perhaps their re-reading, should prove a source of inspiration, or guidance, or comfort to any of my fellow men, I shall feel abundantly rewarded for this small effort."

The collection represents the author's personal selection of columns which he feels have been of practical help to the most readers over the past five years.

Advance orders may be addressed to the publishers, The Hamilton Press, Seventeenth and Spruce Streets.

You'll feel like a pilot without leaving the ground

Just wait till you switch the pitch of Buick's new Dynaflow!

How would you like to take the wheel of a high-powered Buick and feel an experience you never felt before in any earth-bound vehicle?

How would you like to do—just by pressing down the gas pedal—what a pilot does when he's ready for take-off?

And how would you like to drive with the happy thought that you're getting plenty of miles per gallon in normal cruising—and the electrifying action of the world's first airplane-principled transmission when you need it for split-second getaway response or accelerating power?

It's all for you when you say the word and slip into the driver's seat of a new Buick with Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Not only do you take command of record-high Buick V8 power—and the most envied ride in the industry—and the brawn and heft and luxury of a truly solid automobile.

You also call the turn on twenty propeller-like blades deep inside a wondrous new Dynaflow that's patterned after the principle of the modern plane's variable pitch propeller.

You hold these blades in their high-economy angle when you press the pedal in the normal way—and you get a lot more miles from a tankful of gas.

You switch the pitch of these blades to take-off position when you press the pedal way down—and you get spectacular action instantly.

Don't take our word alone that this is thrilling beyond all previous experience.

Talk to anyone who's tried it. Or, better yet, come try it yourself. That way you can learn firsthand why Buick sales are soaring to all-time best-seller highs. Drop in this week, won't you?

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Buicks.

Group Hospital Quarterly Payment Total Announced

During the first three months of 1955, payments to hospitals and doctors for the care of 23,734 Delaware members of Group Hospital

Service, Inc., amounted to $1,375,023, according to R. C. Denzler, assistant managing director of the Delaware Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan.

Payments were made for hospital and surgical-medical services rendered patients who are members of Group Hospital Service and are protected by the hospital-surgical-medical care plan.

The Delaware plan is this year celebrating its 20th year of service to Delawareans. Since October, 1935, when the plan began in Delaware, it has paid out over 30 million dollars for members' hospital and doctor bills, Mr. Denzler said.

The average American will consume close to 200 soft drinks during 1955—double the 1940 total.

SUPER MARKETS

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton
Consumer Information Specialist

Meat and Poultry

Meat prices in the market today are in a variety of ways including meat loaves and hamburger patties. Meat balls made from ground beef and served with mushroom sauce permit a nourishing, quick and thrifty meal.

Heavy slaughter of hogs continues to depress prices. A rise is expected soon since hogs are being slaughtered at a higher rate than pigs were produced in the fall crop. In the meantime, there are excellent values on shank halves of ham, picnics and other shoulder cuts, Boston butts and spareribs.

Broiler and frying chicken prices dropped considerably during the past two weeks and have recovered only slightly. Much more favorable retail prices now are available. Turkey prices continue to be low in spite of depleted storage stocks and smaller flocks.

Fruits and Vegetables

Asparagus prices, which advanced late last week due to poor cutting weather, should be more favorable this week. Florida sweet corn is less expensive now that supplies are larger. Leafy greens all are economical this week and spinach is selling at new lows and can be stored advantageously in home freezers. Tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers are at reasonable prices and quality is good, permitting attractive spring salads. Mushrooms are an excellent buy this week.

A few low priced Rome and Stamen apples from nearby states still are available. Citrus fruits continue to be good buys. Pineapples are in peak supply at attractive prices. Cantaloupes, grapes and pears remain relatively high.

Groceries

The outlook is for higher prices on the 1955 corn pack, and it possibly would be wise to stock up at the current low prices. Peanut imports are expected to alleviate the high prices on peanut products in the near future.

Ida M. Blansfield Funeral Services Held On Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida M. Blansfield, 85, widow of William J. Blansfield, were held Saturday afternoon at the funeral parlors of R. T. Jones, Newark, with the Rev. Dr. John J. Bunting, Jr., pastor of Newark Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was at Elkton Cemetery.

Mrs. Blansfield died Tuesday of last week at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cullen, near Cooch's Bridge, where she had lived since becoming an invalid some time ago.

Born near Hartley, daughter of Joseph and Annie E. Morris Milbourn, she lived most of her life in Delaware. Her husband, who died in 1943, had been a weaver at Elk Mills, and Philadelphia. She was a member of Newark Methodist Church.

In addition to Mrs. Cullen she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Anna Clayville, Wilmington; two sons, William J. Blansfield, Wilmington, and Howard A. Blansfield, Newark; 17 grandchildren; 23 great grandchildren, and two great-great grandchildren.

City Council

"Paralyzed"

Explaining his opposition to the measures approved for these project expenditures, Mr. Coverdale stated: "It is certainly not my desire to impede progress nor to paralyze activity. But the City of Newark is paralyzed because of its current financial position. For that reason I oppose such expenditures at this time."

Sealed bids for the purchase of electrical transformers were opened, reviewed, and turned over to the city manager and city engineering department for recommendations.

Mrs. Norma Handloff, president of the Newark League of Women Voters, presented a letter to Council—the result of the League's annual project for the improvement of government at every level. The past year's project was a study of local finances with special attention to sources of revenue.

League Recommendations

Speaking for the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Handloff stated that "effort must be made to put the city on a pay-as-you-go basis," and that with the adoption of the city manager plan, "more efficient administration" should be the result.

Acknowledging that this was no "cure-all" and that there was no "painless way," the League recommended mercantile licenses; the elimination of discounts with the substitution of a penalty for delinquent payment of water and electric bills, attended by an increased revenue of $21,800; a franchise tax and study of a public utilities tax; a more adequate property tax; and the reporting of city finances to the public; the establishment of a uniform policy for the provision of streets and utilities; and an up-to-date printing of the city charter.

Allan Duff, vice-president of the Newark Recreation Association, introduced Stanley Francis, newly employed executive director, to the City Council.

The need for an ordinance covering the provision of streets and utilities in the city was discussed, and a special ordinance to be scheduled at the next regular Council meeting.

Free Water Site

An individual's offer to provide the city with 10 acres of land for well-drilling in return for free water was approved, and City Manager Orville Coyer was instructed to proceed with the removal of hazardous trees on West Delaware Avenue despite the $500 cost involved.

City Solicitor John Sinclair was requested to prepare an ordinance requiring property owners to repair broken and dangerous sidewalks, and to investigate legal restrictions to govern the parking problem at the Capitol Trail-Ogletown Road intersection where the parked cars present a traffic hazard.

Mr. MacLary's motion was approved to install "no parking" signs on both sides of the triangular strip of land adjacent to the highways.

Audit Near Completion

Mr. Over reported that the city audit was expected to be completed and ready for presentation at the next regular meeting of Council, and stated that the State Highway Department was ready to issue bids and award contracts for the Delaware Avenue extension when the city obtained the necessary rights-of-way.

A special meeting with Mr. Kendrick, chief engineer of the Highway Department, has been scheduled for next Monday night in the Academy Building.

Approval granted Dover Builders in July, 1954, for city water supply at Newkirk Estates, was questioned with concern for the maintenance of adequate water pressures. The city engineering department is to check any possible effect of such water provision on the City of Newark.

A request from the local Veterans of Foreign Wars to erect welcoming, safe-driving signs in the city was approved, and yellow curbing is to be provided at the Capitol Trail end of East Cleveland Avenue to alleviate the hazard of parked cars.

An ordinance, rezoning the Lumbrook area from RS to RD, was given its first reading and a contribution of $200 to the community ambulance fund was approved.

Magistrate Clarence Foster reported a total of $25 in fines collected for the city during the past month.

And finally, long after the majority of their constituents had retired for the night, the councilmen adjourned a better than four hour session, after midnight.

NEWARK DELEGATES

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson of Newark were among the delegates attending the 80th national convention of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association in Allentown, Pa., last week.

Dr. Earle E. Walker, Jr., was the first guest speaker in a series of family emphasis meetings, sponsored by Kingswood-of-Brookside Methodist Church in the community building last Sunday night.

Dr. Walker's subject was "The Family Doctor and the Family." The community is invited to attend this series of programs to be held during the month of May, highlighting various aspects of modern family life.

Dr. Walker, associated with Dr. Kenneth W. Eskew, has his office in Brookside Park, and is a trustee of the new suburban church.

Lifelong Resident Florence M. Levey Dies At Christiana

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence M. Levey, 83, were held Tuesday afternoon at the R. T. Jones Funeral Home, Newark. Interment was in Christiana Presbyterian Cemetery.

A lifelong resident of Christiana, she died last Friday night at the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Walker, near Ogletown.

Mrs. Levey was born in Brandywine Hundred. She was the widow of John Levey, who died in 1941. She had been ill about a week. Active in community affairs, she was a member of Christiana Methodist Church, the Christiana Improvement Association and the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Walker, are three other daughters, Mrs. Florence Hopkins, Elkton; Mrs. Elizabeth Fosse, Christiana, and Mrs. Essie Jackson, North East, Md.; two sons, William Orville Levey, Wilmington, and Edward Levey, North East; three grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Carrie Cloud Dies Within Week Of Husband Death

Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie Eastburn Cloud, 76, were held yesterday afternoon in the funeral parlors of R. T. Jones, Newark, with interment in White Clay Creek Cemetery.

A native of Delaware, Mrs. Cloud died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Conard, 2925 Harview Avenue, in Baltimore, a week following the death of her husband, C. Taylor Cloud.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloud had been visiting their daughter since last winter. He died in a Baltimore hospital a day after being admitted.

Mrs. Cloud was stricken suddenly at Mrs. Conard's home. A resident of New London, Chester County, Pa., Mrs. Cloud moved there from Newark 46 years ago. In addition to her daughter, she is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Frank Moody, Mrs. Louise Appleby, Mrs. Alice Meredith and Mrs. Beulah Lewis, all of Newark and vicinity, and two brothers, David R. Eastburn, of near Newark, and Joseph Eastburn, Stanton.

Pushmobile Derby Interest Develops Throughout State

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

We get more for our food dollar than we did 30 years ago. That important fact is stressed in an exhibit prepared by the Department of Agriculture, which will go from coast to coast on loan to the state agricultural colleges. The exhibit dramatically emphasizes the changes that have taken place in food marketing by showing an old-time cracker barrel along with a supermarket cart filled with modern packaged foods.

"For too many years," Secretary of Agriculture Benson pointed out in opening the exhibit, "consumers have been bombarded with propaganda about the high cost of food. Our diets are much better than they were 30 years ago. The quality of foods is higher. We have a vastly wider selection. And our foods are available in convenient forms—ready-mixed, ready-dressed and ready to serve. . . . In fact, in some of our foods we have 'built-in' maid service."

The Secretary then said that one hour of labor today will buy almost twice as many loaves of bread, twice as many quarts of milk, and twice as many pounds of steak or chicken as it did 30 years ago. He added that this story of "phenomenal service to consumers" is well worth telling the country over.

This is a fine testimonial to American food producers and to the people and organizations which process and sell us our foods—all the way from the smallest independent to the biggest chain. And it is further proof of the fact that, in every line of endeavor, the free market system gives more people more and more of the good things of life.

Brookside Budget Survey Conducted Among Residents

Community Group To Seek Second Proposed Budget Approval In Referendum

Representatives of Brookside Community, Inc. are making a survey this week of what residents feel should be included in the 1955-56 budget of the community corporation.

Following rejection of the proposed $24,750 budget by a vote of 710 to 400, the executive board must prepare a new one for a mail referendum. The defeated budget called for $16 yearly "dues" per home. Pending passage of another budget, the levy reverts to last year's $5.

"Apparently the board was not fully aware of how residents felt about how much and where the money should be spent. In order that the board may reflect your feelings in the new budget, your area representative will visit you to obtain the answers to several pertinent questions."

"After tabulating your answers, he will attend a meeting of the 40 representatives and board members to report and discuss the results of the questionnaire."

"The opinions gleaned from the reports and discussion will be used by the board in their consideration of the new budget."

Open Discussion On Foreign Policy Planned At U.D.
U.S. State Department Officials To Participate In May 21 Local Program

An open discussion of foreign policy, in which Delawareans can talk with U.S. State Department officials, will be held at the University of Delaware on Saturday, May 21.

The session will be sponsored by the United States Commission for UNESCO, an agency of the State Department.

The main question under discussion will be the United States' stake in the underdeveloped areas of the world.

Dr. Gordon C. Godbey, assistant director of the university extension service, is chairman of the committee planning the event, assisted by I. B. Finkelstein, representing the Delaware Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Robert F. Jackson of the Delaware League of Women Voters.

Similar meetings are being held throughout the country to enable the State Department to find out how the average citizen feels about government activity in the underdeveloped areas.

There will be a speaker at the opening session in the morning and the meeting will then be divided into small workshop groups for informal discussion with State Department officials.

Loyalty Day

"There is not one historian who refutes the claim that the Stars and Stripes were first carried in a skirmish at Cooch's Bridge," the descendant of the famous Cooch family pointed out. "There have been other claims, but investigations even by the Defense Department disproved them."

Mr. Cooch related how General George Washington, hard pressed in the period beginning September 3, 1777, paraded his troops in Philadelphia where he secured the new continental flag, and used it in that show of strength and unity. The army then proceeded south to Naamans and Wilmington, and finally to the Cooch's Bridge area.

Meanwhile the British were coming by boat up the Elk River and disembarking. Washington's officers were bombarded by cannon fire from a reconnoitering unit, old records reveal. It was felt that the ravine near the stream at Cooch's Bridge would become the first line of defense, and it was there the small skirmish took place, with only a handful of casualties on either side.

"However," Mr. Cooch continued, "it was only a matter of hours, or the Battle of the Brandywine may well have been fought at this spot. The British troops were not good scouts. They bogged down in the swamps which to this day are referred to as 'Purgatory Swamps,' so named by the British who were unable to penetrate the area. They circled around and finally it was along the Brandywine to the north that the battle got underway."

Past District Two Commander Robert N. McCormick, was master of ceremonies, introducing Department Auxiliary President Catherine Mulhern, who spoke briefly. District Commander William Johnson gave the closing prayer.

The new flag was officially presented to Mr. Cooch by William Corbin, O'Daniel Post commander. After the raising of the emblem, the O'Daniel honor guard fired a three-volley salute to the heroes of the 1st American Revolution, some of whom are buried nearby.

Dr. E. F. Waller Warns Of Danger In Bites Of Infected Dogs And Foxes

Rabies, a fatal disease of man and animals, is on the increase in Delaware, as a number of cases have been diagnosed in both New Castle and Sussex Counties, according to Dr. E. F. Waller, head of the animal and poultry industry department at the University of Delaware.

All cases so far have been in foxes and dogs. The disease is spread through the bite of infected animals. "When a fox becomes infected he loses all fear of man and dogs and will come up into farm yards or into the more densely settled urban areas," Dr. Waller states.

"Small children may be the object of the attack," he adds. Cattle, horses, swine and sheep are also easy prey for infected foxes and infected stray dogs.

"Vaccination is the best protection for dogs," Dr. Waller claims. "In some areas a dog license will not be issued unless the owner shows a rabies vaccination certificate. This is an excellent plan and one that is easy to enforce," he adds.

Although dogs are to be tied to a leash at this time of year, this will not protect them from attacks by rabid animals.

If you are bitten by any strange animal, contact your physician at once. A dog that bites should be caught and confined for at least a week. Do not kill the dog immediately unless necessary. Dr. Waller advises. Above all, do not damage the head if it is necessary to destroy the animal.

When such an animal dies, it is important to make immediate arrangements through a physician or veterinarian to submit the head to the proper laboratory for examination.

Mrs. Dickey

Mrs. Dickey is a veteran member of the Newark Post staff.

Mrs. Josia Marvel, Jr., chairman of the citizens' award committee which selected Mrs. Dickey as the first recipient explained the purposes of the honor. Gordon A. Rust, president of the local association, presided at the luncheon.

Two new board members elected at the annual business meeting are Mrs. Charlotte Hanson of Newark, and John S. Charlton, director of child guidance for state schools.

Reelected to the board are: Rabbi Herbert E. Drooz, Mrs. Harold W. Elley, Mrs. W. W. Goens, Mrs. Louis Levinson, Dr. William O. Penrose, dean of the University of Delaware's school of education; Mrs. R. Marion Robb, Mrs. Frederick G. Singer, and James W. Williams.

Mrs. Dickey's contributions to mental patients at Delaware State Hospital over the past 10 years have been, Senator Frear said, of a diverse and intensive nature, including not only personal time and attention to individual patients but the planning and execution of services for them as well.

Do not, for one repulse, forego the purpose that you resolved to effect. —William Shakespeare
