Gasoline leak near homes under DNREC investigation

Residents of Chestnut Hill Estates get some answers

a nvironmental agency officials are investigating whether a Mobil gas station owner is to blame for approximately 15,000 gallons of gasoline that were released from his station's underground storage tank sometime between November 1999 and June 26.

Officials from the Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control gave residents of Chestnut Hill Estates an update this week on what steps they are taking to recover all of the released gasoline and to assure this kind of error does not occur in the future.

The station under investigation is located near the intersection of Routes 4 and 273, just a few hundred feet away from Chestnut Hill Estates. Tripp Fischer, project manager of the ongoing gasoline recovery mission, said someone doing repairs on a toilet in the residential community reported that he noticed vapors coming out of the broken sewer line.

Fischer said he and other DNREC officials traced the leak to the Mobil station's underground storage facility and went door-to-door notifying all residents of the community immediately following their discovery.

"So, if that person didn't fix his toilet, then this could have been going on for months and months and months," said one resident.

Though recovery of the gasoline continues, the leaking pipe was replaced in June and the gasoline tank and lines currently remain tight, according to DNREC.

In addition, Kathy Stiller of DNREC said they are investigating why the owner of the gas station, Hussain Mohammed, did not report the significant loss of gasoline from his facility.

"We want to know whether equipment malfunctioned or the station operator didn't recognize the problem," Stiller said. "What the inventory sheets read should have been reported to (DNREC)."

Stiller said state law requires gas station owners to track their inventory with two different methods designed to catch incidents such as this one, but it is a possibility that the computerized systems failed to work.

One is designed to track leaks in the storage facility. Gas station owners are told to contact DNREC immediately if the device tracks a loss of more than .2 gallons per hour, and a backup system is designed to notice a leak of more than 3 gallons per hour.

A third inventory control device, called "least accurate of the three" by DNREC officials, is also installed in the station and owners are required to report any unusual findings.

"This is a tragic accident – we are not proud of it. We wish it had never happened," Mohammed said.

He said that he has since installed a siren in the underground facility "so that if, God forbid, this will ever happen again, the system will notify us immediately."

Stiller said DNREC will keep residents posted with results of the investigation.

DNREC officials said they are taking several steps to be sure this type of incident does not reoc-

Seventh year of multi-cultural event in Newark owntown with the Arts. an outdoor festival hosted by the Newark Arts Alliance, will be held tomorrow from noon to 6 p.m. on the Academy Building lawn, Main Street, Newark. Raindate is Oct. 14.

Now celebrating its seventh year, the multi-cultural event features live music throughout the afternoon, sale of fine arts and crafts, an Author's Corner with local poets and writers selling their published works, and local arts groups sharing information about events and programs.

For the third year, the Chalk Festival provides an open challenge, and prizes, for all ages to create artwork in chalk on Main Street sidewalks. Sidewalk spaces will be assigned to registrants as they arrive throughout the afternoon. They must complete their work by 4 p.m.

There is only a $1 fee to the chalkers and the Arts Alliance provides the chalk, so this attracts a lot of interest. Last year there were over 85 chalkers. Competitors also can bring additional chalk/pastels, but no oils, for their special designs.

Onlookers can stroll the sidewalks all weekend to view the displays – up until rains come and wash the art away!

The Newark Post is the major sponsor for the Chalk Festival, together with associate sponsors Crystal Concepts. The Copy Maven, Caffe Gelato, Main Street Florist, Campus Surf, Flavor and Cameras, Etc. The Newark Post will provide a "Best of Show" $100 prize.

By the time he acquired his business administration and marketing degree, he already had a comprehensive business plan.

"Almost since I graduated from high school, I knew I wanted to open a restaurant or ice cream store," said German. "The restaurant business requires dedication and long work weeks, so I thought the best time to pursue my dream was right out of college when I had more time and less distractions. The 100-hour weeks are worth it as I watch the business grow."

German approached eight banks for financing before he found believers in Wilmington Savings Fund Society and the U.S. Small Business Administration. He secured an SBA-guaranteed loan through WSFS to finance Caffe Gelato's start-up costs, including building renovations, new equipment and operating capital.

Susan Garson, commercial relationship manager WSFS, said she was particularly impressed with his extensive research and detailed bailout provision in case the business failed.

"It is exciting to see a young entrepreneur like Ryan succeed," said Garson. "WSFS's practice of developing close working relationships with its borrowers helps to ensure our financial investments in local small businesses like Caffe Gelato."

German turned to the Service Corps of Retired Executives for assistance in developing his business plan. "Ryan had done his homework on starting a new business better than anyone I had counseled in over three years at SCORE, yet had already been turned down by multiple banks for a loan," said SCORE counselor Earl Norman.

"Working with the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and the SBA, we discovered he was being penalized because he never needed credit before and didn't have a credit history. We were able to identify a few banks that would work with Ryan and he was able to choose between two loan offers. "Now when 1 eat at Caffe Gelato, I feel great pride that this team made it possible." German and his family spent several months on extensive renovations to get the vacant storefront at 90 East Main Street ready for Caffe Gelato's opening.

German said the restaurant has met or exceeded its projections every month so far. He believes a major reason for its success is the extensive menu selection. Customers can choose from a wide selection of panini, homemade soups, daily specials, and dinner entrees. The soups, focaccia bread, Grissini breadsticks, and many gelato selections are made fresh daily while rustic red walls, the aroma of cappuccino and espresso, and lively conversion serve as the backdrop to a truly European culinary experience.

Transit plan for Route 40 needs work

Bear/Glasgow residents comment on bus service

By CHRISTINE E. SERIO

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Delaware transit representatives received an earful from Bear-Glasgow residents when they asked for input about a longrange transit plan for the bustling Route 40 corridor.

At Monday's 7&40 Alliance meeting, citizens voiced their desires for Delaware Transit Corporation (DTC) and DART service in their area.

"We have requested more user-friendly bus drivers, better services for the aging population, places to fasten wheelchairs and more evening hours," said Martha Denison, a representative of the 7&40 Alliance on DART's county-wide Community Committee. "We also need safer park-and-rides, smaller buses for areas with fewer riders, and improved cross-county bus services." Douglas Inc., gave a brief overview of the DTC's longrange plan. It includes additional Residents expressed concern that DTC representatives did not realize the full impact that bus services have on people's lives. The speakers gave examples of elderly riders, who use buses to get to doctor appointments, to emphasize the importance of efficient and safe bus services.

One disabled man said that changes to the Route 40 bus service "change the way I live my life."

The DTC consultants handling the transit issues in Bear-Glasgow area do not include a resident of the area. Some residents feel that this creates too much distance between the problem and those working to solve it.

"We need people from New Castle County on the consulting team, people that live in the area," Denison said. "Real people are being affected by this loss of service."

Consultant Anna Lynn Smith of Parsons Brickerhoff Quade & Douglas Inc., gave a brief overview of the DTC's longrange plan. It includes additional public input, projection of future transit demand, and early DTC involvement in development plans. Smith said development of the transportation plan would take place over a period of up to 20 years with updates every three years. "The main focus is to get

"The main focus is to get ahead of the growth and needs," Smith said. "The DTC has been advised to get involved with road development in communities to ensure transit access and streets wide enough for buses."

Ray Miller, executive director of DTC, assured residents there have been no final decisions on service changes. He said that the DTC is still collecting public input.

Miller stated that the DTC are lowering bus floors, using smaller vehicles, training drivers and that the company "will do it better."

A problem facing the DTC, and those in favor of more extensive use of bus services, is convincing car owners to use the bus instead of cars. Transportation officials are proposing a premium service which includes allowing passengers to eat on the bus, provides plush seats and adds specified commuter buses to their services.

vices. "We are up against behavioral changes," said Steven Kingsbury of the DTC. "People have the attitude that cars are more convenient so we are working on promotional projects to change that."

The 7&40 Alliance formed committees, such as the Rt. 40 Steering Committee, to work on solutions to the transit problems in the area and to decide what is financially feasible.

"I hope that the DTC takes into consideration the work we have done and the suggestions we have come up with in dealing with transit problems," said Alliance president Linda Bailey. "I am glad they are finally making a plan and I am anxious to see what the final plan will look like."

What you say, is not what you get local state representative released the results of an informal poll taken of people attending Newark's Community Day. It is doubly revealing because it shows that a fairly wide gulf exists between what some residents of our area want, and what is actually happening around them.

By a very wide margin, those answering the poll said they favored an increase in state spending for treatment of substance abuse, and for reducing the blood alcohol content level at which a person can be considered driving under the influence from .10 to .08.

By a very small margin, the polltakers said they did not want liquor stores open on Sunday.

The people answering the questions, no doubt, do not view themselves as ever having difficulty with either of the first two issues.

And, whether a person views Sunday as a special day or not, if you can buy everything else (except motor vehicles, for some reason) on Sunday, why not liquor?

But, the people who answered these questions live in a town, and a county, where drug and alcohol use is continuous if not rampant.

And those who think all those people getting charged with alcohol or drug violations don't get behind the wheel of a vehicle, even once, are just kidding themselves.

Delaware needs more substance abuse education, before, during and after the problem develops in a citizen's life.

The BAC should be lowered, - and it will be whether Delawareans favor it or not, if they want to keep getting federal dollars for roads.

Meanwhile, we need to work on more sophisticated ways to keep people from driving while impaired by any substance.

Making it illegal does not guarantee the rest of the drivers will not go in harm's way every day of their lives - including Sunday.

GUEST OPINION American Jews: Different Choices, Different Decisions

By Dr. Vivian Z. Klaff GUEST COLUMNIST

In August, Joseph Lieberman, an observant Jew, was selected by Vice President Al Gore as his running mate for the upcoming Presidential election.

This first-ever selection of a Jewish candidate for Vice President is likely to have a profound impact on the way in which the American voting population views the social and political landscape in the future.

The selection is important for another reason. It comes at a time when the American Jewish population as a community has achieved considerable success in upward social and political mobility.

This inclusion into the mainstream of American society led Elliot Abrams, in his book Faith or Fear, to examine the pattern taken by descendants of the millions of immigrant Jews who entered the United States in the decades surrounding the turn of the 19th century. Abrams asked: "Would the American Dream come true for them, so that Jews could succeed in America and integrate into the life of this society? And would Judaism in America survive that success?"

He answered: "Their lives of toil and achievement answered the first question with a resounding yes. The second question lies at the heart of the crisis now facing the American Jewish community.

Jews, no matter what their political ideology, seem to take pride in the ability of a Jew to compete for one of the highest levels of social acceptance. Lieberman's selection comes at a time when the organized Jewish community on a national and local level has a deep concern for the issue of Jewish identity, continuity, and survival of American Jewry.

A national study conducted in 1990 concluded that there were about 5.5 million core" Jewish affiliated persons in the population, representing about 2.5 percent of the total population. Of these, 4.2 million defined themselves as Jews by religion, and 1.1 referred to themselves as secular Jews, born Jewish but currently having no religion.

Another 1.4 million, including about 700,000 children, were of a Jewish descent but reported that they followed or were being raised in another religion.

Some other results reported from the study were high intermarriage rates where over 50 percent of recently married couples were involved in an intermarriage.

Approximately 72 percent of the Jewish population did not belong to any Jewish organization, 85 percent had never visited Israel, and about two-thirds did not contribute to the Federation community system.

The selection of Lieberman has created an instant increase in the salience of Jewish identity and over the next months will be the topic of conversation for Jews and non-Jews alike. The question asked is whether this process will have any impact on the way in which potential members of a diverse Jewish population view themselves and how they identify with the institutional framework of the Jewish community.

The high visibility of a Jewish vice presidential candidate has introduced a new dimension into the identity debate. For some, the fact of selection, win or lose, has opened new possibilities for expressing a Jewish identity. For others, this could represent a further measure of inclusion, minimizing the defensive need for group identity.

As a result of the 1990 study it became clear that the American Jewish population had reached the status of being "Jews-By-Choice," and a number of questions are being asked. What does it mean to be lewish? Are the definitions changing? What are the criteria for determining Jewish identity? Are Jews expressing their Judaism and Jewishness differently? Are there alternative ways and means to achieve the goal of a viable group identity

Recently a number of books have appeared with intriguing titles. The Vanishing American Jew (Dershowitz), A People Divided (Wertheimer), Choosing Survival (Susser and Liebman), and Jew Versus Jew (Sam Freedman), each focus on some aspect of this debate.

Center for Jewish Studies at the University of Delaware, in cooperation with a number of Jewish organizations on campus and in the larger community, will present a series to highlight the issue of Jewish identity in America in the context of a social mosaic that is rapidly changing.

This fall the Frank and Yetta Chaiken

All events will be held at the Trabant University Center Theater on the University Newark campus and are free and open to the public.

The overall objective of the series, "American Jews Today: Different Choices, Different Decisions," is to examine the dilemma of the Jewish community in the early 21st century as a case study of the ongoing changes in models of social integration. The university and non-campus community is encouraged to attend and participate in what promises to be an exciting and important program on an issue of critical importance.

For more information, please contact the Chaiken Center for Jewish Studies at 831-3324, or by e-mail at cjs@udel.edu.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor From Bruce F. Harvey, Newark

Almost everyone agrees that damage caused by skateboarders at the University of Delaware (and anywhere else) should not be tolerated. It is vandalism, pure and simple, no less so than graffiti, breaking windows, stealing signs or similar property crimes.

The University certainly has the right and responsibility to reduce such damage. I just don't think banning skateboards is the best solution. It penalizes the innocent, with no guarantee of eliminating vandalism.

As an institute of higher learning, the University teaches students much more than classroom material. For example, its actions to discourage binge drinking teach that alcohol abuse is not socially acceptable. Its athletic programs teach teamwork and build character.

Why not encourage students to participate in reducing vandalism? Why not encourage the more responsible skateboarders to put pressure on their less responsible peers? Should they be taught property damage is a violation of regulations, or rather that it is an issue of right and wrong? The former builds resentment, the latter builds character.

Problem skateboarders institutions encourage institutions and municipalities to ban all skateboarding. Authorities and the general public (including me) are not skateboarders

If we wanted to control damage, injuries and facility costs, we could save much more by banning cars, but decision makers and the general public are drivers. Should we restrict rights of a minority in a way we would not tolerate for ourselves? Is that an attitude we should be teaching?

Some towns simply ban skateboards. Others, with cooperation between 'boarders and parks departments provide skate parks. Youths should not be taught they are irresponsible, losing privileges and freedoms. They should be encouraged to accept responsibility, and be taught that responsible behavior is the right thing, strengthens the social contract and defends their freedom.

NEWARK OUTLOOK You need to do it!

If we expect kids to do it, we need to do it. And our future depends on it. The "it" I'm referring to is voting.

It will soon be time to pick a new president, Congressional representa-tives, one-third of the Senate, a governor and many more elected positions. The sad fact is that voter turnout is falling. In 1972, 63 percent of all adults voted. In the last presidential election in 1996, only 54 percent of adults voted and only 42 percent of us voted in 1998. This is a pretty sad statement about

Other democracies such as Greece, Italy, Sweden and Australia regularly turn out 80 percent or more of voters. Some peo-ple think that their one

can't possibly make a differ-ence. Well, the September Republican primary for Governor was decided by 44 votes and the difference in the 1960 presidential election averaged out to only one vote per precinct. Studies suggest that parents exert remendous influence over the future voting patterns of their children. Parents who vote regularly produce children who are more likely to vote. There are plenty of things we can do this foll the advectory are hide about this fall to educate our kids about democracy

Rather than look at all the election year ads and commentary as a disrup-tion, you can turn it into a living classroom. The first thing you need to do of course is to register to vote if you're not already registered.

To keep things simple, choose an issue that the kids are interested in. The environment is a good issue. Follow what the candidates have to say about the issue

Walk around your neighborhood and check out all the political advertising. If you're lucky enough to have a local candidate come to your home, have the kids ask him or her a question or two. You can also have kids review polit ical ads and then discuss these ads with them. You can contact the candidates for information. A neat web site is at www.voter.com/home/candidates. You can link to Delaware and federal candidates easily from here. Another neat site, at www.takeyourkidstovote.com, allows you to cus-tomize a personal ballot for your kids. But the most important thing you can possibly do this fall is to take your kids to the polls with you. While they can't actually go into the voting booth, seeing you vote will leave a powerful impression on them.

Make voting a family tradition. Our future depends upon it! Newark Outlook is a regular feature, prepared each week by staff mem-bers of the University of Delaware's Cooperative Extension Office in Newark. Visit the Extension website at University of Delaware celebrating Hispanic Heritage Month

The University of Delaware is celebrating the first-ever campus observance of National Hispanic Heritage Month with a series of events recognizing the richness and diversity of Hispanic culture. The film "Tango," to be shown at 7 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 8, in 116 Gore Hall, is filled with incredible dancing and a rich plot revolving around the making of the ultimate tango picture. Threetime Academy Award- winning cinematographer Vittorio Storaro won Technical Grand Prize for this film at Cannes in 1998.

Students will be able to feast on a fiesta of Hispanic food and drinks in all dining halls on Thursday, Oct. 12.

The month's closing event is a disc jockey Dance Party from 9 p.m. - 2 a.m., Friday, Oct. 13, in Multipurpose Room B of the Trabant University Center. National Hispanic Heritage Month at UD is sponsored by the offices of Human Resources, and Affirmative Action Multicultural Programs, and the Vice-President for the Latin Administration, American Studies Program, HOLA, the Christina Cultural and the Arts Center Hispanic/Latin American Student Council. For more information, call 831-2059.

Frightland presenting Terror 2000 and Halloween thrills

Frightland and the Leukemia Society of Delaware have combined once again with WSTW 93.7 to present, Terror 2000.

This year, the haunted attraction located on Route 13 after the Saint George's bridge, will consist of the bloodcurdling Barn of Horror, the Terrifying Idalia Manor, and the Dark Millennium Hayride.

Also on the agenda is the Scare Crows Revenge, a nighttime haunted corn field where terror lurks around every corner.

New this year is a huge non-scary daytime corn maze to challenge your sense of direction. There will be plenty of children's activities, such as hayrides, pumpkin picking, pony rides, face painting and crafts.

Refreshments along with daytime activities will be available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. A costume contest will be held on Saturday. Oct. 28

Activity tickets are available at the gate. Cost for activities are as follows: Dark Millennium Haunted Hayride - $12, Idalia Manor and Barn of Horror - $8 each, Scarecrow's Revenge Corn Maze - $5, Carnival Amusements - $5 and Live Entertainment is Free

A Frightland Pass can be purchased for $20 and includes all the attractions. Discount coupons are available at participating Arby's restaurants.

Nationally known magician, Jim O'Rear, who has opened for such greats as David Copperfield and Harry Balckstone Jr, as well as touring with Cheap Trick and John Anderson, will be appearing at Frightland.

The month-long event attracts thousands from Delaware and the surrounding states, and includes scary happenings, as well as amusement rides for all ages.

Frightland also has an outdoor stage for live entertainment, including Delirium Theory every weekend in October. The popular Newark-area band will be selling their debut CD, "Serve Me Up", and band t-shirts at all performances.

Admission to Frightland is also the ticket to the shows which includes opening acts on several dates. The band schedule is as follows:

Oct. 6 - 8 - Delirium Theory - 7 p.m. to closing Oct. 13 - 14 - Mudsplash Bullfrog - 7 to 9 p.m. and Delirium Theory - 9:30 p.m. to closing

Oct. 19 - 20 - Delirium Theory - 7 p.m. to closing

Oct. 21 - Gypsy Sullivan - 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Delirium Theory - 9:45 p.m. to closing Oct. 27 - Delirium Theory - 7 to 9:30 p.m. and

Daze Alone - 10 p.m. to closing

Oct. 28 - Delirium Theory - 7 p.m. to closing. Frightland - Terror 2000 will be open at 7 p.m. on the weekends from Oct. 6 through Oct. 29 and Oct. 19, 25, and 26.

Main Street photo exhibition now on tour through state

More than 50 images from the first Delaware Main Street photo contest, "Snapshots of Main Street," are now part of a traveling exhibition hosted by each of Delaware's seven Main Street towns. The exhibit will be on display through Nov. 10 at Copy Maven on Main Street in Newark.

Local winners include: "Architecture" - First Place, Albert Loyola, Newark; "Everyday" - Second Place. Christina Kershaw, Newark: and "Festivals" - Second Place, Raymond K, Hibbs, Newark. "We created 'Snapshots of Main Street' to increase awareness of Delaware's small towns and to encourage participation from the grassroots level in communities throughout the state," said Diane Laird, Delaware Main Street staff person and photo contest administrator. "We'll be holding the contest again in 2001, so we encourage Delawareans to begin capturing glimpses of their favorite main street now. "Snapshots of Main Street" submissions were judged by representatives of the State Historic Preservation Office. the Delaware Tourism Office, and the University of Delaware's Center for Historic Architecture and Design.

The exhibit is being sponsored, in part, by a grant from the Delaware Division of the Arts. Main Street businesses that donated prizes to the contest include Caffe Sarijevo, Capitol Cleaners, Delaware City Soap Company, Forney's Jewelers, Home Grown, Merle Norman Cosmetics, Minster's Jewelers, PNC Bank, Stewart's Awards and Imprints, and Waterworks Cafe.

The Delaware Tourism Office promotes tourism and economic growth in Delaware and works to preserve the state's cultural and natural resources. For more information, call (800) 441-8846.

'Family Feud' goes to college

Richard Dawson won't be emceeing, but from 5-7 p.m., on Monday, Oct. 16, teams representing University of Delaware registered student organizations will try to read the minds of their peers in a "Family Feud" type competition. The event will be held in the Scrounge of the Perkins Student Center on Academy Street in Newark and is free and open to the public. During the four-hour feud, 48 teams of five students each will have 20 minutes to guess how other students responded to questions like "what is America's favorite soft drink?"

Life Insurance Needs

Is life insurance a product of the past or will it stand the test of time?

The Most recent (1992) comprehensive study by the Life Insurance Marketing Research Association indicates there are 40 million U.S. household members of which say they need more life insurance.

Why do they believe they need more life insurance? They want to protect basic needs we all share - a way for surviving families to pay final expense such as funeral/burial expenses, paying the mortgage so the survivors can maintain their residence and lifestyle and providing money for survivors to live on.

Are the actions you are taking now going to provide adequate financial security? You may wish to ask yourself:

- . How did I determine the amount of coverage I currently have?
- What is important to the well being of the family?
- Is there enough money saved to pay final expenses including burial, unexpected medical bills, debts and attorney fees?
- · Do plans call for survivors remaining in the home?
- · How much money will survivors need each month and how long will it be needed?

With these questions in mind, your insurance advisor can assist in reviewing existing coverages, determining the precise amount of coverage each family member needs, and suggesting methods to adjust the current coverages accordingly.

For coverage of your home, car, business and life, call Michael Alpaugh.

Newark High v-ball falls to Ursuline

Despite loss, Jackets still doing well By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Although the Newark High dropped its Monday match against Ursuline, the Yellowjackets had a fine September.

Newark posted a 5-2 overall mark and a 5-1 record in Flight A. The Yellowjackets only conference loss game in a tight threegame match with Brandywine.

said Newark coach Lisa Phipps Ueltzhoffer. "We've been meshing well, we have good team players that do what's best for the team.

proved to be too tough a match on Monday night. It didn't help Newark that senior captain Nicole Wroten had to leave the match just a couple of points into the first game with an injured

Ursuline jumped to a 9-3 lead in the first game before the Jackets fought back to within 9-6. The Raiders, though, scored the game's last six points for the victory.

Newark fighting back to within 9-6 and then another run by the Raiders. Ursuline closed game two out with a 15-8 win.

Newark was led statistically by Caitlin McIntosh with three seven digs and five perfect passes. Kristen Mitchell had four digs and Annika Huffman had three kills and two digs.

"Last year we upset [Ursuline]," Phipps Ueltzhoffer said. "They were ready for us this year. But it's always good to play a higher caliber team. It's good to see what that next level of play is like. I think if we play our best we can get there."

Phipps Ueltzhoffer pointed to her team's two-game thrashing of Flight A rival William Penn as how far the team has come along.

over the years. If the Spartans' four straight state championships aren't enough proof then maybe the fact that they have won 41 straight matches is. That's right, St. Mark's 4-0 win over St. Elizabeth Tuesday was the 41st consecutive win for St. Mark's Sure, I know the Spartans have great talent. I've heard all the opposing coaches tell me so.

Talent is

wonderful, but it takes inspired talent to win all the time. It's easy to get excited to play in the state tournament. It's a little harder to play game-in and game-out during the regular season.

St. Mark's doesn't lose the games that it's supposed to win. There aren't many teams at any talent level that can say that. With that kind of talent it could be easy to have a let down in a meaningless regular season game. The Spartans, however, just keep winning.

Now, that record may be tested Saturday against Holy Cross (N.Y.). This team is a New York state power and the Spartans will be playing it Saturday at noon at the University of Delaware. It should be more than a good test for St. Mark's.

Defense, defense

It's mind boggling right now how good the University of Delaware football team's defense is. The Blue Hens are giving up just over four points per game. That's the best in the nation in I-AA or I-A. They are also ranked high in total defense Offensively, they are running at a pretty good clip too, averaging 47 points per game Delaware's offense, however, always seems to be good. It's when the Hens play tough defense that they step up to be a championship contender. This team is clearly that as it is 5-0 heading into Saturday's game against Richmond. If fans want to see a championship football team, this may be the year to get out and see a few Delaware games.

After being shutout by Salesianum, the William Penn football team was looking to rebound against St. Mark's. Boy, did it ever.

The Colonials scored early and often on its way to a dominating 42-0 victory over the Spartans Friday night at Baynard Stadium. The win improved William Penn's record to 2-1 on the season while the Spartans dropped to 2-2. William Penn set the tone for the night on its opening drive. The Colonials drove 74 yards in nine plays with quarterback Felix Wilkins capping the march with a three-yard touchdown run.

After forcing St. Mark's to punt after just three offensive plays, it took William Penn just one play to get back on the scoreboard.

Wilkins threw a perfect 63yard scoring pass down the left sideline to Jason Rogers, who stayed in bounds and sprinted into the end zone.

St. Mark's was again forced to punt after three offensive plays and gave Wilkins and Rogers a chance to hook up again. This time, after a holding penalty on the series' first play, the duo con-

Flight A season opens

The Flight A football season opens in earnest this weekend with Newark seeking a fourth straight conference championship.

The Yellowjackets, after a week off, will host Brandywine Friday night in an effort to extend the state's longest winning streak to 15 games.

Other local conference games include Glasgow hosting Alexis I. DuPont and Christiana traveling to Delcastle Saturday morning.

Speaking of Glasgow, have the Dragons had some bad luck or what?

Despite losing Friday afternoon 2-1 at Mount Pleasant, the Newark High field hockey team is off to its best start in years. The Yellowjackets have compiled a 5-1-1 overall record and, as of the beginning of the week, sat atop Flight A with a 3-0-1 record. The tie came against traditionally powerful William Penn.

Newark will continue its quest for a state tournament berth Friday afternoon at 3:45 at home against Dickinson.

Glasgow High tops Newark in Flight A soccer match

Dragons score three first half goals

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Games are more often won because of the simplest of things as opposed to the complex. Glasgow High's 3-1 victory over Flight A rival Newark came simply as the result of the Dragons being ready to play and the Yellowjackets weren't.

Glasgow scored two goals in the game's first six minutes and added another in the 13th to provide all the scoring it would need to improve its record to 5-1-1 on the season. More than the goals, however, it was the Dragons who had all the play. They appeared quicker, stronger and more inspired as they got all the 50/50 balls and had the higher ranked Jackets back on their heels.

"We played a big game a couple weeks ago down in Dover and lost 3-2," said Glasgow coach Bob Bussiere. "We're not young, but we are inexperienced. We seemed to be flat and played a little scared. This time we were determined to take the play to them. We wanted to impose our style right from the beginning.

"We were able to do that and got the goals. Now, I think we wore ourselves out, but we got enough goals to get the job done Glasgow's first goal came on a header from right in front of the goal by Mike Ruggiano on a cross from Justin Esposito. A minute later Glasgow improved the lead to 2-0 on a goal by Tolu Olowalafe.

Newark then showed signs of life as Mike Holsey tapped home a deflected shot to cut the Dragons' lead to 2-1 in the 12th minute.

The Dragons, though, answered immediately.

Matt Goff hit a rocket from 25 yards out that just barely cleared the outstretched arms of the Newark goalkeeper and then just barely snuck under the crossbar.

"That was a great goal,"

Bussiere said. "That was also a much needed one. To answer that quickly was huge for us. I think maybe if we go to halftime with just a 2-1 lead that Newark is able to come back on us." The loss dropped Newark to 4-2-1 on the season.

"I foresaw this," Newark coach Hugh Mitchell said. "We did not have a very good practice the day before the game. We just kind of went through the motions. It's my job as a coach to have the team ready to play and we weren't ready. I give Glasgow credit. They were definitely ready to play and they came out and took it to us.'

For Glasgow, the win contin-ued a somewhat of a surprising start to the season after losing so many quality players from last year's team.

"This team has worked so hard," Bussiere said. "They've done an incredible job. I think to beat a team like Newark - in a conference game against our sister school and a team that's ranked No. 3 in the state - validates us as a good team. Now, the trick is to see if we can stay there."

nected on a 78-vard touchdown pass. All of a sudden, with 2:59 still to play in the first quarter, the score was 21-0 and the rout was on.

The scenario remained the same for another two series as the game moved to the second

ATHLETE OF WEEK

Blue Hens keep on torrid pace

UD posts third shutout, preps for Richmond

By MARTY VALANIA

The season just keeps getting impressive for the more University of Delaware football team

Although it's only the first week of October, the Blue Hens have already posted five routs including 38-0, 42-0 and 84-0 scores. The team is ranked first nationally in scoring defense (4.2 points per game) and second in total defense (173.2 yards per game). Both of those totals lead all Division I-A and I-AA teams. Delaware also ranks first nationally in I-AA in total offense (497.6) and is No. 2 in scoring offense (47.7). It is the only team in I-AA ranked in the top 15 nationally in both total offense and total defense. And the only team to rank in the top five in both scoring offense and scoring defense.

The numbers are staggering but it's still only October - and it promises to be as difficult as the Atlantic-10 can offer from here on out

A trip to No. 16 Richmond is next for the Hens.

The Spiders are 3-1 with wins over UMass and Division I-A Arkansas State to their credit. Their only loss came at the hands of the University of Virginia.

"They will have them ready," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond of Richmond coach Jim Reid and his staff. "They'll be wild - season ending stuff we have to get ready for that."

Last week's Richmond victory over Arkansas State was all the more impressive considering the Spiders trailed 27-7 in the fourth quarter on the road. Richmond, though, scored the game's last 23 points to secure the victory.

10's top-rated rushing offense into Saturday's contest. The Spiders have racked up an impressive 260 yards per game on the ground. Delaware is right behind them with 258 yards per game.

The Spiders also have a strong rushing defense, allowing just 93 yards per game.

As good as that total is, however, Delaware has allowed just 56 yards per game on the ground and dominates many of the other conference and national statis-

"If there's a weakness on the entire football team, I'd like to know what it is," said Reid who holds just a 2-9 record against at Delaware as both the Richmond and UMass head coach. "It's the best Delaware team I've seen going back to 1980."

If other coaches are laying those types of compliments on the Hens, it's no wonder that many fans are just as excited.

The only caution flags that can be waved are that it's still early October and there are still william & Mary, James Madison, New Hampshire, UMass and Villanova. Richmond, JMU and Villanova are all 3-1. New Hampshire is 4-I and UMass is still just two seasons removed from a national championship.

quarter. St. Mark's ran three offensive plays, punted and William Penn moved the ball into the end zone. This time it was a 49-yard drive with a 24-yard Wilkins to Rob Edwards touchdown pass being the capper.

'We decided we were going to come out and play hard," said William Penn coach Bruce Reynolds. "We worked and wanted to be aggressive. St. Mark's is a good football team and we knew they came back to win against a good Christiana team. We also wanted to go out and finish the job."

Finish it they did. William Penn tacked on two more touchdowns in the second half to provide the final margin.

"We talked all week how we can't take a play off," Reynolds play."

'That was a great goal," said Glasgow coach Bob Bussiere. "It was a great shot and, more importantly, gave us back our two goal lead. I think, maybe, if we only get to halftime up 2-1, that Newark comes back to tie the game or maybe even win it. That was huge for us.

Instead it was the Dragons that kept their two goal lead to the end.

International, October 27-30 at the Fair Hill Natural Resources Area, will welcome home the United States Equestrian Team's Olympic Eventing athletes, fresh from their remarkable showing at the Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

Topping the list will be individual Gold Medalist and 1999 Fair Hill champion David O'Connor, who became the first U.S. equestrian to earn an Olympic Gold medal since 1984. O'Connor, who also won team Bronze in Sydney, will be joined by his Bronze Medal teammates--wife Karen O'Connor, Nina Fout, and Linden Wiesman, as well as individual eventing riders Robert Costello and Julie Black, both of whom placed in the top ten in Sydney. These Olympic stars will be honored during a ceremony in the main arena at the Fair Hill International on Sunday, October 29.

The Fair Hill International returns to the majestic Maryland countryside bringing world-class equestrian competition in eventing and combined driving to the Fair Hill Natural Resources Area for four days of thrilling action, family entertainment, unique shopping, and

The 12th annual Fair Hill fun for all. Exciting competitions include the Cosequin/ USET Fall Three-Day-Event (CCI) Championship, the USET Four-In-Hand Driving Championship, the USET Pairs Driving Championship, and the final leg of the Jaguar Triple Crown of Combined Driving.

In addition to the worldclass equestrian competition, families can enjoy the "Festival in the Country" which features Country Shops, a Classic Car Exhibition, Breyer Model Horse Show and specialty foods. Spectators will enjoy watching the exciting United States Dog Agility Association (USDAA) Dog Agility Trials and Masters National Team Championship.

Make plans now to attend the Fair Hill International, and find out for yourself why this extraordinary event received the Cecil County Chamber of Commerce "2000 Tourism-Award." POST PICKS OF THE WEEK night at Hoffman Stadium, 7. The Jackets have been rolling through the opposition in this early part of the season while Brandywine has struggled. Newark ripped Salesianum and the Sals went on to beat Brandywine pretty badly. The only question here is whether the week off took any steam out of Newark's intensity. The hunch here is that this team will continue its winning streak. The Pick: Newark 27, Brandywine 6.

GLASGOW (0-3) VS. ALEX-IS I. DUPONT (0-3) - Friday night at Glasgow, 7. This is the perfect opportunity for the Dragons to get healthy. They've had some tough luck and have played some very good teams so far this season. Glasgow needs to come out and show it's a better team than its record indicates. We feel Coach DelPercio's troops will do that. The Pick: Glasgow 20, AI 14.

RESTAURANT & BANQUET HALL

CHRISTIANA (1-2) AT DEL-CASTLE (3-0) – Saturday morning at Delcastle, 10:30. This is a big game for the Vikings. They finally got a win and then had a week off. They entered the season highly touted and, after getting that monkey off their back, must show they can still win Flight A. The Cougars are much improved, having won all three of their games so far. This should be a very competitive game. Christiana, though, needs this victory

26, Delcastle 15. ST. MARK'S (2-2) AT DOVER (4-0) – Friday night at Dover, 7:30. The Spartans are reeling after two straight lopsided losses to powerhouses Newark and William Penn. Unfortunately, the task isn't much easier this week. Dover is undefeated and shooting for a state tournament berth of its own. If healthy, St. Mark's has a great chance of knocking off the Senators. But after the last two weeks, it's going to be difficult. The Pick: Dover

more. The Pick: Christiana

21, St. Mark's 20.

HODGSON (3-1) VS. HOWARD (1-2) - Saturday morning at Hodgson, 10:30. This is a big Flight B game for both teams. The Silver Eagles need to keep winning if they want to win the conference or get an at-large berth to the state tournament. Howard has stumbled a bit out of the blocks but still is dangerous. Hodgson, though, knows it needs to keep getting better as Middletown is up next on the schedule. The Pick: Hodgson 22, Howard CARAVEL (2-2) AT INTER-BORO (Pa.) - Friday night at Interboro, 7:30. The chore doesn't get any easier for the Bucs. Interboro, coached by former Dickinson coach Steve Lennox, has been a powerhouse in Southeastern Pa. high school football for several years now. Caravel needs to somehow get a victory if it wants to stay in high contention for a state tournament berth. This would be a big victory to get. Interboro, though, may be just too tough. The Pick: Interboro 21, Caravel 15.

Spartans earn 41st straight win By JOE BACKER

........................ NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITEB

The St. Mark's soccer team maintained its mastery over all competition with a dominating 4-0 whitewashing of previously undefeated St. Elizabeth Tuesday afternoon on the Spartans' home turf.

The victory was the unbeaten Spartans' seventh of the year and 41st in a row over the last twoand-a-half seasons.

"It's nice to know that they are past the 39-game streak (held by Concord), it would have been a shame to come close and not get the record," said St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis.

DeMatteis added that his team just wants to make sure it wins the last four games of the season and bring home its fifth straight state championship.

After an indecisive opening 10 minutes, the Spartans began to display their offensive prowess, forcing the Vikings into numerous turnovers and mistakes. Senior forward Adam Stuller finally broke the scoreless game with a goal 34 minutes into the first half. Four minutes later Spartan senior Nolan Dzielak banged in a goal to give St. Mark's a 2-0 halftime lead. About 10 minutes into the second half, Stuller scored his sec-ond goal of the game from in close off the right wing, stretching the lead to 3-0.

Sophomore forward Adam Smith finished the scoring with a goal midway through the second half Sussex Central, the Dragons score on their opening drive and then force the Knights to punt. Glasgow gets a good rush and forces the Central punter to start to run. A Glasgow hit again causes a fumble. And, just like against Christiana, a Knight picks up the ball deep in the backfield and races for a touchdown.

The play energized the to that oint lackluster Knights and just killed the Dragons.

The only silver lining for Glasgow is there can be no way that kind of luck can continue.

Volunteers needed for 'Oiled Wildlife'

Volunteers are needed at Tri-State Bird Rescue and Research Inc. to provide care for wildlife affected in local and regional oil spills.

For those interested, an Oil Spill Training Seminar will be held Saturday, Oct. 21 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Participants will learn bird-handling techniques, safety issues, cleaning proce-dures, and the rehabilitation needs of animals before and after the cleaning process. The seminar will be held at Tri-State's Frink Center for Wildlife, 110 Possum Hollow Road in Newark. Due to the unexpected nature of oil spills, trained volunteers are needed to respond on short notice. Volunteers must be 18 years old and available to work a minimum of three five-hour shifts over approximately a twoweek period during the next local oil spill response.

Providing care for wildlife affected by oil spills is challeng-ing work, but the rewards are great. For more information or to register for the seminar, please call Tri-State at 737-9543.
